

The Call to Convention

San Francisco, April 15, 1923

Dear Brothers:

The Grand Lodge has chosen Rochester, New York, as the city in which the 76th Annual Convention of Theta Delta Chi will be held.

There the hosts of Theta Delta Chi will gather on the 23rd of June, with the Powers Hotel as Convention headquarters, and there the Grand Lodge invites you and urges you to wend your way and join with others in our annual conclave. The complete Convention program is found elsewhere in this issue, and promises those who attend a full round, not only in business, but of fraternity pleasure.

Centrally located as it is, Rochester will draw an unusually large number of Thetes and the Grand Lodge sincerely hopes you will avail yourselves of this occasion to renew your fraternal ties. Not the least matter of interest will be the opening roll call, when for the first time since 1867, delegates from Alpha charge will answer when their names are called.

Naturally, the local committee needs advance information from those who will attend. While this is before you, will you not assist us by sending your reservation? No Thete ever regretted attending any convention, and our Rochester brothers will make this memorable in every way.

For the Grand Lodge,
FRANK H. BUCK, President

Ferris, while the certificate of election was read by another fraternity brother, the Rev. Dr. Homer Abiel Flint, administrative secretary of the Diocese of Pittsburgh. Bishop Mann was for seventeen years Rector of Trinity Church, Boston, and while there declined election to the Episcopate three times: in 1906 to be Bishop of Washington; in 1915 to be Suffragan Bishop of Newark; and in 1917 to be Bishop of Western Massachusetts. Zeta Holds a Convention of Her Own

To old Zeta, the Zeta of years and of youth, the Zeta of John Hay, the Zeta of dear old Uncle Billy Martin, the unfolding Zeta of nine happy initiates—to the Zeta around whose name cluster the fragrant memories of some of youth's happiest hours, to the perennial Zeta of friendships blooming down through the years!

A hundred brothers raised their glasses in reminiscent response to the toast. It was a festive night for Zeta. Her "Grand Old Man," Uncle Billy Martin, who has missed but two banquets since 1858, was in the seat of honor and as young as anyone present. Nine initiates were given a rousing reception as cheer after cheer rang around the hall in a vociferous welcome from the different delegations present, many of them 100 per cent. strong. Zeta's Initiation Banquet, held in Providence, February 24, was a memorable event, eclipsing all previous records. Old Zeta, now in the seventieth year since her establishment at Brown in 1858, doesn't figure in the psalmist's allotment of three score and ten, for the days of her years; never was she more vigorous and alive, as was evidenced by the fact that in a whirlwind finish to her great banquet she raised in an hour, from those present, nearly half the amount necessary to pay for a home worthy of her position at Brown, and in Theta Delta Chi.

For the post-prandial program, Frank Frost, Z '15, presided as toastmaster, and introduced first, Charles P. Schmid, Π^α '97, who responded to the toast "Zeta's Ideal." Carl, former editor of THE SHIELD, was eloquent in his tribute to John Hay, Z '58, emphasizing his eminent qualities of character and lauding his life as an ideal for emulation by all Theta Deltas.

"Zeta in the Great Adventure" was the toast which afforded Bob Chace, Z '11, an opportunity to make a stirring appeal proudly and gratefully to remember those Zeta brothers who served their country in the Great War.

Bob Emerson, Z '97, was in particularly happy vein in the toast "Zeta's Grand Old Man," and following his glowing tribute to Brother William D. Martin, Z '62, the whole assembly were spontaneously on their feet in an ovation to beloved Uncle Billy, which lasted several minutes. He was then called upon as the only one worthy to extend the formal welcome to Zeta's nine initiates, and in a brief address which was an inspiration to everyone present, with a ringing voice which belied his four score years, he congratulated the initiates and bade them Godspeed in their career in the fraternity which has enlisted his abiding loyalty and unfailing interest for sixty-five years.

Clement Winter Young, '26, responded for the initiates.

Numerous telegrams and letters were read from other brothers obliged to be absent, including a letter from Brother Charles M. Stead, Z '61.

At the conclusion of the formal program, the toastmaster turned the meeting over to Bob Foote, Z '17. Brother Bob, dressed for the part in a silk hat of the vintage of '67, a frock coat, verdant from honorable use, and his famous racetrack waistcoat, started the ball rolling with a bang. With Bob Emerson and Fred Arnold, Z '97, he outlined the campaign to raise funds for the new house. With the assistance of Newcombe, they kept things moving at a pace which constantly moved the hand of the big campaign clock. Enthusiasm continued unabated as pledges poured in, on notes bearing the portrait of Uncle Billy Martin. The initiates swelled the total with a handsome pledge, and cheers shook the hall when Uncle Billy announced his contribution which has been exceeded by no contributor. The fund subscribed was such as to constitute a big impetus to raise the whole sum desired to pay for a new house and properly furnish it, within a year.

The following brothers, in addition to the initiates, were present at the banquet:

J. H. Almy, Z '19; F. A. Arnold, Z '97; W. S. Barrett, Z '21; G. F. Bliven, Z '15; P. P. Borden, Z '21; A. F. Bowen, Z '19; Earl Bowen, Z '19; W. T. Brightman, Z '21; R. D. Case, Z '11; J. A. CURRENT EVENTS

An Inspiring Example of Fraternity Spirit

Isaac C. Witter, Σ^{Δ} '96, has the honor of being the first member of his charge to fully qualify as a founder of the Theta Delta Chi Club. The membership of Brother Witter brings the total number of founders of the club up to five. Frank Compton, Σ^{Δ} '98, has not fully qualified as a founder, but has promised to do so shortly, so that the Founders will soon number a half dozen.

Brother Witter is aptly known as the father of Sigma Deuteron. He seems to have a passion for founding things, for he is one of the charter members of the Sigma Deuteron. Then when it came time for a new Theta Delt house at Madison, he subscribed liberally, and it was due to his efforts and those of Brother George Meade, '94, that the new house was made possible. Brother Witter is president of the First National Bank at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

The true spirit of the man may be judged from the following extract from a recent letter.

I had the honor of being one of the charter members of Sigma Deuteron, which was organized in Wisconsin in May, 1895. I have always been thoroughly interested in the fraternity since that time, and have never left a stone unturned when I felt that I could further its interests. I had the very great pleasure and satisfaction two weeks ago to go down to Madison, to be present at the initiation ceremonies of this year's class. My son, Jere D. Witter, was one of the initiates, and was the first son of a Sigma Deut man to be initiated into the fraternity. You cannot imagine the satisfaction and the pride which it gave me to be able to attend this initiation, and see my son taking the same vows which I had taken twenty-eight years previously. I shall not soon forget the experience.

Brother Boyce Smith seemed to be very much interested in the fact that I was desirous of becoming one of the founder members of the Theta Delta Chi Club, and seemed pleased that I took up my membership at once. As a matter of fact, I have been very much interested in the Theta Delta Chi Club since its organization, and should have offered my contribution earlier, except for the fact that Brother Mead, who is a brother-in-law of mine, and myself were standing back of the fraternity at Madison, Sigma Deuteron, in helping them finance their new house proposition, and I did not feel at that time that I could do both. However, as soon as it was possible, I made application and was very much pleased to know that I was still in line to be rated as one of the Founders.

I had supposed that Frank Compton had first honors from Sigma Deuteron as a Founder member, but Brother Smith tells me that I was misinformed. I deem it a great honor and I am a bit surprised that more members of the fraternity are not availing themselves of the opportunity in helping further this very splendid movement. We certainly have needed a club in New York for many, many years. New York is really the hub of the United States, and it should be the place for our fraternity archives and for a paid secretary, who is devoting his entire time to the fraternity.

I had understood that Brother Norman Hackett had considered taking up this work. Norm is an old friend of mine, and has been much about the United States and is acquainted with nearly all of the charges of our beloved fraternity, and it would seem if he would entertain the proposition at all, that he would be an ideal man for the place.

Billingsley, Rho Deut '08 Looks for Lead

One of the younger generation of Theta Delts, who has made an outstanding success in a rather unusual line, is Paul Billingsley, ρ^{Δ} '08. He always had a consuming passion for out-of-doors. When an undergraduate at Columbia, he was captain of the varsity soccer team, while for indoor sports, he was manager of the Rho Deuteron house. He usually spent his summers wandering through the Canadian wilds with all the zest of the native Indian, and with a decided resemblance to that noble creature in both physical appearance and costume.

Early in his college course, Brother Billingsley specialized in geology, developing a passion for this subject, which pointed the way to his life work. As a result of it, he has developed a very peculiar specialty of his own. "I might be called," he says, "a sort of organizer of geological work."

Brother Billingsley went west shortly after graduation, and was engaged in various geological work with the Guggenheim interests in Montana. His big chance came in 1917, when the Calumet and Arizona Copper Company of Bisbee, Arizona, which is more or less affiliated with Anaconda, wished to install modern geological methods to assist in finding ore bodies, and he was sent down to organize the work and get it started. Of course, the war interrupted this work, and Brother Billingsley, although married and a father of three children, offered his services to his country, and was sent to Washington, where he occupied a responsible position on the General Staff.

One of his hobbies was the studying of military campaigns and battle manoeuvres and the unusual knowledge gained by these studies, made him a valuable member of the General Staff of the United States army during the war. After leaving the army in the spring of 1919, he was put in charge of the exploration work for Anaconda in the Northwest. He established his office in Seattle, and moved his family there and purchased a lovely old farm on Puget Sound, where he could conquer the untamed wilderness and convert it into a veritable garden of Eden in the intervals when he would be at home between his strenuous business trips.

The exploration work of which he had charge, involved examination of mines all the way from Arizona to Hudson Bay. In the meantime, he had recommended to his company, that they drill some wells in the Cat Creek region in Montana. They did so, and when this developed into a productive oil field, his company (rather much to its surprise) found itself with considerable oil interests on its hands. The geologist-pro prospector responsible for this discovery was accordingly recalled temporarily from the coast and put in charge of the oil exploration branch of the company. He organized a department to carry on the work, and spent most of the winter of 1920-21, and the summer of 1921 in the fields of Montana, Wyoming and Utah, supervising oil structures. In October, 1921, his company sold out this oil interest to the Standard Oil, and folded its tents and departed from the oil field. Brother Billingsley doesn't admit it, but from the narrative it strikes us that Anaconda is considerably beholden to him for having put his finger on the spot, where that oil could be found. At any rate, they seem to be realizing that they have in him a valuable man, and a pretty reliable prospector.

Having succeeded in oil, they have now turned him loose on lead, giving him the problem of finding lead ore in the tributary region to Salt Lake in Utah, Nevada and Idaho, and thus securing a greater tonnage for the International Smelting Co., another Anaconda subsidiary. Quite a sizeable job, it seems to us, for a young man 34 years of age. Anyhow, Brother Billingsley was switched down to Salt Lake City, where the Utah branch of the geological department of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company operates, and at last accounts, he was neck deep in the job of finding more lead ore and looking forward to the time when he could rejoin his family on the Puget Sound farm with its 52 acres, 700 feet of salt water beach, orchard, creek and virgin forest, including old firs 200 feet high and 16 feet in diameter. With the aid of a caterpillar tractor, he is "clearing and improving" about 15 acres of the farm to be planted in grapes, loganberries, etc. If any itinerant brother wanders any where near Seattle, it would certainly be a treat for him to run out to Portage and enjoy the hospitality of the Billingsley farm, and we are sure if Brother Billingsley himself is so fortunate as to be home on the family estate, such itinerant brother would receive a right royal Theta Delt welcome.

Rev. Dr. John J. McCook, Pi '62, Retires

The Rev. Dr. John J. McCook, Pi '62, professor of modern languages at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., for forty years, has tendered his resignation to take place June, 1923.

Professor McCook, who has taken an active part in civic affairs throughout his long residence in Hartford, will celebrate in June, the sixtieth anniversary of his graduation from Trinity. He was 80 years old, February 2.

President Remsen B. Ogilby, of Trinity, in announcing Dr. McCook's resignation, made the following statement:

The Rev. John James McCook, professor of modern languages at Trinity college, has sent in his resignation to take effect at the end of the present academic year.

It was with keen regret that we received this resignation. Dr. McCook is teaching a full schedule of classes in German and with the ripe wisdom and keen scholarship that has come to him from many years of teaching and studying, his classes are of inestimable value to the students and the college. It is easy to understand, however, that a man, who has served his college as long and as faithfully as Dr. McCook should be eager to retire while his eye is undimmed and his natural force unabated. Surely, if any man has a right to lay down his active work and spend the rest of his life without the relentless grind of daily teaching, Dr. McCook has.

The coming centennial of the college in June, marks also the sixtieth anniversary of his graduation from Trinity college. Of all the honored graduates of our college, who have served her in many ways, Dr. McCook stands second to none.

Forty years ago, when he was appointed professor of modern languages, it was simply to teach French. Of his own initiative, he added German and, at different times, Italian and Spanish, gradually receiving aid by the appointment of other instructors to share with him in the teaching of languages. He has taken a regular part in the conduction of the chapel services and for a long time, conducted regular courses in religious education. Even all this was not sufficient for his tireless energy, and when the college faced financial difficulties a number of years ago, he single-handed, raised a large sum of money for the endowment of the college.

With the courtesy towards the administration, which has always characterized his service, he has sent in his resignation in order that ample time may be given for providing for the needs of his department. As to the question of filling his place, that cannot be done. Trinity college will have to add many centuries to her age before she can ever secure such faithful service as that of this, her loyal son.

Dr. McCook is taking an active interest in the Trinity Centennial fund campaign, for which he has been working hard for several months.

Dr. McCook was born in Lisbon, Ohio, February 2, 1843, the son of Dr. John and Catherine Julia (Sheldon) McCook. He commenced his college education at Jefferson college and in 1860, left to study law for a year, going to Trinity in 1861, and graduating in 1863 with the degree of B. A. He joined the army and served through the last of the Civil War as second lieutenant in the First Virginia infantry. He afterwards studied at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia, coming back to Trinity in 1866 to secure his master's degree. He also holds the honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Berkeley Divinity school, and doctor of laws from Trinity.

In 1866, he was made deacon of the Protestant Episcopal church, and the following year was ordained priest. He was rector of St. John's church in East Hartford for the year of 1866-67, and left to become rector of St. John's in Detroit, Mich. In 1869 he returned to again take charge of his old parish in East Hartford, which he has retained ever since. Before its suspension, he was editor of the Church Weekly.

Dr. McCook is president of the Connecticut Beta of the Phi Beta Kappa, and he is a member of the Loyal legion and the G. A. R.

His connection with Trinity began in 1883, and at that time, he was in charge of the entire modern language department, teaching French and German. Through his efforts, Spanish and Italian have been added to the curriculum, and he has at certain times taught both.

"Pop" Twitmeyer Invents Mechanical Marvel to Test Color Psychology

The following clipping from the Philadelphia Public Ledger, of March 13, tells its own story.

A problem which defied the efforts of German scientists for many years has been solved at the University of Pennsylvania, by the invention of a machine for testing the psychology of color.

The study of color is important to the advertising and textile trades, and the new machine permits more delicate determinations of effects than had hitherto been possible. It is called the Twitmeyer Two-way Color Machine, after its inventor, Prof. Edwin B. Twitmeyer, of the Department of Psychology at the University.

The unique feature of the machine is that it permits very nice adjustments of color relations to be made on a whirling disk which is all the while in motion. For instance, a yellow disc is placed on the machine and a blue one placed partly over it. The two colors blend, and the proportions of each may be shifted by the operator without stopping the whirling of the disk, through the action of an ingenious system of cams and levers. A graduated scale at the top gives the exact proportions of the two colors used.

Dr. Twitmeyer has been working on the machine for two years. He says he will not patent it, but will let it be used freely for the advancement of science. Many psychological laboratories already are ordering machines.

When in use, a gray background is placed behind the whirling disk and a box-like arrangement fits over the front and allows a variation of lighting effects somewhat like those of the stage of a modern theatre. Many interesting color facts are clearly shown. For instance, a properly proportioned mixture of yellow and blue does not give green, but a plain gray, showing that the green usually obtained by mixing those colors is not a light effect.

Prof. Twitmeyer is also working on a three-way color machine, which will allow three colors to be mixed at once on a rotating disk. The mechanical difficulties are much greater in this machine than in the other, but he is confident of arriving at a successful solution. It is thought that many lines of business will find such a convenient method of mixing colors experimentally to be of great advantage. Textile manufacturers must seek pleasing tints and shades, and even at present, advertisers study color carefully in order to find striking combinations. Medical men find the theory of color useful in studying eye defects, and the ophthalmologists in the Graduate School of Medicine of the University take a course in the subject with Dr. Twitmeyer.

Movement to Revive Old Theta Charge

Under the heading, "Theta Delta Chi of Good Old Days May Return to Kenyon," there appears in the Kenyon Collegian of February 28, 1923, an article that tells of the purpose of Zeta Alpha to petition for the revival of the old Theta charge.

The article goes on to state that

The Theta charge died out in 1898 when the college, as many others, was at a very low ebb of existence. The charge died down to one active member, Warren Howard Mann—now sporting editor of the Chicago Evening Post, the author of "The Thrill" and "Ninety-Nine," who gave up the charter with the understanding that it was to be entrusted to Kenyon again when the college recuperated.

Thinking the college large enough, a few men founded Zeta Alpha in 1903 to petition for the charter. They continued as a local down to 1910, petitioning from time to time to no avail. When the petition was turned down in 1910 by the vote of one charge, the active members agreed to abandon their hopes until the college became larger still, since that seemed to be the only objection to reviving the charge at Kenyon.

This year the enrollment is about 150 per cent. greater than it was in 1910. With that increase there has been the addition of but one fraternity. Although there is not room in the dormitory just now for another fraternity, Zeta Alpha has undertaken organization and will live under hampered conditions until Leonard Hall provides ample room for all the men in college.

There is undoubtedly room for another fraternity at Kenyon and there are many Theta Delta alumni and many of them Kenyon men whose interest and support would lie in Kenyon if there were a charge of Theta Delta Chi here. Theta Delta Chi is the best fraternity to 'put' here at Kenyon, and Kenyon is the best place in Ohio to which Theta Delta Chi could entrust a charge to present a petition to Theta Delta Chi this June.

The following men are active members of the local fraternity now petitioning Theta Delta Chi: M. D. Campbell, Akron, H. L. Stock, Columbus, J. M. Thompson, Steubenville, E. A. Corns, East Liverpool, B. P. Lewis, Sharon, Pa., D. W. Miller, Fostoria, H. T. Slaughter, Cleveland.

More Responses to the Shield Call

The article in the February SHIELD, under the heading, "Eta Responds to Shield Call," certainly struck fire. And we have been getting sparks from that source ever since.

No sooner did the article appear, than Frank Winter, X '04, sent in sixteen subscriptions to boost Chi's total to respectable proportions, along with the word that by Convention, he would have twice as many more. Eta continues to lead in the race for the highest total. The twelve that she has turned in since the February issue places her well over the hundred mark and on her way to the second century. Tau Deuteron has been sending subscriptions and at least seven more Minnesotans will receive the April SHIELD than was the case in February.

Spurred on by the efforts of the other charges, Psi charge is sending out circular letters to her graduates. The result of their drive has been kept quiet, and the Hamilton charge will be the favored dark horse in the final drive for the Victory Cup in June.

The article brought a very indignant response from "Inch" Redfield, who has charge of the Phi Deuteron SHIELD subscriptions. To quote from his fiery epistle; "Before the February issue, the non-subscribers of the charge from the class of 1909 to 1921, inclusive, totaled sixteen and when you take into consideration that we only have a possible number of 73, that gives us 80 per cent. of the mailing list.

"To become personal in this matter, I have sent in thirty-nine subscriptions, new and re-renewal since January 1, 1922, and know that one other Phi Deut subscribed direct as a result of my letter to him.

"I keep a record of all Phi Deut's on a card index, with their addresses, and the date the SHIELD subscriptions expire. Last year I also had a record of who belonged to the club."

Including the subscriptions reported to the Theta Delta Chi Press up to April 1, the charges stood in the following order at that date. Let's get busy and see some action.

George S. Downing, "Hero of the Argonaut" Dies in San Francisco

The simple heroic tale of devotion to duty, that resulted in the sacrifice of the life of George Shapley Downing, P^Δ '12, is told in a news dispatch that appeared in the New York Times on March 1.

George Shapley Downing, 36, assistant superintendent of the Argonaut Mining Company, who earned the title of "the silent hero of the Argonaut disaster," died at a hospital here last night. Downing had been confined to his bed since September 18, 1922, the day the bodies of forty-six miners entombed in the Argonaut mine were brought to the surface.

After three weeks of almost incessant work in the attempt to rescue the entombed men, Downing collapsed as a result of the terrific strain, according to John B. Smith, secretary of the Argonaut company.

"Downing, despite his huge stature and rugged constitution broke under the intense labor he performed," Mr. Smith said. "From the heat of the 4,000-foot levels to the cold night air of the surface, he directed his men, and his unselfish attitude in never asking a man to do what he himself would not do, coupled with his innate modesty, earned for him the name of 'The Hero of the Argonaut'."

The following editorial comment appeared in the issue of March 2; under the heading, "The Hero of the Argonaut."

School children have read for generations the story of the leader of the Argonauts, who, going in search of the golden fleece, encountered the fire-breathing monsters which he yoked, overcame the dragon, and finally succeeded in his quest. A headline in yesterday's paper, made one wonder whether a new Jason had ventured his life out on the golden coasts of New-World Argonauts. The story of the modern adventure is one that had as great heroism in it as that of the ancient myth. The world listened every morning in early September for the voices of the imprisoned miners at the Argonaut mine in California. The tragic, vain struggle of the forty-seven against the poisoned air that the flames let loose, has been inferred from the improvised defences and the dying postures of the men found at the end of twenty-two days in the mute "gold-veined" cavern.

There were heroic men battling outside, too, trying to pierce the rock that separated this mine from a neighboring shaft, and to give their fellows release. One of these, George S. Downing, a young man of New York parentage, whose father has for years been the State Commissioner for higher education in this state, is mentioned in the dispatches as the "hero of the Argonaut disaster", because of his intense and incessant labor in leading and working with his men in the attempted rescue. He has died as a result of the terrific strain of the three weeks of tense exertion and anxiety, which in the end but uncovered the tragedy. He was not able to go to fight in France during the great war, but he showed himself in peace worthy the comradeship of those who perished there and of those who "from every region of Aegea's shore" assembled for the first Argonautic expedition.

Still another clipping from the New York Times shows a different side of Downing. James C. Rice, the veteran rowing mentor, awards Downing the honor of being the greatest oarsman ever developed at Columbia.

"Who was the greatest crew man ever developed at Columbia?"

That question recently was put to James C. Rice, coach of Columbia crews for eighteen years. Rice, looking as fit as any of the college youths on the squad, hesitated a moment and then replied: "I guess that honor should go to George S. Downing." Downing died recently in a heroic attempt to save entombed miners at the Argonaut Mine. He rowed stroke oar on the Columbia crews of 1911-12-13.

"I well remember when Downing came out for the freshman crew in 1910," said Rice. "He was a tall, lanky fellow, standing six feet and weighing only 142 pounds. But during the next few months he took on weight and was soon tipping the scales at 170 pounds. He had a big trunk and short legs, and it was a marvelous sight to watch him row.

"Downing was perfection in crew material. I never saw a fellow who could gauge a pace as easily as he could. Not only could he change from eighteen to almost any stroke selected, but he was easy to follow. He was an ideal stroke. His leg drive was wonderful and his form was beautiful. And fight—that man did not know what it meant to be defeated." Rice said.

Rice told how Downing had been rowing at No. 2 in his freshman year, until the crews went to Poughkeepsie. There the stroke of the yearling boat was taken sick, and another man had to be sent to his place. Rice always knows his material and he didn't hesitate a moment in shifting Downing to the position. From then on, Downing proved to be one of the greatest strokes ever developed.

In 1912, with Downing stroking the boat, Columbia won the Childs Cup race. The next year, 1913, the Childs Cup event was not held. Instead a triangular meet between the Navy, Princeton and Columbia took place. Columbia, with Downing setting the pace, rowed to one of the greatest victories in Blue and White rowing history, when it defeated the strong Navy and Princeton crews by three lengths.

Reviews of Two Recent Books by Theta Deltis

Included among the recent book reviews are two of particular interest to Theta Deltis. The first of these books is in verse, and owes its authorship to Cameron Mann, Ξ '70, Bishop of Southern Florida. It is entitled, The Longing of Circe and Other Poems, and is printed in a small private edition.

Dr. Ozora S. Davis, O^A '89, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary, is the author of the other book. It is devoted to theological subjects and bears the title, Preaching the Social Gospel. Both books have received much favorable comment from the reviewers.

The Longing of Circe, and Other Poems. By Cameron Mann, Ξ '70. New York: Privately printed.

The Bishop of South Florida, doubtless feeling the callous indifference of the general public towards poetry as such, has had his little volume of verse privately printed, and in but a small edition only.

But the poem that gives the volume its title is excellent, and is worthy to admit the writer to the company of the early Victorians. The two following poems will bear it company. There are some excellent sonnets: notably two Easter Sonnets—although the Bishop departs from the strict Petrarchan form—and In Memoriam.

One notices that Bishop Mann has reacted more fully to his Western experiences than to Florida. It may be because the prairies and mountains have more color and freedom than the drab Southern swamps.

Preaching the Social Gospel. By Ozora S. Davis, O^A'89, New York: Fleming H. Revell Co. $1.50.

The president of the Chicago Theological Seminary aims here to show that the Old Gospel is not supplanted by the New Religion, but that the Bible and the Gospel grow richer under the Social interpretation. We have had many books on the Social Gospel; this is designed to show how to preach it sanely and yet with power; in balanced judgment, not with rampageous indiscretion; with some knowledge of what it really is, not in hasty exuberance after taking a rapid glance at some of its modern prophets.

Kappa Deut Directory No. 1, January 1, 1923

Under the modest heading of "Directory of Kappa Deuteron Charge of Theta Delta Chi," comes another creditable publication to add to the credit of the Illinois charge. The booklet contains the name and address as well as the class of each of the 168 members of the Kappa Deuteron. The list is corrected to January 1, 1923.

The preface states that as it is the first edition of the Directory, it is necessarily incomplete, but the intention is to revise the Directory through the aid of the graduates. Space is left after each name for the insertion of corrections, which will be published from time to time in the "House Dope." The directory is invaluable to every Kappa Deut man, and other charges would do well to follow their example. H. S. Hasworth, '22, had charge of the compilation.

Donald McMillan in Pittsburgh

On the evening of February 12, Donald McMillan, H '97, was the star attraction in the course of lectures and entertainments given for its members and friends by the University Club of Pittsburgh.

The story of Brother McMillan's work in the Arctic and the wonderful moving pictures of the life under the midnight sun, were greeted with the greatest enthusiasm by a very large audience.

Pittsburgh Theta Delts had not before had an opportunity to hear and meet Brother McMillan, so when it was found that he could arrange his time to attend, a dinner was decided upon, and Fred Tim, Φ '01, with that unflinching energy which, it is understood is due to an intricate system of calories, grasped his trusty telephone and broadcasted the invitation to meet Brother McMillan in the private dining room of the University Club before the lecture.

It is needless to say that every one of the fifteen Theta Delts who sat at the dinner table with Brother McMillan enjoyed each minute of the two hours that we had with him, and only hope that the next time he comes to Pittsburgh, we will have more notice, so that three times as many brothers may be present to greet him.

The following men attended the dinner:

J. F. Tim, Φ'01; A. F. Hovey, Φ '95; E. N. Prugh, B '19; Chauncey Lobingier, Φ '96; A. P. Hays, Φ '10; W. C. Hawley, Δ '86; J. F. Drake, O^Δ '02; S. B. Hays, Φ '21; J. H. Hoeverler, Φ '13; W. H. Rush, Φ '03; J. J. McAdoo, Θ '96; C. W. Wilder, Λ '99; S. W. Collins, Σ^Δ '05; K. Winship, O^Δ '13; G. S. Cooper, X^Δ '18; and the guest of honor Capt. Donald B. McMillan, H '97.

Johnny Lees Marries Quietly

Great was the surprise of Nu Deuteron recently when they discovered that Johnny Lees, Lehigh's pride and joy, was a married man. Moreover, he had been married since last summer. After congratulations had been given, and when asked why he hadn't told us, John made the excuse that he didn't want to bother the brothers with any uninteresting details. He was the same modest and unassuming Johnny, as when he first entered Lehigh, nearly four years ago, to begin his very eventful college career.

Johnny Lees entered Lehigh with the class of 1923. He easily made the varsity basketball team, playing center the entire season. He had been a catcher in prep school, but the baseball coach recognized pitching ability, so Johnny became a pitcher.

Sophomore year found him again playing center on the basketball team, and in the spring was Lehigh's best pitcher. He also led the team in batting. He was elected to Phi, honorary sophomore society, and was athletic representative for the sophomore class on the athletic board.

In his junior year Johnny started out to win a letter in football. After playing varsity halfback for the first two weeks of the season, Coach Keady forbade him to play any more, for fear of breaking his pitching arm. He played his third year on the basketball team, being captain for the year. He again starred as pitcher and leading batter on the baseball team. But he also came to the front in non-athletic activities. He was elected president of the junior class, defeating the strong fraternal political machine which exists here. He was elected to Cyanide, and to Sword and Crescent, the two upper-class honorary societies, being vice-president of the former.

Then last summer Johnny took the fatal step and got married. His bride was Miss Bernice Humes, of Westville, N. J. Perhaps this provided the inspiration for the accomplishment of still further achievements in this, his senior year.

Needless to say, he played his usual fine game of basketball for the season. He will soon be chalking up the strike-outs, being captain of baseball for this year. The outstanding feature, however, was Johnny's re-election as senior class president. With twenty-one fraternities on the campus, most of them playing politics to the limit, it is indeed very unusual for a man to be president of his class for two successive years. Johnny has also been president of the Y. M. C. A. during this year.

When Johnny graduates this June, Lehigh and Nu Deuteron will lose one of the best men that has graced the South Mountain campus in many a long day. Nu Deuteron is sorry to lose him, but feels confident that he will prove as big a man out of college as he has been here at Lehigh.

Jimmy Hamilton, X '98, on Speaking Tour

The following article was clipped from the New York State, Orleans County Republican.

Dr. James A. Hamilton, Secretary of State of New York State, made a wide swing through the state this week, visiting eight or nine counties, and speaking in Albion, Brockport, Rochester and Syracuse.

Brother Hamilton was the guest at a luncheon given him by the Rev. W. A. Harris. The invited guests were all Theta Deltas. The following men were the guests of Brother Harris at the luncheon: Dr. Irving E. Harris, X '93; Lieut. Col. Herbert J. Harris, X '98; the Rev. Loren Stiles, X '79; Milford L. Hakes, X '99; Freeman McNall, X '98; Thomas B. Robbins, O^A '18, Leon P. Humphrey, N^A '18; Bristol Palmer, Ψ '23; and Dr. Charles W. Burrows, P^A '88.

Secretary Hamilton spoke in Albion on the subject of "Drug Addiction and its Relation to Crime." In Rochester, Jimmy visited the Rochester School for the Deaf, where he spoke to 190 students, using the sign language, in which he is proficient. In fact, so far as can be learned, Brother Hamilton is the only Secretary of State able to speak to deaf mutes. On Friday he spoke in Brockport on "Modern Life and the Development of Crime."

Before becoming Secretary of State last January, Brother Hamilton was for five years Commissioner of Corrections in New York City, and as such, dealt with thousands of criminals, including many drug addicts. His talks included many interesting experiences which he had had in dealing with this class of unfortunates.

Introducing the Southern Theta Delta Chi Alumni Club

Feeling the need of reviving the common ties that unite them, the Thetas of Atlanta met on the night of February 27, 1923 at 755 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia and perfected the organization that will be known henceforth as the Southern Theta Delta Chi Alumni Club. J. V. Hyde, X^A '16, was elected president, G. C. Kaulbach, H '11, vice-president, and J. W. Henderson, E '22, secretary and treasurer.

The purpose of the club is to form a meeting place for the brothers who reside in Atlanta and, for those who may visit the city from time to time. An invitation to become a non-resident member has been extended to all Southern Thetas and every mail is bringing in replies from all over the South. The club will provide a much needed base for Theta Delta activities in the South, for the southern members are scattered far and wide and have very little contact with undergraduates.

All communications to the new organization should be addressed to 755 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia.

Carroll Hammerly, B^Δ '24, trackster of the Iowa State medley team of '22 which broke the world's record at the Illinois Indoor Relays.

Johnny Lees, the Nu Deuteron Benedict.

Fletcher Brown, B^Δ '24, high hurdler on the Iowa State track team. Won first at Nebraska last year in that event.

The Power of Ambition

IT was the annual dinner of the Press Club of Washington, D. C. Its members were all the newspaper correspondents of the various great papers throughout the United States, who are brought into daily contact with all branches of the Government, Executive, Legislative and Judicial. The Gridiron Club, the most celebrated of the dining clubs of the country, has grown out of the Press Club, and at these banquets the most distinguished men are gathered. The dinner was held in Harrison's administration. A number of his Cabinet were there, among others, Blaine, at that time Secretary of State. "Jerry" Rusk—"Farmer Rusk" was there, and a dozen United States Senators, Joe Blackburn of Kentucky among the number. Blackburn was a member of the celebrated Clover Club of Philadelphia, of which Brother A. G. Hetherington, Upsilon '69, was a charter member, and which the Gridiron Club took as its model when organizing. Brother Hetherington was invited to the Press Club banquet. He had been spending the afternoon with George Alfred Townsend, "Gath"—one of the most celebrated newspaper correspondents living, and one of the most delightful conversationalists and raconteurs in this or any other country. All were so interested in the matters they were discussing that they arrived at the banquet hall somewhat late, and thus took seats at the extreme end of the table, very far from where the distinguished men were sitting. At the head of the board, near and around the president of the Press Club, Hetherington noticed at once, beside the president of the club, that face once seen, never forgotten, the face of that Pennsylvania boy born near Pittsburgh, who taught school in Philadelphia, and then discarding Horace Greely's advice, "Young man go West," went instead to the easternmost of all our states, Maine, and there rose through the State Legislature to the Congress at Washington, its leader in the lower house, the Speakership, and then into the United States Senate. The nominee of his party for President, his dramatic personal canvass, and his defeat by Cleveland, a leader who had been in public life but a short time. There he sat, James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, Premier of the Cabinet, his reciprocity plans perfected, in its successes and failures, his life was in many ways wonderfully like that of that other brilliant American, Henry Clay.

There were many brilliant speeches, songs and witticisms, and the night sped on with golden feet. Finally they called upon Hetherington for a recitation. As the latter rose, George Alfred Townsend whispered, "Now give them the best you have in you, old man." He began. Joe Blackburn jumped up and shouted, "Come up to this end, Hetherington." He walked up to within fifteen feet of the head of the table, which was almost the full width of the room, and could look into the faces of all the most distinguished guests. "What shall I recite for you?" Dr. Bedloe of the Clover Club, who was at this table, being home on a vacation from his post as consul at Amoy, China, sang out, "Give them 'Ambition,' Mr. Pickwick."

Brother Hetherington thus describes the scene:

I began; the room grew strangely silent. At the first line. "What is Ambition? 'Tis a glorious cheat." Blaine, who had been sitting in an apathetic attitude, raised his head, leaned forward on his hand and fixed his eyes on me. His hair and beard were white, his face had the pallor of death, everything was dead about him but those marvelous eyes. They were burning into my soul as I looked into them. When I spoke the lines "It seeks the chamber of the gifted boy and lifts his humble window and comes in. The narrow walls expand, and spread away into a kingly palace, and unseen fingers write his name in burning letters over all," he gave a sigh.

The air was stirred as by a mourner's sigh. He had forgotten all there was in the room. His thoughts were far away. His boyhood home. The humble window and the bright youth were in his mind, and then the words of Willis rolled on. I had forgotten everything too, everything but Blaine. This poem had been written for him, and of him. It was cruel, but the fascination of it that had caught him in its grasp, and was urging me forward. The intellectual intoxication had extended in some degree to every man in that room. And then came the concluding lines "And what is its reward? At best a name! Praise, when the ear has grown too dull to hear! Wreaths, when the hair they cover has grown gray. Gold, when the senses it should please are dead. Fame, when the heart it should have thrilled is numb! All things but love, when love is what we want. And close behind comes death, and ere we know these unavailing gifts are ours, he sends us stripped and naked to the grave!"

I stopped. Blaine sat as still as a marble statue. A silence that could be felt was in that room. I could see nothing except those burning eyes, I could not escape them, they were eating into my soul, saying unutterable things to me, things I can never forget, regret for his lost youth, for spent health, bitter unavailing sorrow sitting among the ashes of his lost hopes, and yet in those eyes still shone that ambition. It was there. The feeble body, the breaking brain, were still dominated by ambition and the fierce eyes said, "I know it is all true, but I will win the great prize yet," and it was not until that hope, fondly cherished for so many years, died within his breast that the great heart broke, and he welcomed all conquering Death, and was glad to wrap the drapery of his couch about him and lie down to pleasant dreams. It was the last time I ever saw him, and I can never forget him that night. The chamber of the gifted boy, the bright and fiery boy, that was a daily blessing but to see. All things but love; close behind comes death.

(POEM DELIVERED AT BROWN UNIVERSITY IN 1830. IN PART.)

By NATHANIEL PARKER WILLIS

What is ambition? 'Tis a glorious cheat!
 Angels of light walk not so dazzlingly
 The sapphire walks of heaven. The unsearched mine
 Hath not such gems. Earth's constellated thrones
 Have not such pomp of purple and of gold.
 It hath no features. In its face is set
 A mirror, and the gazer sees his own.
 It looks a god, but it is like himself!
 It hath a mien of empery, and smiles
 Majestically sweet—but how like him!
 It follows not with fortune. It is seen
 Rarely or never in the rich man's hall.
 It seeks the chamber of the gifted boy,
 And lifts his humble window and comes in.
 The narrow walls expand, and spread away
 Into a kingly palace, and the roof
 Lifts to the sky, and unseen fingers work
 The ceiling with rich blazonry, and write
 His name in burning letters over all.
 And ever, as he shuts his 'wilderer eyes

The phantom comes and lays upon his lids
 A spell that murders sleep, and in his ear
 Whispers a deathless word, and on his brain
 Breathes a fierce thirst no water will allay.
 He is its slave henceforth! His days are spent
 In chaining down his heart, and watching where
 To rise by human weakness. His nights
 Bring him no rest in all their blessed hours.
 His kindred are forgotten or estranged.
 Unhealthful fires burn constant in his eye.
 His lip grows restless, and its smile is cur'd
 Half into scorn—till the bright fiery boy,
 That was a daily blessing but to see,
 His spirit was so birdlike and so pure,
 Is frozen, in the very flush of youth,
 Into a cold, care-fretted, heartless Man!

And what is its reward? At best a name!
 Praise—when the ear has grown too dull to hear!
 Gold—when the senses it should please are dead!
 Wreaths—when the hair they cover has grown gray!
 Fame—when the heart it should have thrilled is numb!
 All things but love—when love is all we want.
 And close behind comes Death, and ere we know
 That e'en these unavailing gifts are ours,
 He sends us, stripp'd and naked, to the grave!

North Carolina Thetes to Organize

Having received a hearty endorsement from the President of the Grand Lodge and from the Graduate Secretary, two Thetes living in North Carolina—R. E. Guthrie, N '20, and R. H. Rice, Φ '01, are making plans to bring together in June, all Thetes living in the old North State. It is proposed to gather at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Winston, Salem and perfect an organization to renew the bonds and to get in definite touch with Theta Delta Chi. There are at present time twenty-five members of the fraternity residing in the state.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

"An exhaustive study of the fraternity situation at most American colleges and universities shows that there is a great need for more national fraternities."

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

So says the Interfraternity Conference in its bulletin of April 27 under the title, "The Need for More National Fraternities." The expansion committee of that body goes on to point out that it is lending aid and encouragement to band together into a national fraternity of at least twenty chapters strong locals in various middle western institutions. Dartmouth is asking for more fraternities, and to that end representatives from nine national fraternities not now represented at Dartmouth have been invited to Hanover for a weekend in May.

According to conservative estimates, made in various institutions, at least 50 per cent. of the undergraduate bodies of our American colleges and universities are at present denied fraternity affiliations because there are not enough fraternities to go around.

In the face of these conditions Theta Delta Chi and other old national fraternities hold fast to a traditional policy of conservatism. The organization of more fraternities, then, would seem to be the answer.

For us the problem, unfortunately, cannot be so easily dismissed, for we have active petitioning groups today in at least three institutions, with one or two others getting ready to make a formal plea for admission into Theta Delta Chi. Unless there is a striking reversal of form, these petitioners are facing a long, hard struggle—for the anti-expansionist element in our fraternity is strong. Yet these seem to be determined young men, men who will not be dismayed or discouraged if they are refused once or twice, but who will keep coming back until they are admitted.

Theta Delta Chi, with thirty charges, is stronger today than it has ever before been in its seventy-five years of history. There are those who believe that the addition of another link to our chain would serve only to weaken the whole—that the present size is as large as our system of control will permit. Yet there is a need for more fraternities in a score or more of colleges in which we are not today represented. The problem of expansion has been an exceedingly difficult one in the past. We venture to predict that it will be an even more trying one in the future, and that while the formation of more national fraternities will help to relieve the situation, so far as we are concerned there is no such easy way out.

This issue of THE SHIELD is late—not that there is anything of news value in such a statement, for that has been a chronic failing of your graternity magazine. Publication dates seem to mean nothing in its young life. For instance, this issue is dated April 20—these lines are being coronaed on May 7. The cause of the lateness lies at the door of the Editor. He's been laying down on the job.

TIME FOR SOME NEW BLOOD

One mistake we often make in Theta Delta Chi is to keep a man in office too long. Four years ago when we first took on this labor of love we would have been mortified, chagrined, nonplussed with embarrassment that the non-appearance of THE SHIELD was caused by our personal failure to do our work. Now, not even a tremor. We feel—we know—we've gone stale on the job. THE SHIELD needs some new life—some new blood. Someone who hasn't lost so many illusions. A fellow who hasn't read every charge letter in four years—for believe you us (in an editorial sense, that us) that alone is some little illusion-destroying job.

We long for relief from the onerous duties of this, now, editorial desk. We've had a good time at your expense. We've had a lot of real kicks out of our job. The letters you've written us have done our heart good. But it is beginning to pale. The nearest to a thrill we've had in the last six months, was a note written to the P. G. L. (and which we happened to see), reading: "Private: Please try to secure a better Editor than the present one."

A month before we took this job we subscribed to THE SHIELD for five years. That subscription has one more year to run. We insist on getting something for our money—we want at least one year's pleasure out of our fraternity publication—and so we beg and implore, Mr. President of the Incoming Grand Lodge, that you tell us to whom we should turn over the shears and paste pot. 'Cause we're through!

There are many reasons why we feel that the Grand Lodge did well in selecting Rochester as the next convention city. Foremost, perhaps, is the remarkable accessibility of the Kodak city. Although we do not know that the center of Theta Delta Chi population in America has ever been determined, were that point fixed, we feel certain that it would not fall many miles from the Flower City. In the city itself is one charge; Xi is only thirty miles away; Beta less than seventy-five; Psi and Alpha only a few hours by train; and Lambda Deuteron and Zeta Deuteron brothers have the advantage of water transportation which will bring them to Rochester by a short over-night journey.

Central New York needs a convention—and that is the second reason why we feel that the Grand Lodge made a wise choice. Buffalo, Geneva, Syracuse, Ithaca—all only a few hours by motor from Rochester, have large Theta Delt graduate populations, and in their number are to be found some of the most loyal and zealous of our brotherhood. True, their names may not be as well known as those of equally zealous brothers who live in the larger cities which have held conventions in the past, but this convention will bring them out.

Although the committee is not making any big play on the size of the convention, we should not be at all surprised were the attendance to exceed even that of the great 75th at Boston. Those up-staters don't say much—but we know that throughout that beautiful country scores and scores of brothers are preparing to pour down upon Rochester on June 23. The attendance figures may surprise us all.

Another great advantage of Rochester is that due to the very lack of outside distractions the delegates and visitors will be able to get closer together, to become better acquainted, and really form those close fraternal friendships which conventions are supposed to make—but which often do not materialize.

We believe that the convention will find it easier to get down to hard work in Rochester than in almost any other city—that more will be accomplished in the business sessions. We believe that the fraternity will benefit from going to Rochester; we know that Rochester and all Central and Western New York will benefit from having the convention—and we can promise that every individual brother who attends will be enriched in his knowledge of and devotion to Theta Delta Chi.

Meet your friends in Rochester, June 23, 24, 25 and 26—76th Annual Convention of Theta Delta Chi!

CHARGE LETTERS

Charges will be marked delinquent if their letters are not in the Editorial Office the twenty-first of the month preceding issue dates. Write plainly, with care and precision, use Greek throughout and don't abbreviate. Letters written on both sides of the paper will not be accepted.—EDITOR.

February 17, will always stand out as the greatest day in the life of every Alpha, Theta Delt. That day marked the consummation of our very endeavors, hopes, and sincerest desires. We had in the past held it as our goal, now we are more than amply rewarded—almost too good to be true.

It is impossible for Alpha to adequately word her feelings regarding installation. However, she is sensible of the honor which has been conferred upon her and of the responsibilities which she must now assume. Before that memorable seventeenth, we, in a measure, anticipated these desirable tasks, but the profound realization of the magnitude of our responsibilities manifested itself only after that notable event.

The task has now been intrusted to us and we anxiously look forward to the assistance, suggestions and ideas of our sister charges so that we may carry on more perfectly the work of Alpha and bring honor to our fraternity.

Union has just completed a very successful basketball season, having won ten of her sixteen games. Baseball, track, and tennis are just getting started. We expect Platner, '23, back in his place on the tennis team, while Snyder, '25, is lined up for a berth on the baseball team, and Lottridge, '24, has designs on a track U. Mosher, '25, was a member of the Sophomore Soiree committee, while Schamberger, '24, will look after our interests on the Prom Committee. We are hoping for another managership since Dodd, '25, is trying out for the baseball managership. Pierson, '25, is working very industriously on the Garnet, while Brown, '20, is the mainstay of the band. MacLaury, '23, has just returned from a very successful trip to New York City with the Glee Club. Aside from this, two men are on the varsity debating team, and one of our brothers was one of five men elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

A delegation from the charge attended and sang our Doxology at the funeral of Charles Ives, Ψ '92. Bob Doherty, K^{Δ} '09, is a frequent visitor and advisor at the house, and Willis S. Paine, X '68, cheers our spirits through the zero weather by gifts from Palm Beach.

Alpha looks forward with pleasure to the privilege of entertaining any of the travelling brothers who find opportunity to visit the college in the Mohawk Vale.

BRUCE K. MACLAURY, '23, Charge Editor.

The following officers have been elected for the coming year: President, A. L. Bullen, '23; treasurer, J. C. Banning, '24; recording secretary, K. H. Bowen, '24; corresponding secretary, D. K. Wilson, '25; herald, H. N. Stone, '24; charge editor, F. G. Moritz, '25.

Beta is looking forward to a very prosperous year. We are well represented on the Hill by having brothers active in athletics and also several on managerial competitions. Prospects are unusually good for a most successful year. The charge has also been active in locating new men for next year. We have seven pledged for next fall.

It has been a pleasure to have had visits from a few brothers from other charges during the past two or three weeks, and we hope more will come to see us during the spring. We are also planning to have our houseparty Senior Week as has been the custom in the past. It promises to be a success and we will gladly welcome any visiting brother that can be here at that time.

F. G. MORITZ, '25, Charge Editor.

IOWA STATE COLLEGE

Beta Deuteron charge has just passed through another ordeal of exams and rests easier for a while. The school quarter was cut a week short, due to the rather severe epidemic of scarlet fever in the school. This gives us a vacation from March 17 to March 27, and in this way, the authorities hope to clear up the disease, by having the students go home for a time.

The profs failed to cut short any of the work they had assigned, and consequently it meant much study and sleepless nights for the brethren and pledges, doing two weeks work in one. Some choose to stay up late at night to study, others prefer getting up early in the morning for the same purpose. With a little organization, we could run two shifts in the sleeping quarters this way, and double the roll in the house. It has not been tried yet, so we can't vouch for its practicability.

In spite of the work, Huntoon, '24, found time to write a musical comedy, which was accepted for the Veishea, all-college celebration to be held in May, and for which he received the prize of fifty dollars.

C. Hammerly, '24, ran in the two mile relay which won at the Illinois relays this winter. Last year he ran in the medley team which broke the world's record in that event. He received an Elgin each time, but we don't know if all these watches are to tell him how fast or how slow he is running; anyway the more watches he gets, the faster he should be able to run. 'Tis a question.

Molison, another junior, was elected circulation manager of the Iowa Agriculturist, for the next year. To be sure we're proud of these hard working juniors and this is one way to let them know about it.

Our alums have been doing themselves rather proud recently also. We received a letter from the secretary of the Iowa State Memorial Union, stating that the said alumni were sixty-one per cent. signed up for life membership in the Union.

It may sometimes seem that we brag a lot about what our brothers are doing, in this charge and others, but why not tell the world, it's just the Thetes' way of doing things.

RALPH A. OLSEN, Charge Editor.

UNIVERSITY MICHIGAN

All of our freshmen made their hours and are now wearing the badge. Because of this good record, we believe that they deserve mention at the beginning of this letter. They are: Cole Ward, of Big Rapids, Mich.; Thurman Clark, of Altoona, Pa.; William Anderson of West Point, Neb.; Ainsworth Booth, Elmira, N. Y.; Quincy Wellington, Corning, N. Y.; Robert Mansfield, Aokochee, Wis.; and Walter Young, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The progress of the University building program has made our campus one pile of lumber and one big hole after another. But out of this will come what promises to be, not the biggest, but the finest state university in the country. Alumni retuning here will be amazed to note that some of the old land marks that they thought would never fall down, have been razed and in their places are the beginnings of some real monuments to education.

Our initiation banquet was held on February 17, on the same day that Alpha was installed, and toasts to the new charge were given.

The race for student publications positions, which are the most important extra curriculum activities outside of athletics, has begun, and appointments will be made before THE SHIELD goes to press. We have stood high in this activity during the past year, with the managing editor of the Daily, a night editor, sports editor and Sunday Magazine editor, and an assistant business manager of the Michiganensian all Theta Deltas. What we are to draw this year can be told better in the fall issue of THE SHIELD.

Now while I am on the subject of publications, I might mention something about the resignation of the Sunday magazine staff. The story was dragged into the Eastern papers, and when a story gets that far away from home, it becomes so threadbare with travel, that some new color must have been added to it to give it the importance that it seemed to rate. Out here, we have ceased to laugh over the incident. The truth of the affair was that the innocent crowd on the magazine, lead by one honest-to-God-Bolshevik, who made them believe that their freedom of expression was being threatened. So they quit, but the Magazine went right on as before and the old crowd have scattered to bemoan their fate in solitude. The stories that appeared in the East have caused a good laugh here.

Tom Kindel and Hod Donahue were elected to Pi Delta Epsilon, recently. The former is assistant business manager of the Michiganensian, and the latter is a night editor on the Daily, and present editor of the Sunday Magazine.

We are herewith making one last earnest appeal to those alumni who have not signed up for THE SHIELD, to send in their subscriptions. Either send them directly to the editorial office of the magazine or here to the house. During the past month we have dropped down with two of the other charges topping us in the race for the Victory Cup. If you find a brother who is not a subscriber, after you have read this letter, take him to the post office and make him mail out his check on the spot.

HOWARD A. DONAHUE, '24, Charge Editor.

Realizing that an integral part can be no better than the composite whole of which it is a factor, I shall first tell you a little about the University of California, at which we are located; and then speak of the part Theta Delta Chi, through Delta Deuteron plays here.

California is the state university established in 1863, by the California land grant act of that date. Needless to say, it was very small. Even in 1888, I am told, the graduating class numbered only twenty-five, the total enrollment being about three hundred, including graduate students.

That is what we looked like 35 years ago. Today our total enrollment for the parent institution, its departments in San Francisco, Davis, and its Southern Branch, located 450 miles south of San Francisco, at a village called Los Angeles, I believe, is 24,959. The enrollment at Berkeley alone is 13,405. Our list of graduate students number 1,427. Our graduating class last year was 2,200. Quite some growth, in fact, such a growth as to mark the University of California as the largest university in the world.

Now as to what Delta Deuteron is doing in this place.

As you all know, California has had a championship football team for the past three years, and the man whose consistent playing has been such a great factor in winning this championship is Arch Nisbet, '23. Arch made the team in his sophomore year and has been first string fullback ever since. He has achieved the reputation of being the best punter on the coast, and holds the record for the longest drop kick made in play by any man in any institution west of the Mississippi—47 yards from line of scrimmage.

But King, '25, and Dave Phennig, '23, are on the baseball team. They are both second basemen and alternate around the keystone sack. Hippard, '25, is fighting for a place on third.

Hal Kennedy, '23, is one of five men who administer affairs of the student body by virtue of this position in the Students Affairs Committee. Hal is also a lawyer of no mean ability and has, together with Babe Turner, '23, just been elected to Phi Delta Phi, legal honor society. This is one of many for Hal, his breast resembles a jewelry store.

Lorin Haskin, '23, is rowing on the varsity crew at number 3 and barring accidents, will be in that place when we make our stand against the University of Washington. Spots Morton, '24, is close on his heels, pulling a wicked oar on the second boat.

Russ Lockhart, '24 is editor of the Blue and Gold, our annual publication of student activity, and from all reports is about to put out one of the best books we have ever had.

Tubby Morris, '25, was a member of our hopeful water polo team and guarded our goal with a vigilant eye and an iron arm.

Fred Forgy, '21, and Tev Marten, '21, have just been admitted to the Bar, and after they get their Doctor of Jurisprudence degrees in May, will be ready to solve all our knotty law problems for us.

With our freshmen, we have Scotty Tait, who played quarterback on the football team, and who is now playing third base on the frosh baseball team.

Ken Bridges is rowing bow on the freshmen crew. He has been there all year and I can see no chance of him being deposed. Incidentally I may add that our freshman crew is quite some aggregation. In fact so much so that it is not an infrequent happening for them to beat the varsity in a time trail. And added to this the fact that Coach Wallace once made the remark, "If all you birds could row like Bridges, you'd have a good crew."

This will show you where we are and some of the things we are doing. For the edification of the grads, I will say that we sometimes study, and our last year's scholastic record was sixth out of fifty-five organizations.

E. D. TURNER, '23, Charge Editor.

COLLEGE OF WILLIAM & MARY

Epsilon wishes to announce that a new member has been initiated. He is Elder Lee Lash, Jr., from Portsmouth, Virginia. We also have pledged Joseph Peachy Gilliam from McKenney, Virginia.

All brothers returned from the spring quarter with the exception of E. N. Islin, '24, who was forced to remain home on account of his health. The charge, as a whole, came through fairly well on examinations; but we all hope to do better this quarter.

Epsilon is well represented on the baseball team. Chandler, '22, plays left field. For two years he has held the highest batting average. White, '23, does his performing at second base. Chalkley, '25, plays right field and substitutes as catcher. Evans, '25, and Cain, '26, are doing their best on the scrubs. Chandler, '22, Wilkins, '24, and Lash, '26, are on the track squad. We expect a great deal from Chandler in the mile and the half mile this year.

By next fall, William and Mary expects to have a new gymnasium. Every one, especially the basketball players, is very anxious for it. A large addition has just been added to our library. Our long promised dormitory is yet to come into existence. The authorities still claim that they are getting ready.

BROWN UNIVERSITY

Initiates: L. C. Brightman, Edgewood, R. I.; E. B. Carpenter, Providence, R. I.; C. B. Dixon, Rutherford, N. J.; A. F. Dixon, Rutherford, N. J.; B. L. Nyman, Washington, D. C.; C. S. Parsons, East Milton, Mass.; A. E. Peters, Brockton, Mass.; D. Norton-Taylor, Maplewood, N. J.; C. W. Young, Hackensack, N. J.; all of 1926.

June is almost here. The last SHIELD is out, and it is time to look back over the past year and see whether I have kept my New Year's resolutions. It has been a good year for Brown and a good year for Brown means a good year for me—and a good year it surely has been. I have at last secured a charge house of my own and expect to be in my new quarters within the next year. I have taken in a strong delegation of nine men, all of whom I think will make good Theta Deltas. I have thirty-five men on my rolls and 31 of them have secured at least one college honor for themselves. I think that the biggest thing that I have done is the winning of the inter-fraternity relays. My team, composed of Nutter '24; Heydon, '24; Elson, '25; and Jones, '25; turned in the time of 2:19½ on a board track and brought home the cup.

Brown started the year by cleaning up in football. The team lost but two games and defeated Harvard 3-0. Here I was right behind the team, supplying Sprague, '23, and Eckstein, '25, to the varsity eleven and Dixon, '26, and Peters, '26, of the second team. The football season was a success, but the winter sports overshadowed the record of the football team like a tent. Brown brought back the New England inter-collegiate titles in swimming and wrestling. Here again I showed my stuff and supplied Almy, '23, to the swimming team, and Parsons, '24, as assistant manager.

Wrestling is my favorite sport. Last year, I gave Brown a New England champion, a manager and an assistant manager. This year I repeated. Brightman, '26, brought home the New England inter-collegiate 125 pound championship and Johnson, '23, manager, with Saunders, '24, as assistant manager arranged some good meets.

Lacking adequate training quarters the indoor track team had some difficulty in getting started, but with Nutter, '24; Elson, '25, and H. D. Jones, '25, the team made a very good showing. Nutter has for the past two years been captain of the cross country team and is one of the best half-milers in college. Recently Elson broke his own college board track record for quarter mile by $\frac{1}{4}$ of a second. Jones is getting his arm in condition for the discus throw for his second season.

Johnson, '23, and Lyman, '24, manager and property manager respectively of the Sock and Buskin Dramatic Society, did much to make the successful season what it was. Baseball is going strong, and Neubauer, '25, and C. Dixon, '25, are out fighting for positions on the team. F. Jones, '23, was recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa and has helped to place me fifth scholastically on the list of the nineteen fraternities at Brown. Harden, '24, Louttit, '25, Young, '26, and Taylor, '26, are members of the "Jug" Board, Ames of the "Liber" and Bent, '24, Somers, '23, and Gorton, '25, of the "Herald" board. Of the nine men on the athletic board, Thorndike, '23, and Bent, '24, compose my contribution. Thorndike is also a member of the tennis team.

Nutter was elected president of the junior class and Elson, treasurer of the sophomore class. Saunders, Parsons and Somers are members of the Junior Prom and Week committees. Norton, '25, is scutting in the managerial competition. Gorton, '25, in the Liber and Parsons, '26, in the Sock and Buskin. Oxnard carried off the college pool championship for the fourth time.

Besides these honors, I can boast of men on nearly every committee and drive on the campus. I have run several very successful dances during the year and am now preparing for commencement. I hope that there will be many graduates back during commencement week. I like nothing better than to see the old graduates coming back.

I hope that all my sister charges have experienced the same successful year that I have. I have had many very welcome visitors during the past months, and hope that all brothers will feel free to drop in and spend a visit with me.

ZETA—(JAMES I. GORTON, '25, Charge Editor).

Zeta Deut wishes to announce the pledging of John Quinlan, '26. He is a likely looking prospect for next year's skii team and with a little practice will make good.

The charge held its annual dance at the Mount Royal Hotel on March 2. Over a hundred guests attended, including a large number of grads and each and every one of the hundred pronounced the affair a success. We were exceedingly glad to have Fraser, Nettlefield and Douglas as guests from Lambda Deut.

The examination lists are now posted. For the faculty of Applied Science, they begin April 17, while the battle in the faculty of Arts and Commerce continues until the middle of May, and in Medicine, until the end of that month.

In activities, C. H. MacNaughton was on the McGill senior hockey team, for which he was awarded the McGill "M." Bill Macklaier and Phil Waite were on the college skii team which won the Winter Sports Carnival with a $21\frac{1}{2}$ point lead.

Zeta Deut will lose nine brothers by graduation this year. This is the largest graduating class that we have had for some time.

We only hope that the Convention this year, will be as great a success as the 75th, and that all the sister charges have had as prosperous and enjoyable a year as is just drawing to a close with us.

In conclusion, we take this opportunity to wish the brothers all possible luck and success in the coming examinations and an exceedingly pleasant vacation.

CHARLES E. NAPIER, '25, Charge Editor.

This year for the first time, Bowdoin has taken a serious interest in the winter sports of snow shoeing and skiing. The Outing Club which was formed a year or two ago, has taken charge of these sports and has sent a team to each of the winter carnivals that have been held so frequently in the Maine cities. The team has been quite successful, never finishing lower than second in competition with the other Maine colleges. Eta has been represented on the team by Huff, '23, and Eastman, '25. Eastman was one of the best on the team, winning a letter and being elected captain of next year's team.

As a climax to the season, a carnival was held between the fraternities here at Bowdoin. Eta took first place, winning the cup that was offered.

In inter-fraternity track, we have shown quite an improvement. Instead of being tied for last place as we were last year, through an improvement on the part of the upperclassmen, and also through the work of Hamilton, '26, we rose to fifth place in the inter-fraternity track meet. Hamilton has been making a strong bid for the relay team, and will do more this spring.

We were represented on the hockey team by Buchnam, '26, a letter winner, one of the two men on the team to start every game of the season.

In inter-fraternity basketball the charge did well. The team finished second in its league, losing only one game. Hebb, '23, Bishop, '25, Miller, '25, Blake, '25, and Hamilton, '26, constituted the regular team with Shea, '25, Cummings, '25, Blanchard, '24, and Hinaco, '26, also playing.

In scholarship, the house rose three places in the fraternity standing over what it was three years ago.

The record of the house has been one of constant improvement in every direction. There is still room for more improvement, and there will be more. There is a constant effort on the part of the brothers for this, and results are showing.

LAWRENCE LEIGHTON, '25, Charge Editor.

dormitory for a year.

The rushing system has been changed from a five week period to the old knock 'em dead plan, and we have already pledged three men, Ed. Downer, '26, Howard McEachen, '26, and Ernest Bohman, '26. We also expect to pledge about five more good men so that next fall when school opens we will have a capacity house working for Theta Delta Chi.

Allison, '26, and Trago, '23, have just been initiated into the Ram's Head, honorary dramatic and musical society. Allison was also appointed as one of the six junior football managers and has an excellent chance of becoming manager next year.

On April 21, we have the annual track meet with the University of California, and it is now the common topic of conversation. After the meet, the annual birthday banquet of the two charges in California, Π^{Δ} and Δ^{Δ} will be celebrated at the Hotel Fairmont in San Francisco. Fraternal friendship will reign supreme, and all school differences and feelings will be set aside by the bonds of Theta Delta Chi.

Spring finds us once again on the last lap of another year. The worst of it is that the seniors will not let us forget that "only two months more" applies to them alone. However, 'twas ever thus, and ever will be as long as freshmen come and seniors go.

The charge has the pleasure of introducing two recent initiates: Douglas Painton Jeppe, Johannesburg, South Africa, and Louis John Darmstadt, New York City. Brother Jeppe came to Technology from Oxford University, England, where he was a member of the track team. Darmstadt is also pushing activities hard and thus helping the charge. Pat Boyd has been elected president of the charge for next year. The other elections you will hear later, but I could not help giving those who know Pat, the opportunity to congratulate him. All of us are confident that he, being skilled in the naval arts, will steer the good ship Theta Deuteron on a most successful cruise next year.

Speaking of next year, reminds us of the vacancy which will be made in the ranks by the graduation of Brothers Junod, Myers, Knight, Carpenter, Keevil, Gurney and Poor. We will miss them very much and in so doing wish them the great share of good fortune which each deserves. We were very sorry to have Bill Billings leave us a short while ago for reasons best known to himself.

In consequence of our call issued in the last SHIELD we have enjoyed lately the visits of several brothers. Don Van Horn, Γ^Δ '21, made us a real visit of a week. Would that we could say as much of Art Lafave, I^Δ '22, and George Le Fevre, Θ^Δ '21.

Junior Week comes but once a year and that once is not so very far off. All the brothers are looking forward to the festivities with great expectations. By the way, if there are any brothers in this vicinity around convention time, do not fail to let us know, in order that we may have you with us when the "Theta Deuteron Special" leaves for Rochester. We do not, as yet, know how "special" it will be, but it will surely land you in Rochester, right side up.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE

The last letter of the season, and with it, our final glance back upon the efforts of the past year. When Denham Lunt, '23, was elected a year ago to lead the charge he quietly and efficiently set about proving that we had made no mistake in our choice. During the spring months, by hard work, he engendered a spirit of co-operation among the fellows which came into especial prominence during the rushing season of the following fall. As a result of this mutual pulling together, Iota Deut enjoyed one of the most successful rushing seasons of recent years. Nine freshmen were pledged and initiated along with one sophomore. Football came and passed, Christmas became merely a memory, and then mid-year loomed as the only obstacle to a most successful half-year. Unfortunately they were not passed without losses, for we had to say goodby to Schmidt, '25, and Reed, '26.

Immediately after examinations were over, the annual Sophomore Prom came along with memories of girls and music which haven't yet altogether faded. Now to be more specific about the winter sport season. As far as basketball was concerned, we were represented only by Pease, '24, but his playing at guard was more than enough to make up for the non-appearance of other Thetes. To 200-lb. Bob Heppenstall, '25, we owe representation on the swimming team where he regularly in every meet came through for some much needed points in the plunge for distance.

In other campus activities, Iota Deut was better represented. At recent elections for the 1924 board of the Purple Cow, the college humorous paper, Merryweather, '24, was chosen art editor and Berry, '26, was the first member of his class to be elected to the art staff. That means that Iota Deut has now four men on the Cow board. In the dramatic line, Hopkins, '25, has been a consistent performer with his ingenue roles.

Spring has now rolled around again (at least we have hopes it might in the distant future), and has brought along baseball and track in its wake. Richmond, '23, Pease, '24, and Coe, '26, are working hard in the cage in order to make the southern training trip. Richmond and Pease are veterans, while Coe is showing some promising work as a backstop candidate. Only one branch of track is graced by Thetes, that being the broad and high jumps in which Parker, '23, and Redfield, '26, are making their bid for fame.

Elections will have been decided by the time another letter is written; the efforts of Brother Lunt's administration are almost over, his work has been done. We, the rest of the charge, feel that it was well done, that he can turn it over to the new officers with the feeling of having left the charge in a stronger, more prosperous condition than a year ago.

And now for a real spring, short exams, and a corking vacation to all the sister charges.

DEWITT CLINTON, '25, Charge Editor.

TUFTS COLLEGE

The college year is almost over. However, that is no reason for slowing up in activities. In fact, it should be an incentive to finish up strong.

By the time this letter is published, more material for our archives will be being collected concerning the great work of Loud on the famous Tufts nine. This will be in headlines. In smaller type underneath will be placed the names of Barrett and Hennessey as very capable infielders. Folsom and Bouret might also receive mention for their work on the second team. Tufts has a very hard schedule this year, the hardest in years, and the men mentioned above will play a large part toward making it a success. Baseball, however, does not keep Loud from being a very possible candidate for Phi Beta Kappa in the spring elections.

Just to give Green one thing more to think about, his class has elected him to the senior banquet committee. He is also president of the publications association, and business manager of the Pen, Paint, and Pretzels dramatic society. The juniors have elected Jim Danver to the Junior Prom committee, and he is planning for the big dance of the year on May 11.

Tufts have recently started a new college comic, the Tuf-Tonic. It takes a little time to get anything like this started and running smoothly, but Littlefield on the business staff and Russell as art editor, are doing their best to make it a worthy rival of the Jack-O, Widow, Brown Jug, etc.

As I said before, the year is almost over, and the main topic for discussion at the house is, "What am I going to do this summer?" Everything from hod-carriers and plumbers to seamen and adventurers are considered as prospects as usual, but all agree that nothing shall be done until after the convention.

To those brothers whom we won't see at the convention, Kappa wishes a most profitable summer and expresses the hope that all undergrads will be back next year to put 1923-1924 on the archives as a banner year.

J. DONALD RUSSELL, '25, Charge Editor.

Spring has been paying calls to Kappa Deut lately, with such an increasing frequency that we are beginning to believe she may be through playing with us and has really come to stay. At any rate, everyone is on his toes and ready to begin the annual struggle against spring fever.

Ottis Vogel, '23, the "pride and joy" of the Illini baseball nine, started on his southern trip March 29. Sam Hill, '23, is back on the track team, throwing such a mean hammer that the freshmen are beginning to wonder what he will be able to do with a paddle. Dwight Follett, '25, is out for spring football, and Pledge Weidman is on the freshman track squad. Pledge Kern, '25, is out for intra-mural track.

Asmus, '23, Cole, '24, and Belshe, '25, are taking good care of us in politics, and are holding down important committee jobs. Asmus is on the senior cap and gown committee, and Cole holds a place on the senior hat committee.

McCullough is keeping himself before the student body in campus dramatics. Handke, '24, is out for the executive chairman of the 1924 "Stadium Plus" drive.

Lincoln G. Schick, '23, has recently been pledged Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity. Peterson, '24, is pledged Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity. Al Belshe, '25, is pledged Alpha Alpha Alpha, honorary pre-legal. Follett, '25, has recently been pledged Skull and Crescent, honorary sophomore fraternity.

We were unfortunate this semester in having two of our brothers leave us: Joe Hart '25, and Ed. Belshe, '24, but since H. Jones, '25 and Chas. Peterson, '24, who were out of school last semester came back, the house is once more balanced.

The recent installation of Alpha, has put a new brother in our midst. George Weinhold, who is now taking a graduate course at Illinois, was a member of the former Pyramid Club at Union, and was initiated into Theta Delta Chi at the time of Alpha's installation.

Our spring formal, certainly went over big this year. It was given in the charge house as probably the last affair we would give in our old house. Several of the grads were down, and "a good time was certainly had by all."

On April 22, Kappa Deuteron expects to initiate a number of pledges, so in the next issue of THE SHIELD, we hope to introduce to you a number of new brothers. We have some very promising material in our pledges, and we feel sure they have the right stuff to make them good Theta Delts.

Best of luck to all the sister charges.

J. HOWARD JONES, '25, Charge Editor.

Another year has slipped by—a successful year in every way, and one which has two very marked distinctions. The first being the 75th anniversary, which shows what Theta Delta Chi means, and the second, the re-establishment of Alpha at Union.

The annual dance of Lambda Deuteron took place on Tuesday, February 13, at Jenkins Art Gallery. A good time was had by all. One of the features of the evening was a "clog" dance given by Goodie Harris, B '21, which was much appreciated.

Dick Vanvalkenburg has won out on the diving. It is to be hoped that when Toronto sends its delegation to McGill next year, there will be some one down there to give him some competition.

During next summer there will be a number (three or four) Theta Deltas going North to Camp Achouchiching Temagami, where they will spend their summer guiding tourists around the waters of Lake Temagami and district. If any Theta Delt chances to find himself in that locality, great will be his welcome at camp. Lake Temagami is in one of Canada's forest reserves and the fishing is extremely good up there.

A smoker was tendered on March 19, to the graduates of the charge in order to have a general "get-together" before our good spirits become dulled by the impending exams. A very good time was had by all, and great expectations are held for the coming year.

Before concluding this short letter, Lambda Deut sends luck to all the boys who have to do as we have to do in the coming struggle for honors, pass, or supplementals, whichever is their highest hope.

Welcome is in store for any wandering Theta Delt coming to this remote corner of the globe.

EDWARD LITTLEJOHN, Charge Editor.

Mu Deuteron is now emerging from a blanket of snow and ice that has been with us since Christmas holidays. Underneath all this, however, there have been a few stirrings of life.

The winter term was introduced by a house dance. The next event of importance was the annual visit from Prexy Buck. We are always very sorry that he has such a short time to spend with us.

Stimson, '23, has been breaking some records this year on the swimming team. His specialty is the back stroke. He, and another member of the team have been keeping interest alive by beating each other on all occasions. His best time in the fifty-yard back stroke has been 31.4 sec. In the New England Intercollegiates he was defeated by Jones of Brown. He was also one of the few men in college to be awarded his "A" for winter sports.

Brother Richards, '22, instructor of dramatics has undertaken to produce something unique in plays. It is "Andre" written by E. E. Glass, former instructor of dramatics at Amherst, but now at the University of California. Richards is using lighting effects that are new to the American stage, but which, he hopes, will give much better scenic effects.

Sibley has been elected to the Masquers, as electrician in charge of all the lighting effects of plays put on by the organization. Also in recent strength tests, held for all of the college, he has been acclaimed as the strongest man in college.

McKay and Hitchcock, '25, were the delegates to the Alpha installation.

W. R. Montague, '20, and Stetson Clark, '16, were recent visitors at the house.

C. S. Miller has made the varsity baseball squad and looks as though he had a permanent place on the team. Acton has been elected to the Student and Press Club.

Alan S. Anderson, '26, of East Orange, New Jersey, is the latest member of the charge. He brings the number of freshman for this year up to eleven men.

Now that communication has been established with the world by means of the trolleys and railroads, we hope to see more Theta Deltas from other charges.

We are pleased to introduce initiates: L. M. Caldwell of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Charles E. Lowman of Annapolis, Md. Caldwell is an active competitor for the literary staff of the Virginia Reel. Lowman is practically assured of a position on the varsity nine.

The winter term examinations have come and gone. We are justly proud that not a single casualty resulted. This is a record that is seldom equaled.

With spring has come baseball and track. True to his performances of seasons past, Brother Davis is doing excellent work with the discus, javelin, and at the high jump. It is rumored that Sachez is literally burning things up at the "hot corner" on the first year tem. Then of course there is Lowman on the varsity. With these, we believe that we are well represented in the athletic activities of the University.

From time immemorial, it has been the custom for the charge to give a dance during Easter week. And such a dance was being planned for the forthcoming season of festivity. But the discriminating mind of Stan Suydam, '21, saw an opportunity and with his usual fluency, he revealed this opportunity to the minds of the less observing. With the result that instead of merely giving a dance, we are to have a new house. Not literally of course, but at least for all practical purposes. His proposition was that we take the money to be spent on the dance and apply it to the more worthy use of supplying some much needed new interior decorating. And so it came to pass. The buff walls became French gray; the faded blue draperies changed into a beautiful Burgundy; the supposedly white woodwork became really white; and to all this was added new rugs, tables, and table lamps. These changes have long been needed, and we all agree that the effort and sacrifice necessary to bring them about is amply rewarded by the improved appearance of the entire lower floor. We wish to express our appreciation for the encouragement (financial and otherwise) received from the alumni in effecting these improvements.

W. A. WILKERSON, '24, Charge Editor.

UNIVERSITY

We are now on the last lap of the college year. Many of our best men will be leaving us this June, those men who have carried the burden of the fraternity on their shoulders for the past year. May we younger brothers "carry on" as well as they have and may Theta Delta Chi as great and glorious a brotherhood at the end of 1924, as we see it in this year of our fraternity, 1923.

It is with all, the feeling of the charge of Nu Deuteron and I'm sure of the whole fraternity, that we welcome, with open arms, the mother charge, Alpha. May she become as great a body of active men as that noble crew who set the good ship Theta Delta Chi sailing on her true course on that greatest day of our history, the thirty-first of October, 1847.

Lehigh is a scene of sport. The field and tracks are filled with men, playing one game or another. The baseball team is beginning to round out and is being sifted down to the most promising material. The prospects look rosey, that is what they usually say. However, Coach Baldwin remarked that the material is there, and it is up to him to develop team work. At the time of this writing, the wrestling team is in Ithaca, battling with others of you for the superiority of the mat. Coach O'Neil has come down from Canada to enjoy the warm (?) spring weather and incidently is giving the lacrossers some destiffening workouts and some fancy stick handling in preparation for the first game the 7th of April and the remainder of the wicked schedule Brother Hicks has compiled. Track tennis in Camp Coppee (the indoor courts) and even the newly organized golf team are all under way.

We have great news for you all, undergraduate and alumni brothers alike. A short time ago the Nu Deuteron charge of Theta Delta Chi received the astounding word that, since last August mind you, Johny Lees, our John, yes, president of the senior class and all that, well he's married. We have congratulated him several times, but we haven't been able to wish Mrs. Lees, the former Miss Olive Humes of Westville, N. J., all the happiness in the world, may this by some way or other reach the lucky girl. John is working hard with the ball club now, and we're sure he'll pitch ball as it was never pitched before, yes, take that which ever way you please.

The presence of Billy Lynn, Z '10, who is living here at the house, is being enjoyed by all. Those who know Billy will know what I mean. He is here coaching the Mustard and Cheese Show to be presented at Kurtz Theater on April 17. It is to be a musical comedy with a chorus of beautiful girls and all that, chosen from the college men. It should be good.

Due to the considerable increase of work, this second term, for Brother McConnell in his office of treasurer of the Grand Lodge, he found it necessary to resign his office of president of the charge and consequently the election of officers for the coming year were made at this time. The results were as follows: President, Frank T. Bumbaugh, '24; Corresponding Secretary, J. Honor Davis, 2nd, '25; Recording Secretary, George W. Boggs, 2nd, '24; Treasurer, Chas. Bayard Mitchell, 2nd, '24; Herald, William C. Greer, Jr., '25.

Wishing all the charges a successful college year, and may those who are to graduate, graduate and all the others be able to continue as of old.

C. B. MITCHELL, 2nd, '24, Charge Editor.

HOBART COLLEGE

With the enticing lure of spring in the air all about us, with the ornithologists in the crowd bringing in reports daily of new birds, with new and brilliant raiment glittering everywhere, the thoughts of the brothers turn to many things. Among these is lacrosse. With Ferris, '23, as manager, Brown, '23, and Snyder, '23, veterans of last year's varsity, Babbitt, '23, Mann, '24, and Randall, '25 on the squad; Bremner, '26, Pickells, '26, Sparks, '26 on the freshman squad, and Rutter, '25, and Watkins, '26 out for managers, the house is well represented and bids fair to keep up its old standing in Hobart's major spring sport.

Preparations for the Paint and Powder Club's annual production are nearing completion and the cast and chorus are well filled with Theta Delts, with Brown, '23, directing, in shirt sleeves and perspiration. This running a show is no job for a paralytic.

The long winter has left many traces on the house and grounds and at present the charge is going through a needed period of spring cleaning. The grounds are being put in order and the house spruced up.

At the annual election of officers, Crandall, '25, was chosen president; Mann, '24, treasurer; Warner, '26, corresponding secretary; Rutter, '25, recording secretary; Beecher, '25, herald; and Pickells, '26, librarian. The charge anticipates an auspicious year under this leadership.

After reading the excellent discussion of the function of the charge letter by Brother Driscoll of Pi Deut in the February SHIELD, the toiling editor of this effusion is somewhat at a loss. We agree that the mere detailing of charge activities and campus accomplishments of brothers does not afford especially entertaining reading. However, what can take their place and what can we put into the letters of real literary merit. Is a radical change in the subject matter advisable, such as to make the charge letters a sort of discussion group, or department for the exchange of opinions? We humbly beg to offer some reflections of our own on the subject.

The charge letter has always apparently been chiefly a news letter. In glancing over the past files of THE SHIELD, we find this to be so, and discussion with other brothers in the main, indicates that this should be its function. It is a way of giving the charge publicity and of informing those interested of what it is doing. This almost inevitably takes the form of a chronicling of events or list of activities and depends on the ingenuity of the charge editor for any literary dress it may have. Discussions of fraternity life, and kindred topics, and charge opinions and comments, would quite probably be more interesting, especially to the general reader, but it is a question how much current opinion could be regularly extracted from a charge along these lines. What there is of it might fit better and be less lonely in the editorial section. The fact is that the general life of a charge is pretty even, and striking bits of news or brilliant thoughts from brothers are hard to dig up. To eliminate all matter, except of unusual interest, from the charge letters would be easy, but would often eliminate the charge letter.

DUNCAN E. MANN, '24, Charge Editor.

With the last lap of the college year in progress, Xi Deut is spending every effort to make it a glorious finish. The charge has done well throughout the year, but the last quarter is going to be like the finish of the 220-yard dash. At this writing Brother Buck has not made his visit, so we don't know just how we stand with him. Our conscience is not hurting us; on the other hand, we are proud of our progress.

Our formal this year was an elaborate affair. It was a dinner-dance at the Ranier Club, one of Seattle's finest. Blue leather card cases, lined with white silk, and tied with black ribbons to which were attached silver pencils, were the favors for the ladies. We were glad to see a great number of the alumni present.

We have recently received news of a most unfortunate accident to one of our much-esteemed brothers. George Wrentmore, '20, who is in the Philippine Islands, had his right arm so badly crushed in an accident at a logging camp that it had to be amputated to save his life. The trip from the sawmill to Manila, the nearest city, was so long that it seemed doubtful if even the amputation would save him. After several transfusions, George was put on the road to recovery and is now doing nicely. A letter will reach him addressed Manila, P. I.

Tommy Tucker, II^Δ '18, and wife, were at the charge house several times during their week's visit in Seattle. Tommy is beating a piano on the Pantage's circuit. The troupe will be in Seattle again for a four-day layover and will be at an informal we are giving during that period.

The entire charge was more than pleased to have Alpha reinstalled; it seems to give the fraternity a stronger background and from all reports the petitioning body certainly warranted it. We look with pride at their past and with hopes toward their future.

Track and baseball seasons have begun and though nothing definite can be said at this writing, we feel sure of representation on the squads of both of these sports. Crew is still in progress. Charlie Brown, 6 feet 4½ inches, weight 196, has cinched seat five in the head shell of the frosh outfit, and Carl Carlson is right in line for cox of the same boat. Most of the brothers are finding time to pursue their activity as well as the cloth-covered knowledge.

Election will be about due when this is printed, and as we have excellent material with which to fill the offices we look to the future with high hopes.

WALDO C. IVES, '24, Charge Editor.

Initiates: Russell W. Letteney, '24, Henry Herbert Applin, Marshall Richard Burlingame, Gordon Ketchell Douglas, Francis Remington Drury, Charles Hayes Elliott, Jr., Francis Knowles, Jr., Walter Moore 2nd, Andrew John O'Connor, Winfield Fairbanks Robinson, Clarence Scott Taylor, all of '26.

I am glad that at last I can introduce the new Omicron Deut delegation to the fraternity and also Russ Letteney, who was added to the junior delegation a short while ago. We came through rushing this year with flying colors, and on February 6th, the above ten men were pledged. All of them are active as is shown by the fact that five of them have already won their numerals, three in football, one in track, and one in cross country. The rest are all active in some line either athletically or non-athletically.

After rushing, the charge turned its attention to Winter Carnival. I imagine that Dartmouth is better known by its Outing Club and its Carnival run by that organization than anything else. This year Carnival was bigger and better than ever before. We were very glad to have quite a few alumni brothers back with us for the Carnival and also several brothers from McGill, who came down for the skii meet.

For the next month the brothers turned their attention to studies until initiation rolled around, ending with the banquet on the 9th of March at the Hanover Inn. Quite a few of the brothers from Boston came back, together with representatives from some of the other charges. We are always glad to have the alumni with us on these occasions, but we wish that they would not only wait for some time when there is something special doing, but would drop in on us often.

We know that we are in rather an out of the way place, but that is all the more reason why we enjoy having some of the alumni come and pay us a visit.

In campus activities Theta Delt has not been inactive. Butt, '24, and Shyles, '25, have won their letters in track. Buttsie runs on the mile relay team and Mark is a pole vaulter of no mean ability. Letteney, '24, has a berth on the two mile relay team and also won his letter this fall in cross country. With Butt and Letteney as a nucleus, we entered a relay team in the interfraternity relay which was the feature of a recent class meet, and placed second in the finals.

This stretch between Carnival and Easter is the dearest time of the year up here and is the time when everyone turns their attention to raising their scholastic standing as high as possible before spring and its distractions come along. We were very sorry that Brother Buck was unable to get to Hanover while he was east, but we are looking forward to Brother Arnold's visit in his place after Easter.

This being the last letter of the year, I want to wish all the brothers in the other charges all kinds of luck in the finals in June, and hope that the three lower delegations will come back intact next year. That is the goal that Omi Deut is aiming for.

JOHN B. MAHOOL, Jr., '25, Charge Editor.

COLLEGE OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

We do not presume that our contemporaries cannot picture to themselves the complicated business of going to college in New York City in 1923, or that they won't be able to observe the process, once they are established in the great city as lawyers, bankers, doctors, engineers or what not. We will anticipate this pleasure by presenting a few glimpses of New York campus life.

The College of the City of New York is situated on the slender Manhattan Island, close to its northermost point. There are no dormitories or fraternity houses on the dormitory style. All the matriculated students are required by law to be residents of the Greater City, to partake of the privileges of college, which are practically free.

The curriculum is acknowledged by educational authorities, to be one of the most difficult and the most thorough in this country. The first two years of work consists solely of prescribed work. Latin, Greek, History, Chemistry for Arts and Mathematics, Calculus, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Economics and Philosophy for science and social science. With these and several other conventional courses, every student is required to attend gymnasium classes and R. O. T. C. drill four hours each week. After the first two years (one in six survives) are the elective courses which are no less exacting, covering all the fields of human knowledge. Masters degrees are offered in Business Administration and Education, while the degree of M. E., E. E., and C. E. are given in the engineering school. There is yet few holders of the latter degrees, as they are of very recent establishment.

As each student is required to attend gymnasium classes, the time available for preparation for intercollegiate competition is meager. To exemp himself from the gymnastic requirements, the prospective athlete must have attained an average of B in both written and practical work for the preceding semester. The time consumed in athletic competition is clearly a sacrifice of social activity and academic preparation.

Half of the members of the Pi Deuteron charge reside in Brooklyn or the Long Island suburbs, requiring a fifteen-mile subway journey morning and evening. The average distance from college of all the members is about ten miles. The subway riding is done during the two rush hours and the action, mental and physical that this entails, surpasses the most vivid imaginings of a freshman flag rush leader. Compare this with your stroll across the campus to your nine o'clock class.

The Pi Deuteron charge has never housed itself permanently in the manner commonly associated with the other charges in Theta Delta Chi or in others of equal rank. The reasons for this are formidable. (1) Real estate is of such value, that the purchase or renting of reasonable quarters would be almost entirely graduate charity. (2) Each student is of a necessity a resident of the city, precluding in most cases a second residence at a fraternity house. (3) A policy of restriction of numbers within the active charge. At different times within its 42 years, the charge has rented small brownstone houses or apartment suites in which to carry on its various activities. In each case the arrangement was characterized by its lack of permanence. Since 1918, the charge has carried on its functions at the former national club, now the Rho Deuteron house.

Another view of the scene is the social life, environment, or as we know it best, the atmosphere. As noted above, the college tuition is practically free, permitting the attendance of any high school graduate. Thus anyone acquainted with the present day makeup of New York's population, can form a hasty judgement of the content of the classes of the College of the City of New York, without hazarding his reputation as a good guesser. As might be inferred, the Pi Deuteron charge is in the very center of the Hebrew question, with which many of the American colleges are dealing. Long established fraternities of course, are the objects of continual challenge, while depreciation ranges from scorn and jealousy up to studied imitation.

The fraternity system at C. C. N. Y. does not remain static long enough to permit of comparison with other colleges. $\Theta \Delta X$, $\Lambda \Delta \Phi$, ΔKE , ΔT , $\Phi \Delta \Theta$, $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$, $\Phi \Sigma K$ and $\Delta \Sigma \Phi$, are the national fraternities that have maintained chapters at the college. ΔT and $\Phi \Delta \Theta$ were short lived, while $\Lambda \Delta \Phi$ has withdrawn from the campus six or seven years ago. $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$ while inactive, is generally supposed to hold a charter. The former $\Lambda \Delta \Phi$ chapter is now a local fraternity $\Delta \Lambda$. By elimination then, it may be seen that $\Theta \Delta X$ and ΔKE are the two organizations that are weathering the storms of social upheaval and the vicissitude of the fast moving present day life. Their junior by a generation are $\Phi \Sigma K$ and $\Delta \Sigma \Phi$. There are two local fraternities ΔA and ABT . Contrasted with these is a kaleidoscopic group of Hebrew organizations. These are mostly overnight attempts on the part of Hebrew students to create organizations that will bear, at least in outward respects, some resemblance to the older gentile groups. These fraternities form, fall apart, are revived or expanded with almost magical rapidity. The permutations or combinations of Greek letters are most dazzling.

Rushing is a hectic affair, there being little time for elaborate entertainment or prolonged consideration of fraternity choice on the part of the rushee. Reduced to its simplest situation, the new members are influenced solely by the transmission of the conviction on the part of the charge or the chapter members that their fraternity is not the best possible only because the rushee is not yet a member.

The number of Rho Deuts has been increased to twenty-five, by the initiation of Stevens Manning, '26, of Forest Hills, N. Y.

Now that the mid-terms are over, we all can go back to the various activities which were interrupted. Immediately before the week of the exams, the varsity show was held, and in the show, Rho Deut was well represented.

To begin with, the show was ably managed by our genial football manager, Ray Keenan, while George Smith and Charlie Mylod were assistant managers. The cast included Jack McGeary, Charlie Hynes, Ed Hourigan and John Inglis. The show ran for six days, and during that time, every one of the brothers came in for great praise from the audience and the press. Jack McGeary, who played the dual role of old Quintus Van Winkle and of Rip Van Winkle, showed marked ability as a character actor. Ed Hourigan, playing the role of Mrs. Van Winkle's second husband, was a huge success as a comedian. His songs were very well received, and he was encored repeatedly. Charlie Hynes contributed in no small measure to the success of the show, with his singing and dancing.

Paul Wacker upholds the prestige of Rho Deut in the pool. Although this is his first year of varsity competition, Paul has become the mainstay of Columbia in the quarter mile swim.

In addition to being a football star, Milt Hamon pulls a wicked oar. He was stroke on his prep school crew and has become one of the best oarsmen on the freshman squad. Under the able leadership of Jim Rice in crew and Percy Houghton in football, Milt is destined to make a great name for himself and Columbia.

Steve Manning is now playing the catcher's position on the baseball team which was left vacant by Scotty Hartmann when he left college to join the Philadelphia Athletics, where he is now making good. Scotty Farrell, a veteran of two years, was regarded as a likely candidate for catcher, but unfortunately has been declared ineligible.

The charge was shocked by the news of the death of George Downing, '12, the hero of the Argonaut mine disaster. His death resulted directly from illness contracted in those days of hardship, when he directed the rescue work in the vain endeavor to save the miners' lives. While Rho Deuteron lost a distinguished brother, Omega gained a hero.

Although the newly initiated brothers of Sigma Deuteron were introduced to the sister charges in the last charge letter, the function was of such great importance that it will bear repetition in THE SHIELD. On February 25, the following pledges were formally initiated into Theta Delta Chi:

F. C. Watts, '25, Grimes, Iowa; J. D. Witter, '26, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; D. A. Buckley, '25, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; John Hogan, '26, Madison, Wis.; John Fowler, '26, Chicago. The ceremony was followed by the annual initiation banquet which was well attended.

The last social function to be given by the charge, was held March 3, in the form of a formal dancing party at the house. The music was wonderful and so were the girls; so all in all, it was voted one of the best parties ever held at the house. Our next social event will be the spring formal which comes April 20. Everyone is looking forward to it with a great deal of anticipation.

Norman Hackett visited us at the time of the Junior Prom, and gave us a very interesting talk on the fraternity. We wish he could come oftener and stay longer. He informed us that Sam Boucher, ΓΔ '09, was connected with the University in the Department of History, so we lost no time in looking him up. Sam has proven himself a real Theta Delt, and we are very proud to have him with us. Donald MacMillan, Η '97, visited the charge a short time ago when he lectured on his last trip North at the University. He was extremely interesting, and we all enjoyed his lecture immensely.

We also wish to announce the pledging of Phil Williams, '26, Ottawa, Kansas.

Sigma Deut, through the musical talent of several members of the charge, has composed a "Sweetheart Song" which we hope will develop into something worth while. It was being introduced at the last party and received a rousing welcome. We hope to submit the song to the sister charges for their approval within a short while.

Doug Gibson has just finished his second year of varsity basketball. He held the pivot position throughout the entire season, and at the close, was accorded many honors for his good work, and given due share of the credit for tying with Iowa for the Conference championship. Budge Mead, '23, is succeeding Frosty White, '22, as senior manager of the varsity track team. Buckley, '25, is treasurer of Inner Gate, honorary sophomore society, and was recently elected to Ku Klux Klan, also an honorary sophomore society. Pledge Jim Prindle, '26, has a good chance of landing a position on the freshman crew. He has had considerable experience in this sport at Culver, M. A. The brothers are out limbering up their arms for the inter-fraternity baseball season which opens soon. Langdon Street is serving as a spring training camp.

The mid-semester grades were very satisfactory, and by continuing the good work, Theta Delta Chi will be up near the top of the list at the close of school.

We have sent out notices of the May banquet to all of our alumni whose names we have on file. It will be held May '19. If any Sigma Deut alumnus has not received such notification, we want to hear from him at once.

Best wishes to all the sister charges.

so for the present all we can do is hope.

We had a most enjoyable visit from Prexy Buck, who stopped here shortly after the installation of Alpha. He gave us a wonderfully inspiring account of the proceedings there, and certainly put across the true spirit and meaning of Theta Delta Chi. Our one regret was that he was only with us about eight hours.

This past quarter, Tau Deut has been well represented in campus affairs. Dick Gaskill had the lead in Treasure Island, produced by the Garrick Club, and Franklin Gray had a part in Tchekoff's The Sea Gull, produced by the Masquers. Harold Severinson cleared the eligibility bars in time to play forward in the last six basketball games of the season. He also was on the general arrangements committee of the Junior Ball. With the approach of the baseball season, we are looking forward to seeing "Sevvy" hold down his old position of short stop on the nine, and Overholt and Scott are out for manager.

WELLES A. GRAY, '23, Charge Editor.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE

There is nothing of note going on at Lafayette or at Phi just now. After coming through the mid-years all safe, the brothers are sort of relaxing. The next "big time" will be the occasion of the finals, which take the center of the stage during the last week in May. After them will come the grand finale in the form of the Commencement festivities. However, for us, the big event of the year, will be the spring formal, which is to be "thrown" on the twenty-fifth of May. This party is always the big event of the year on College Hill, and we are all determined that this year shall prove no exception. Any brothers who may happen to be in the neighborhood of Easton at that time will surely be most welcome. The social system at Lafayette, particularly since the abolition of the Junior week house parties, does not permit of much of this sort of thing. Consequently, we make quite a thing of our annual formal dance.

The basketball team has just finished a successful season, and in a week or so, the baseball team will open the home season. Great things are expected of this year's team, as there are a goodly number of veterans back to form a nucleus for this year. In addition to this fact, we have three or four promising pitchers in the freshman class. The schedule of twenty-five games includes some of the foremost colleges and universities in the east.

The Phi charge wishes all the sister charges the greatest success and prosperity.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Eight freshmen and one sophomore have been initiated since the last letter. By way of introduction they are, Douglass Phillips, Orlando, Florida; David Denman, Springfield, Massachusetts; Richard Lyman, Filmore, New York; John MacDonald, Butler, Pennsylvania; Walter O'Malley, Hollis, New York; John Rogers, Chagrin Falls, Ohio; Edward Roderick, Hazleton, Pennsylvania; Oliver Slifer, Watsonstown, Pennsylvania; Howard Sattelle, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

These men are all of the clay from which true Theta Deltas are molded, and as through the years which follow, you will undoubtedly hear much of them, I will spare you a long dissertation on their good points at this time.

Initiation was held on April 13, and in spite of the fact that it was also Friday, everything passed off in a manner well befitting such an occasion. After the ceremony in the charge house, all the brothers adjourned to the home of Pop Twitmyer where such a feast as only our Mom Twitmyer could prepare, awaited our attention. And believe me, when I tell you that it was not the feast that needed the attention when some of the good brothers finished.

On April 14, the formal initiation banquet was held at the Bellevue-Stratford. I am sure that no one who was there will stop shouting the praises of the banquet for years to come. It was there that the first material evidences of activity towards Phi Deut's new house appeared. Under the leadership of Alex Godfrey, '17, a collection was taken and sufficient was collected to cover fully the incorporation fees of the Phi Deut Graduate Association. This body is active on plans to get the new house as soon as possible and some day we will have an honest to goodness house.

At the recent election of officers for the coming year, the following were elected: President, E. M. Twitmyer; corresponding secretary, Don Kenny; recording secretary, W. D. Stewart; treasurer, R. P. Hidden; herald, Charles Keller, Jr. Installation took place April 17.

The inter-fraternity ball which was held just before the Easter vacation, and the sophomore prom, held April 28, were the outstanding social events of the spring season at Penn. Needless to say there was a goodly number of the brothers who attended both functions and reported a good time had by all.

Pennsylvania has a great many track meets scheduled in their new stadium this year. I sincerely hope that no brother who is here for any of the meets, will pass by the brothers in Phi Deut who stand ready with a hearty welcome for all visiting brothers.

CHARLES KELLER, Jr., '24, Charge Editor.

Chi is glad to announce the initiation of three new brothers. They are: Luther I. Webster, Holley, New York; Carl R. Payne, Spencerport, New York; and Kargis Lauterbach, Irondequoit, New York; all of the class of '26. We also introduce pledge Rolf King, '26.

Although spring has not come to us yet in the true sense of the word, several of the brothers have been planning a fishing trip into nearby waters and are polishing up their rods, while Bowling, the "flying Parson," has been seen puttering around his motorcycle in preparation to laying waste the countryside. We had chicken dinners for two days after his last trip.

For the past couple of years, our scholastic standing has not been quite up to par, but marks have been steadily rising since last September. During the past semester, we have raised our scholastic average four points above that obtained last year, and we sincerely hope that we will be able to raise it another four points before the final exams. If we succeed in doing this, we will offer a strong bid for the cup presented at the end of each year to the group which has obtained the highest average throughout the year.

Just at present, baseball is attracting most of the attention of Chi. Bowling, '25, Lauterbach, '25, Brugler, '25, and Benninghoff, '25, are out for the varsity, and all stand a good chance of copping off places on the team. The first three named were stars of the first water on last year's frosh team. If Brugler wins his letter in baseball it will make him a three letter man, having won his letter in both football and basketball. Webster, Ware, Van Deusen and Lauterbach are out for the freshman team. Stape, '24, Westburg, '25, Hanna, '26, and King, '26, are out for track. Cole, '25, is playing a leading part in the Mountebanks latest play.

We also have our share of the chairmanships, Johnson, '23, being chairman of the senior banquet, Sargent, '24, chairman of the junior whist club, Brugler, '25, chairman of the soph club, and of the delegation of the Silver Bay conference, and Lauterbach, '25, chairman of the annual inter-class banquet. Marth, '26, is a member of the freshman cabinet.

With the convention coming to Rochester in June, all of the brothers as well as the grads are working hard to put it across in fine style. We can assure each and every brother who lands in Rochester in June, a whale of a good time, so begin making your plans now to spend the 23, 24, 25, and 26 in the Flower City.

Hoping to see you all at convention and wishing a happy and successful year to our sister charges.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Junior Week, Birthday banquet, Easter vacation banquets, George Washington's annual spring masquerade ball, as well as a nation's capitol agog over the thought of entertaining 300,000 Shriners in June, have combined to make this spring merry for Chi Deuteron.

Francis Brown, '24, was Junior Week chairman, Eugene Thomas, '24, Junior class president, and Charles Dyer, '24, an active committeeman, so Theta Delt's were a big factor in making the week a success. One Junior Week event tried here this year was enjoyed so much that Theta Delt's elsewhere may want to introduce it. It was the interfraternity progressive tea. From 2:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m., we travelled from one house to another. A progressive menu was served to keep the throng moving.

Our spring banquet to honor Chi Deut's twenty-seventh birthday, was held in Washington's new City Club. Two of the founders, S. C. Peele, '99, and G. R. Davis, '95, were with us to make the function inspiring as well as pleasant. Easter Monday night, a dance was held in the charge house. Dean William Allen Wilbur and Mrs. Wilbur, parents of Bill Wilbur, '20, and almost as loyal to Chi Deuteron as if they were Theta Delt's, were with us that night.

Not all our efforts have been devoted to social events. The Interfraternity Association's preliminary check-up of scholastic averages indicates that we are leading and will receive the loving cup awarded annually for excellence in scholarship. Our baseball and bowling teams are fighting to win the trophies in those fields.

Chi Deuteron has had a great year on the campus. Our roster has given the University football and basketball men, Student Councilmen, class officers, the Editor of George Washington's newspaper and members of his staff, and members of honorary societies.

We are better prepared for next year than ever before. President Mason is the only brother we lose by graduation. Our freshmen have proven themselves worthy members of Theta Delta Chi.

Waiting to greet you at convention.

HAMILTON COLLEGE

Now that spring has come to the Hill and winter is left far behind, the brothers are getting set for the final spurt down the straightaway to summer. Six of the worthy brothers are looking with anticipation and wonderment over the rim of four years of college activity into the cold world—wondering how they will keep the wolf from the garage door.

But as yet, we have three months of grace left, into which we will try to make the best of three worthy college activities, namely study, athletics, and society—the last should be first, and the first last according to something I read somewhere. As to the first, a degree is the golden apple that a few are striving for and to the other, the desire to come back in the fall without delinquencies, is the Crown of Wild Olives. As to the second: Thompson, and Morris, '23, Brush, Becker, '24, and Thompson, '25, are making hot dogs of the track shoes on the cinder path. Thompson, '23' won second place in the 2-mile International run at the Penn relays and we are looking forward for him to win this year. Squier, Van Vleet, and Lyons, '26, are worthy aspirants for baseball honors. As to the social calendar, but few words are needed.

May 4th and 5th will see the arrival of numerous girls who will compete in the spring houseparty classics when all the fraternities on the Hill hold their parties. Glorious time and all brothers are sincerely invited to attend.

On May 12th, we expect the many sub-freshmen who come to get a look at college and the Kollege Boy, his Klassy Kollege Klothes and Manners.

The coveted sheep skins will be handed to the future Scientists and Professional men on June 18th. Hurrah!

Every day and in every way, we see our new house growing. Each wagon load of stone that creeps up the Hill, sends a thrill of joy and thanksgiving into our young hearts. We expect that house to be well under way when we return next fall.

An Attractive Corner of the Union Campus

For variety's sake, this April letter will open with a quotation from Holy Scripture, the fourth verse of the Ninety-first Psalm, said to have been Theodore Roosevelt's favorite Psalm: "Faithfulness and truth shall be thy SHIELD and buckler"—and let that be the favorite verse of all SHIELD correspondents.

The Central Graduate Association is tingling yet with the thrill of pride experienced over the eventful visit to Chicago during the past week of that distinguished gentleman and royal Theta Delt, Donald Baxter McMillan, H '98, who was the guest-of-honor at the annual meeting and dinner of the association on Saturday, March 24, in the University Club.

Joseph W. Cook, B '02, was unanimously re-elected president at this meeting. F. W. Thurnau, Γ^Δ '02, otherwise known as "Bill Thurnau" was also unanimously elected vice-president. Gardner Alpheus McWhorter, Ξ '13 was elected secretary and treasurer. And the "trustys" otherwise directors, in addition to the officers noted are: Harry C. Bayless, T^Δ '99, and Howard Hodgkins, X^Δ '13. Upon motion of Thurnau, a gift from the Central Graduate Association is to be presented to Brother MacMillan in appreciation of his memorable visit to Chicago.

The Thetes present at the dinner were:

Donald B. McMillan, H '97, L. D. H. Weld, H '05, C. H. Buchanan, Θ '73, W. M. Lalor, M^Δ '04, F. E. Andrews, T^Δ '99, H. C. Bayless, T^Δ '99, H. W. Flitcraft, K^Δ '24, James R. Bishop, B '12, A. F. McLane, K '11, G. A. MacWhorter, Ξ '13, E. J. Osler, K '11.

A summary of Brother McMillan's activities in Chicago and nearby cities discloses the fact that he found time amidst all of his numerous engagements to attend the Friday luncheon on March 23, when he held the brothers spellbound for an hour past their usual luncheon period with intimate, personal accounts of his last trip to the Arctic regions, and on Saturday evening, March 24, Mac gave us the entire evening, with an illustrated lecture lasting nearly two hours, and showing us about one hundred and fifty interesting pictures. Brother McMillan's calendar while out in the Middle West, included the following interesting engagements:

March 3—University Club of Chicago had the largest attendance yet recorded at the popular Saturday afternoon lectures for University Club members.

March 19—Madison, Wisconsin.

March 20—Rotary Club of Chicago at Hotel Sherman. Geneva, Illinois in evening.

March 21—Appeared upon invitation before City Council of Chicago, and made address to mayor and aldermen on recent discoveries in Far North. Lecture before Isaac Walton Club—a group of fishermen and sportsmen.

March 22—Lectured in Cleveland, Ohio.

March 23—Oak Park High School, Illinois—favorite occupation of Brother McMillan when home on leave, is speaking before large groups of children in grade schools as well as in high schools.

March 24—Theta Delta Chi luncheon—University Club. Chicago Geographic Society meeting in Art Institute. Guest-of-honor of brother Theta Delt Porter, Caskey, Compton, Cook, and Lalor at the Illinois Athletic Club member's dinner to over 300.

March 25—Visit to Union Stock Yards, Chicago; guest of Swift and Company. Arranged for large orders of supplies for next Polar expedition. Guest-of-honor at annual meeting and dinner of Central Graduate Association, Theta Delta Chi, at the University Club, presenting 150 colored pictures of his expeditions into the Far North and lecturing for several hours to the intense delight of the many brothers present. The much advertised Radio Broadcasting at Station WDAP—Drake Hotel.

The business directory, a monument to the indefatigable energy of my erst-while predecessor, Rudolph W. Gerding, Σ '15, is now in the hands of the printer, who is no less a person than our own Kappa Deuteron brother, Harold W. Flitcraft, '24. It will soon be mailed to every charge and graduate association as well as to the SHIELD editor, and officers of the Grand Lodge.

Have you seen Shouts and Murmurs, by Alex. Woolcott, Ψ '09?

Attendance at the February and March luncheons of the Central Graduate Associations has averaged 16 and one-half Theta Delts, but the other half of one brother has not shown up to save the life of his half-brother. Come on you visiting brothers. Give us a chance to show you the famous Chicago hospitality. We do everything but pay for your luncheon, and if you are looking for a job and need a square meal we'll not let you go away hungry. Only come and meet us at the University Club any Friday! Among prominent guests of the Chicago Theta Delts during the past two months, have been: Professor F. O. Dufour, N '96, Geoffrey Winslow, K '06, Jas. H. Bradbury, K '79, who departed with "The First Year" on March 3, and Malcolm Cox, F '02, whom we are glad to welcome home after five year's absence from Chicago.

GARDNER MACWHORTER, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Detroit Graduate Association is still adding to its membership. Several new members have been discovered in Detroit and vicinity since our last report to THE SHIELD. We have recently distributed a new directory for Detroit, containing the names, business and addresses of some eighty Theta Delts.

At our Friday luncheon on February 23, about 25 brothers welcomed Donald B. MacMillan, H '97, who was in town for a series of lectures. It was a delightful hour that Don gave us, as he told the story of his trip to the Northland.

Brother MacMillan was so enthusiastically received by Detroiters, that the Detroit News arranged for a second week of lectures in the middle of March. So again we had the opportunity of entertaining this distinguished Theta Delt, or rather being entertained by him.

This time, we met at the University Club on the evening of March 16, for an informal dinner, followed by a theater party at the Garrick. We also had as our guest, the Gamma Deuteron initiates. This was the first time that the graduate association as a whole, has had the chance to meet the new Gamma Deuts. We were most favorably impressed, and Gamma Deuteron may well be proud of her newest.

When you come to Detroit, look us up and join us at our Friday luncheons at the Board of Commerce.

W. A. DRAPER, Δ '07, Secretary.

Things are going along smoothly with the Philadelphia Graduate Association. Meetings have been held monthly at the Phi Deuteron house, and all the graduate brothers have benefitted immensely by the new friendships that have been made, as well as by the renewal of old ones. Enthusiastic gatherings have been held throughout the year.

The next important assembly will be the ninth annual initiation banquet of the Phi Deuteron charge to which the graduates have been invited. We all look forward with great interest and pleasure to the occasion, especially to welcoming the new brothers. The date of the affair is Saturday, April 14.

The year is rapidly drawing to a close, and only two more meetings remain on our calendar—the April and the May meetings. Election of officers for next year will be one of the most important matters to be settled. That will take place at our last meeting of the year, the meeting in May.

R. B. W. Hutt, Φ '04, president of the Philadelphia Graduate Association, was the representative of the association at the installation of the Alpha charge, on Saturday, February 17, and he brought home a very glowing report of the ceremonies. He was deeply impressed at the very successful handling of the matter, and spoke enthusiastically about the brothers who composed the newly elected group. The association was very much pleased at the favorable report that Brother Hutt brought back with him. It takes this opportunity to congratulate and welcome the Alpha charge back into Theta Delta Chi.

CARL LEWIS ALTMAIER, JR., Φ '22, Secretary.

This association is pursuing the even tenor of its ways, with nothing exciting to report. The annual election is at hand with not a candidate announced for any office. Our boys seem to resemble Artemus Ward, who once remarked, "I am no politician, and my other habits are good." Happy the organization that has no wire pullers.

Theta Delta golfers of Los Angeles and vicinity have been exceedingly active during the past few weeks. The so-called winter of Southern California has been unusually pleasant and there have been very few days not just right for playing golf. They have had one match and they are playing another. On Thursday, January 18, at the San Gabriel Country Club, they played to determine who could come closest to Old Man "Par." The contest, arranged by Roger H. Brown was spirited. Claude A. Wayne, Δ^{Δ} '07, finished first; Roger H. Brown, H^{Δ} '10, second and Frank B. Belcher, Δ^{Δ} '13, third. The others participating were: Howard S. Reed, Δ^{Δ} '13; James A. Darsie, Φ '07; George Darsie, Φ '09; James B. Irsfeld, T^{Δ} '05; and James M. Reynolds, H^{Δ} '21.

Howard T. Wayne, one of the most active and popular members of our association, surprised everyone recently by getting married. Prospects are good for the list of eligible bachelors being further reduced at no distant date.

The University Club of Los Angeles, now in its new million dollar home, claims 1,500 members. Many Theta Delts have been members for years and others have joined lately.

Hardly a week passes that there is not some new face at our Friday luncheon table. College men, especially Theta Delts, are flocking to Los Angeles all the time.

The first annual banquet of the Theta Delta Chi Alumni Association of Western New York as an organized and chartered body was held at the Hotel Iroquois, March 31. Dr. Paul Capen, K^{Δ} '98, Chancellor of the University of Buffalo, was the guest of honor and was welcomed as a new member.

William Love, X^{Δ} '03, district attorney of Monroe County was among the out-of-town guests that addressed the meeting. Norman H. Hackett, I^{Δ} '98, spoke on the ideals of the fraternity. Gen. John Graves, A^{Δ} '59, the only living survivor of the original Alpha charge was present and very much alert, despite his sixty-five years in the fraternity.

Paul R. Sheehan, P^{Δ} '09, presided and introduced the speakers. The following officers were elected for the coming year. President, Paul Sheehan, P^{Δ} '09; vice-president, Thomas Robbins, O^{Δ} '18; secretary, J. K. Morrow, Ψ '19; treasurer, Peter Heim, Ξ '20. Andrew Gilfilian, I^{Δ} '93, and Christopher Toole, H^{Δ} '05, comprised the committee of arrangements.

Since my last letter, two very enjoyable meetings have been held. It was rather late when one of the Buffalo Theta Delts learned that Don MacMillan, H^{Δ} '17, was to be in the city. A dinner in his honor was immediately arranged for at the University Club, and notices were sent out to all the brothers within reach. About twenty were on hand to greet MacMillan. A very fine dinner was served and we all made the most of the opportunity of satisfying our social as well as our physical appetites. After dinner we adjourned to the lecture room where Captain MacMillan was scheduled for a talk dealing with his experiences as a member of the party led by Commodore Perry, that reached the North Pole. The lecture room was crowded and if Brother MacMillan could have talked all night, he would have found his audience with him in the morning intact and wide awake. The talk was entitled, "In Far Off Baffin Land," and was unanimously accepted by those present as one of the finest things that they had ever heard. MacMillan is a fine speaker and aided by a wonderful collection of lantern slides, gave a lecture which from the standpoint of education and of entertainment cannot be beaten. Theta Delta Chi certainly has every reason to be mighty proud of Don MacMillan.

J. K. MORROW, Ψ '19.

On February 14, we had the very great honor and privilege of entertaining Donald Baxter MacMillan, H '97.
CLEVELAND GRADUATE ASSOCIATION Twenty-two Theta Delts listened to an informal talk about experiences at the pole, the Perry episode and warm personal high-lights on happenings in the North. Each and every one urged our delightful speaker to continue on and on and there is no question when the meeting broke about 3.30 p. m., there had been more engagements broken than would be possible to straighten out within the next six months. Every brother was so enthralled with the talk, hanging on every word, that the only thing important seemed to be for Brother MacMillan to continue. It is needless to say we were proud and happy to have had our distinguished brother with us and we surely appreciate knowing about the wonderful things he told us.

The Theta Delts present were: Charles A. Stevens, B '92; J. A. Harris, Jr., B '09; J. C. Barker, B '12; W. D. Becker, B '13; Clark P. Maxson, B '21; Robert I. Gale, Γ^Δ '06; C. N. Richards, Ξ '10; H. F. Thomas, Ξ '14; Keith Lawrence, Ξ '13; George B. Gould, H '00; J. Fred Meyer, K^Δ '07; Horace D. Kerr, N^Δ '11; Irving H. Putnam, O^Δ '12; A. E. Goss, O^Δ '17; M. S. Farmer, X^Δ '11; R. H. Perdue, E^Δ '96; W. W. Wheeler, I^Δ '03; T. L. Wickenden, H^Δ '19; Allen Kendall, B '96; A. D. Bach, N^Δ '17; Miller Wisner, Ξ '23; C. R. May, B '14.

On February 7, we had our monthly luncheon at the C. A. C. At this time the resignations of our old officers were accepted, due to the fact that our good president, Jay Harris, B '09, has removed to Atlanta, Ga., and H. A. Northrop, I^Δ '14, has gone back home to go in business for himself.

The new officers elected were: George B. Gould, president, H '00, 1630 Hollywood Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

J. Fred Meyer, secretary, K^Δ '07, 407 Union Building, Cleveland, Ohio.
 J. FRED MEYER, K^Δ '07, Secretary.

Who can beat above record?" That's what we all say—65 years and only two or three initiation banquets ever missed by Uncle Billy. That sure is some record. Providence is proud of you!

for the novel invitations, with accompanying return cards, issued for Zeta's 63d Initiation Banquet, and sent to all Grand Lodge Officers, the Charge Roll, and all Zeta's alumni. Prompt responses from over 35 per cent. proved of material assistance to the Banquet Committee in making arrangements prior to the banquet, and the attendance came up to all expectations. To Shires is also credited the design for the Uncle Billy Martin Zeta Chapter House Note, printed in the colors of the fraternity, which proved most useful in attracting pledges for the new house at 50 Waterman Street, Providence.

WILLIAM F. SCHOLZE, JR., '12, of Valleyfield, P. Q., Canada, wrote the Zeta Banquet Committee: "Distance alone will separate us, I will be there in spirit." What spirits do you mean, Bill?

ALFRED ELSON, '25, is reported thus in the March 20, 1922 Providence Journal: Alfred Elson, Brown's best quarter-miler, travelled the 440-yard event in 53½ seconds on March 17. This established a new mark for the quarter, according to Coach Smith, cutting three seconds from the old record. The Brown board track is rather a poor affair and with the recent rains has become both soggy and wobbly so the time made by Elson is exceptionally fine. Elson is the lad whose wonderful sprint in the Boston Athletic Association games enabled Brown to beat Dartmouth.

In an interview with Mr. E. A. RICHARDS, '22, who is coaching the Masquers' next production of "Andre," an interesting insight was given into the difficult problems of staging it presents and the novel solutions found for them. Mr. Richards said in part:

"The staging of 'Andre' presents several difficulties. The most formidable of these is the time limit.

"The committee therefore saw that only the most modern stagecraft would be feasible. We decided to employ two radically new features—the permanent fore-stage, and the Ars cyclorama. The former is in reality a rather old device which can be traced to the Elizabethan period. We have constructed a relatively shallow set, having three openings, back-center and one on each side. The openings are so constructed that they can be transferred from doors into windows, can be blocked out entirely, or changed from rectangular openings to archways. In this manner, we can obtain both various interior and exterior settings.

"The Ars cyclorama is our second departure from convention. This is a specially prepared curtain hung at the very back of the stage, the surface of which is so treated as to reflect light in such a way, that the eye cannot focus upon it. And because of this, it seems to have unlimited depth. Not only may this be used in connection with flood and spot lights for various sky effects, but it is possible to project slides and films upon it.

"Thus, briefly, do we expect to make 'Andre' approach an ultra modern production. The use of this fore stage is particularly apropos because it gives definite sense of unity. As the play is built about Major Andre, so is our setting unified by the general permanency of its format."

"The Omicron Bible was a remarkable one, printed in Greek and Hebrew, before any in the German language. The only charges constituted before Omicron cron to have an uninterrupted existence are Kappa and Xi. And I wonder if they use the same Bible which was used at their institution.

"Some of the Omicron Charter members had been Batrians, and they initiated some of these back in 1855. The Bible bears in gold letters on its cover, "Batrian Fraternity," and it was used by Omicron till the 1861 commencement, when it was taken by WILLIAM JAMES BRAMBLEE, '61, and the charter by WILLIAM DAWSON BRIDGE, '61.

"Brother Bramblee married a Middletown lady. He died in 1868, leaving a widow and a daughter Mary only three years of age. The widow died in 1873, and that Bible came into the possession of this young child, who has resided in Middletown for many years. Brother Bridge kept in touch with his classmate's orphaned daughter and when he came to the fiftieth anniversary of his class he called on Miss Bramblee and received from her this Batrian-Omicron Bible to be the property of Omicron when revived, and in the meantime to be in the custody of Gamma Psi. I had the pleasure of exhibiting the Bible at the Boston convention. Can any old charge of Theta Delta Chi report that they have still in use the original Bible of their charge?"

R. H. RICE '01, is connected with the Flora MacDonald College, Red Springs, N. C.

CHAUNCEY LOBINGIER, '96, who is a prominent lawyer in Pittsburgh, has been back to see the boys two or three times this year. He brought his son down to college in the fall, and young Chaunce has followed in the footsteps of his dad.

EDWIN B. TWITMYER, '96, also gets back occasionally. Pop was here early in the year to tell us what went on at the convention. He gave us a very clear and concise summary of the events which went to make the 75th convention, one to be long remembered by all Theta Delts.

CHARLES R. ANDERSON, '07, who lives over in Bloomsbury, N. J., often drops in on the crowd, and everyone is always glad to see Hy. On the day of the Rutgers-Lafayette football game last fall, Hy drove over and took four of the boys down to New Brunswick.

EVAN C. JONES, '98, is still one of the boys. He says so himself, and to judge by the pleasure he seems to get out of his occasional visits to the house one would know that he means what he says. We only wish he could find time to get down more often. This goes for all the alumni.

JIM HOEVELER, '13, was here with Pop Twitmyer. He is in the warehouse business and is doing nicely.

STUART PURSEL, '17, who is in the lumber business in Phillipsburg, drops in at the house quite regularly. His brother, JOHN PURSEL, '19, is practising law in Newark, New Jersey.

BILL ANDERSON, '19, coached the basketball team again this season. Considering the handicap under which this sport is carried on here, Bill's team had a very successful season. Next year, with the new gymnasium in use, the necessary amount of interest and support will be given to basketball, and leave it to Bill to do the rest.

H. GENDELL REEVES, '22, is with the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Chambersburgh, Pa.

PAUL W. LEITCH, '22, is working on the stock exchange in Pittsburgh. Every once in a while, someone gets one of P. W's. letters. They are always a work of art, and we all like to read them.

WILLIAM M. TIERNEY, '22, has gone South with the Rochester club of the International League. From all reports he is going well this spring and we all wish him the best of luck.

JOHN S. WYNN, '22, is in his father's office, on the Philadelphia Stock exchange. Pep says the stock market is a great game and that he is very much interested in it.

Φ^Δ CHARGE

JACK PEARSON, '14, informed us when he left Philadelphia for New York City that any mail addressed to him in care of the charge would besure to reach him. Letters addressed to him there as well as to the Club have been returned. Accidentally, we met a brother who knew of his new address, so, in the future don't fail to use the following address in writing Jack; 24 N. Washington Street, Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y. Possibly Jack will send us a few lines when he finds out that we have his address.

FLOYD A. CRISPIN, '18, has moved to his new home at 2002 N. 13th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and would be glad to see any Theta Delts when in his neighborhood.

INCH REDFIELD, '18, has returned to Philadelphia to work on the accounts of the Pennsylvania Railroad System for the United States Railroad Administration, having spent three and a half months at Detroit, Michigan, on the Michigan Central Railroad. Rumors are that Inch expects to be married this summer.

RALPH ARNOLD, '19, has been sick for the past two years, over a year of which he has been in the Bloomingdale Hospital, White Plains, N. Y. We hope that some of the brothers who get in that neighborhood will pay Brig a visit and cheer him up a little.

HOWARD C. CAMPBELL, '19, is still holding his own at the Columbia Law School, providing his mid-year examinations didn't get the best of him. Inasmuch as we haven't heard from him since the exams, we hesitate to say whether Bill is well on the way to becoming a fullfledged lawyer. Bill still lives at 460 Riverside Drive, New York City, and is always glad to have the brothers come around and talk over the olden days.

EVARD S. DODGE, '19, still receives his mail at 12 Harris Street, Newburyport, Mass. However, a registered letter sent to him at that address was forwarded to Rochester, N. Y. We hope that he will see these few remarks and send us his new address.

JOHN C. GOELLER, Jr., '19, must be a very busy man in Circleville, Ohio, for we have never known him to let his personal correspondence go so long as he has this time. We know of four letters that remain to be answered and sincerely hope that, some day, he will take time to answer all four letters in one, telling us the why's and wherefore's.

JAMES A. L. HARRIS, '19, is still in the real estate game at Wildwood, N. J. and all indications are he is making a success at the same. When you are at the shore resort, be sure to look him up at the Wildwood Title and Trust Building.

At last we have caught up with C. Lloyd Kamrath, '19. While reading the December issue of THE SHIELD we noticed where Lloyd had attended the gathering of Theta Deltas in Denver, Colorado, to celebrate the 75th anniversary last October. Through the kindness of Caldwell Martin, B'06, we obtained Lloyd's address which is 651 Madison Street, Denver, Col.

HENRY A. KROPP, JR., '19, is still with the Whistle Company of America and has moved his headquarters from Baltimore, Md., to New York City. We are glad to note that he visits the Club occasionally, so when in New York City if you fail to meet up with him at the club, try 465 Washington Street, New York City.

WILLIAM H. LIVINGSTON, '19, lives at 5937 Nassau Street, Philadelphia, Pa. That is about all we know concerning Bud. Possibly he will see these few lines and write us a letter, then we will be able to insert a few remarks in the next issue of THE SHIELD.

GEORGE C. PARKHURST, '19, is an instructor for the Maryland National Guard, and is living at 4212 Fernhill Avenue, Baltimore, Md. Pudge, why not pay the charge a visit and let us see your smiling countenance? Remember, Philadelphia is only a short distance away from Baltimore.

Congratulations and best wishes are in order for WILLIAM R. ROUNTREE, JR., '19, whose marriage to Miss Evelyn Christie has been recently announced. Bill is an enterprising young attorney at Selma, Alabama, as well as a member of the State Legislature.

MAURICE B. SMYSER, '19, receives his mail at 489 West Market Street, York, Pa. Bot seems to have forgotten us so we hope that he will take his trusty pen in hand when he sees these few lines about him in this issue of THE SHIELD.

LAFAYETTE A. TREMBLAY, '19, is associated with the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Co., Whitman, Mass., and is living at 14 Fullerton Avenue. Yank was going to pay the charge a visit in order to have one of the old time front room sessions. However, we haven't heard any more about it.

JOHN COURTENAY TWINAM, JR., '19, is working with the O. B. Andrews Paper Mills Company at his home town, Chattanooga, Tenn., and is living at 44 Twinam Apartments. Courtenay craves a few words from the old crowd, so we would suggest that the brothers get busy and flood him with a few letters. In passing, however, we note that he hasn't replied to a two page letter, written him last October, so how can he expect to get many letters.

Our latest address for forwarding mail to HAROLD S. WEBSTER, '19, is Oxford Apartments, Frankford, Philadelphia, Pa. We haven't seen Harold around the charge house lately.

If you desire to see A. D. AREND, '20, just call at the charge house, anytime after dinner. Wish we had more news to pass along, but A. D. didn't heed our request for information, consequently, we don't like to offer anything of our own invention for fear we will be sued for libel.

We are wondering if LAWRENCE BENTLEY, '20, still receives his mail at the Delavar Hotel, Lake George, New York. When he sees this, we hope he will write and tell us something about himself.

WALTER M. GOLDSMITH, '20, is still with the Elmore Milling Company, and lives at 2 Ford Avenue, Oneonta, New York. Walt is another brother who hasn't given us some up-to-date news about himself, so we will have to be content and pass him by.

HENRY C. GRISWOLD, '20, is contemplating entering Yale in the fall. He is living at his home 181 Connecticut Avenue, New London, Conn.

JAMES B. HAGENBUCH, '20, is traveling for the United States Rubber Company, and is doing what he terms Missionary work, namely selling rubber heels. Jimmie's home address is 48 Manchester Place, Newark, N. J.

GEORGE H. HELFER, JR., '20, lives at 63 16th Street, Wheeling, West Virginia, and is always glad to see any of the brothers when they are in his neighborhood.

H. FRED TEMPLE, '20, is working for the Chattanooga Furniture Co., where he has been learning the business since graduating from college. His address is 820 Oak Street, Chattanooga, Tenn.

LEON J. VAN COTT, '20, has charge of purchases and production of the "Famous Unadilla Silo," manufactured by the Unadilla Silo Co., Inc., Unadilla, N. Y. We suggest that any Phi Deuts, who contemplate a return to the farm, get in touch with Van and let him furnish you with the necessary implements.

RUSSELL A. WHIPPLE, '20, lives at 109 Olney Street, Providence, Rhode Island. Russell, it has been many moons since we have seen you or heard from you, so why not get in touch with some of the old crowd and return to the charge for a gathering.

RICHARD E. CROASDALE, '21, is the district agent for the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., and the Employers' Liability Assurance Corp. Ltd., with headquarters at the Harter

Bank Building, Canton, Ohio. During his spare time, Dick, is busy as post historian of the American Legion and Secretary of the Lions Club.

JOSEPH NOECKER, '21, address, Circleville, Ohio. It seems that both of our Circleville brothers have taken the habits of the ground hog, insofar as we haven't been able to get a rise out of them for the past year and a half. Maybe this will bring results either pro or con.

WILLIAM POLLARD, JR., '21, address 25 South Carolina Avenue, Atlantic City, New Jersey. We would suggest that some of the brothers call on Pollard when at the shore and possibly we will be able to get some news about him.

MARK B. REDFIELD, '21, is working with the James Manufacturing Co., Elmira, N. Y., and living at 410 East Church Street. He wishes to be remembered to all the brothers and hopes that you all wont forget him when in his neighborhood.

CLARENCE H. SMYSER, '21, residing at York, Pa., renewed his subscription to THE SHIELD. However, he failed to give us any information concerning his present activities. Possibly he will be kind enough to take the time and help us out so that we can have some news for the next issue.

EDWARD E. SPRENKEL, '21, has a temporary address at 200 St. Mark's Square, Philadelphia, Pa., while his permanent address is York, Pa. Sprenk will graduate as an M. D. this June, and then take up his duties as an intern at the Germantown Hospital on July 1.

CARL L. ALTMAIER, '22, is an assistant in the Department of Psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, and is living at 12 Owen Avenue, Lansdown, Pa.

The last we heard of GORDON E. BAILEY, '22, was that he was living in Elkland, Pa. We wonder if this is true, and hope that he will write us a few lines about himself so that we can pass it along to the rest of his classmates.

PAT BALLARD, '22, whose permanent address is Troy, Pa., writes us from Regina, Sask., Canada, that he is in vaudeville, and on his way to the West Coast. There is no telling where he is at the present writing so we hope he will send along another card when he sees this.

We see FREDERICK S. BUCK's, '22, smiling face at the charge house occasionally and presume that his permanent address is still in Wellsville, New York.

WILLIAM T. DODDS, '22, has affiliated with O Δ . However, we beg to advise his classmates and brothers that his permanent address is 234 Main Street, Paterson, N. J.

EDWARD H. DUKE, '22, keeps his permanent address at Wellsville, N. Y., although we understand that at the present writing he is at Wheeling, West Virginia.

GREGORY D. GRAHAM, '22, is temporarily located in Chicago, although we haven't his temporary address. Letters addressed to him at 620 South 7th Street, Terre Haute, Ind., will reach him.

KINGSLEY K. HOWARTH, '22, has affiliated with H Δ , and can be reached at the Theta Delta Chi House, Stanford University, Cal.

DANIEL KANAUAUGH, '22, has left his temporary address in Jersey City, N. J. However, he can be reached through his home address at 1602 W. 4th Street, Williamsport, Pa.

DEAK KENYON, '22, is in business with his father at Elkland, Pa. and hopes that all Thetes will stop to see him when in that neck of the woods, as that is the only way he can get any news of the outside world. Deak, we suggest a trip to the charge now and then would give you a good excuse to be boss yourself once in a while.

STEVEN J. ELDERY, '22, and RICHMOND J. FERGUSON, '22, failed to respond to the cards for addresses, therefore, we can only refer you to the new catalogue when you desire to locate either brother.

IN MEMORIAM

We would like to receive and publish an obituary of each and every brother who has passed into the Ω charge—Editor.

Harold Louis Glasser, X '21; Ω February 15, 1923, after a short period of sickness during which several complications of organic trouble arose.

Brother Glasser was born at Rochester, N. Y., on July 4, 1896. His preparatory education was received at West High School, Rochester, and after graduating there with high honors, he entered the University of Rochester in September, 1916. When the Great War plunged the college world into a chaotic state, Brother Glasser was one of the first to enter the service of his country. During his enlistment he was located at Washington in the Ordnance Department and later at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh where he received training for the Engineers. With the coming of peace, Brother Glasser returned to his Alma Mater and resumed his scientific course from which he graduated in June, 1921. After graduation he entered the employ of the Northeast Electric Co. in which he was active until his illness.

In his college years Brother Glasser, or "Dinty" as he was familiarly known, was well liked by all who knew him. Although reserved and quiet, his sympathetic nature and personality made many friends. As a Theta Delt, Brother Glasser possessed those high ideals of character and friendship which symbolize the fraternity. His unflinching devotion to the charge at all times marked him as a brother who gave untiringly. With his death Theta Delta Chi has lost the active efforts of a loyal and true son.

William Greenwood, Z Δ '04; Ω March, 1923, at his home 127 Ontario Street, St. Catherines, Ontario, Canada.

Brother Greenwood was a victim of the influenza epidemic of two years ago. Overwork, combined with a peculiar type of influenza that resulted in swollen glands, caused his death.

During the epidemic more than a hundred patients at Ridley College overtaxed his strength and resulted in his illness. He was caring for his patients again by the end of the summer and seemed much better until last May, when his strength began to fail him. By Christmas he was unable to leave his home. During the past two months he suffered acutely and death came as a blessing to him.

Greenwood was one of the charter members of Z Δ and was very active in charge affairs during his college career, holding many offices. While he was some distance from Montreal after his graduation his interest in charge activities never flagged.

A large number of the prominent men of St. Catherines attended Brother Greenwood's funeral, attesting to the esteem with which he was held. McCullough, Atkinson, and C. Greenwood were the delegation from Z Δ .

He left a wife and four children.

Brother Fowler was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Fowler of 331 Fifty-third Avenue, Seattle. Besides his mother and father, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Lillian and Miss Elizabeth Fowler, both teachers in the Seattle Public Schools.

Brother Fowler was held in the greatest esteem by his fellow brethren and there is not one that we mourn more than him. He was born in Minneapolis on June 18, 1888, and later moved to Seattle, where he finally entered the University of Washington in 1915. He was very active in the charge during his college career, and after his second year dropped out to form a corporation with George Wrentmore Ξ^Δ '20, of Manila. It was during this period that he was so instrumental in forming the Xi Deuteron Corporation, which enabled and brought about the permanency of a home for Xi Deuteron Charge.

After several years work in the corporation, Brother Fowler took the foremanship of the Forbes & Sherwood farm at White Salmon, Washington, where he succumbed to heart disease.

Frederick Clarke Fowler, Ξ^Δ '19; Ω March 25, 1923.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite goodness and wisdom to summon from our midst, Frederick Clarke Fowler, a brother most beloved and honored by all; and

He was also a member of the baseball team there and his class crew. He taught school and in various other ways worked to secure money for his college course.

He was a naturalist with a party from the United States Fisheries Commission in 1887 which spent several months in explorations in South and Central America.

In 1891 he, with Austin Cary, another Bowdoin graduate, discovered the Great Falls of Labrador, penetrating the interior where white men had not previously been. The trip was filled with hardships for the explorers. They lost their boat and provisions early in the trip but pushed on, killing such game as they could for food. He was an instructor in chemistry in Bowdoin for two years following his graduation and for two years following this was in charge of science and mathematics in the Farmington, Maine Normal School.

He had charge of athletics there and organized the athletic association. He came to Westfield in 1892 as head of the science department and had been stationed there since that time. He was one of the organizers of the Connecticut Valley basketball, baseball and soccer football league and had been president of all three bodies. He had done practically all of the coaching of High School teams in the 30 years he had been at the school.

Dennis Moore Cole, H '88; Ω March, 1923, at his home in Westfield, Mass. Brother Cole was born at Lovell, Maine, October 6, 1862.

Brother Cole was much interested in science, and in his senior year in college he was a member of an expedition which sailed around Cape Horn. He was also a member of the Bowdoin Labrador expedition in 1891. He was a member of the football, baseball, boating, and athletic associations and won the first track medal offered by the college. He taught science in Fryeburg Academy and Farmington Normal School. For the last thirty-one years he had been head of the Science Building at Westfield, Mass. High School.

The members of Eta Charge deeply mourn the loss of their brother who has now passed into the halls of Omega, and their heartfelt sympathy is extended to his relatives in their bereavement and they are assured of the inexpressible sorrow of the Eta Charge at the loss of one who was bound to us by the closest ties of friendship.

These resolutions are to be entered upon the records of Eta Charge, a copy is to be sent to his bereaved family, to the Grand Lodge, to each Sister Charge, and to THE SHIELD for publication, and our badges draped for a period of nine days.

For Eta Charge,

HARRISON W. ELLIOTT,
CHARLES F. CUMMINGS,

George Clinton Tanner, Z '57; Ω February 13, 1923, was born in West Greenwich, Rhode Island, January 21, 1834, the oldest child of Joseph and Amy Kinne Gates Tanner. His early education was in the public schools of Voluntown, Conn., which became the family home in 1840. After attending the Plainview Academy in Plainview, Conn., he entered Brown University where he studied to fit himself to become a teacher. He was initiated into Theta Delta Chi nearly seventy years ago. Several who became distinguished were then in the charge, among them George Putnam Upton, Franklin Burdge, William Leete Stone, and John Hay.

While in college Brother Tanner took several prizes for scholarship, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and graduated with honor in the class of 1857. Later he received from Brown the degree of Master of Arts.

In the fall of 1857, he married Emma Campbell of Voluntown, and removed at once to Minnesota, his first work being in Winona, where he organized the first graded schools in that city.

In 1858, he went to Faribault, as Head master of the Episcopal Institute, afterwards known as the Bishop Seabury Mission. From this developed both Seabury Divinity School and Shattuck Military School. In addition to his teaching he was studying divinity, and in 1860, he was ordained Deacon by Bishop Whipple, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in the first class of Seabury Divinity School. In 1862 he was advanced to the priesthood.

Because of the state of his health, in 1867 he removed to Owatonna, where he was Rector of St. Paul's Church for twenty years. From 1872 to 1887, he was also Superintendent of Public Instruction in Steele County. Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Tanner, of whom two sons (Samuel Seabury, of Minneapolis, and George Welles, of Chicago), and one daughter (Dr. Amy E. Tanner, the well-known writer of child psychology), survive him. (Mrs. Tanner died in 1908).

In 1887, Brother Tanner returned to Faribault, and for 22 years was director of studies in Shattuck School. In 1909, he became Professor of Liturgics and Greek in Seabury Divinity School, being made Emeritus in 1918, but he continued to assist in the work till 1920, when he was forced to give up his activities and he then made his home with his son in Minneapolis.

Among other offices which he held was that of trustee and chaplain of St. Mary's Hall, and trustee of Breck School, which owed its origin to his suggestion. In 1894 Seabury Divinity School conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology.

Dr. Tanner was deeply interested in local history and wrote many valuable articles as the result of his researches and recollections. He was Registrar of the Diocese from 1878 to 1920. He finally wrote from the material which he had done so much to preserve a "History of the Diocese of Minnesota, 1857-1907," with chapters on the pioneer work previous to this period. He also compiled two volumes of genealogies of the descendants of William Tanner, Sr. and Jr. of Kingston, Rhode Island.

Of Brother Tanner's charming personality, all who knew him can testify. His wide learning, his genuine culture and refinement, his deep consecration to his work, his untiring activity, his delightful and unflinching sense of humor, impressed all who met him.

Though compelled from a life-long infirmity to support his steps with a cane, yet he walked with speed and vigor, and journeyed far and wide until past his eighty-fifth year with all the energy of youth. An incident of the Minneapolis convention in 1920, which none who witnessed will forget, was at the Memorial Service, when two strong young brothers carried him bodily on to the platform and assisted him to his chair, and at the close of the service the white-haired saint lifted his hand in blessing and pronounced the benediction of Peace.

Brother Tanner had passed his 89th birthday and entered upon his ninetieth year with his memory and other mental faculties unimpaired. He was conscious almost to the last. On a bleak winter day, February 16, he was laid to rest in Owatonna, the funeral being held in the church where he had ministered years before. The service was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Frank Arthur McElwain, Bishop of Minnesota, assisted by several of the clergy, Brother Francis L. Palmer, M^A '85, taking part in the service at the grave.

So passes from us one who linked our past and present in unflinching friendship and love.

Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and may light perpetual shine upon him!

FRANCIS L. PALMER, M^A '85.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HE LIKES IT!

Editor, THE SHIELD:

Much obliged to you for your gentle prodding for a renewed subscription to THE SHIELD; the matter jumps from my mind with incredible rapidity.

Enclosed is a check of $5.50, enough to cover a three years' subscription. I certainly should regret missing a single number of THE SHIELD, for the magazine is just about the only way now in which I can get news of the fraternity, and I do hate like the devil to feel myself getting out of touch with the fraternity as well as my college, Williams. Send THE SHIELD along by all means!

RICHARD B. COLE, I^A '21.

ANENT GRADUATE INTEREST IN FRATERNITY AFFAIRS

Editor, THE SHIELD:

Brother Waldo F. Tobey sent me copies of his recent letters to you, which were published in the February SHIELD. I have given these letters considerable thought, and I venture to express, in my own way, what I believe was the message Brother Tobey is conveying to the fraternity, rather than have this real message lost in the storm of misunderstanding that could easily arise.

Both Brother Tobey and myself, as youngsters at Beta, received our first lessons in love for Theta Delta Chi from our close association and friendship with one of the greatest Theta Deltas who ever lived—a great lawyer, a great educator, a big brother, who loved young men (his boys), and who gave himself unsparingly to his country, his state, his Cornell, his fraternity and his profession, Brother Ernest W. Huffcut. His heart was pure love and unselfish devotion—his mind a font of crystal clear thought. I shall always count myself blessed a thousand fold, that it was my privilege and honor to have him as friend and mentor in moulding and directing me in those, my first years in the fraternity.

Our fraternity is a pure constitutional democracy, a republic of charges, like the states, with all authority vested in the charges as undergraduate bodies, but with certain delegated authority granted to a central governing body similar to our Federal government—our Grand Lodge. Brother Huffcut, in his fraternity life and work was always zealous to guard the purity of our institutions and to oppose anything that would tend to destroy real undergraduate authority and control. Not that the tendencies that I speak of have become a menace, but I believe Brother Tobey sees, of late years, certain tendencies which, if they grow and are not checked, may become a real menace to the spirit of our institutions.

For one thing—a certain form of actual coercion, which has been used, at times, against the spirit, if not the letter of our constitution, to secure the consent of a charge or charges to some particular petitioning body, also the type, tone and character of certain letters written to those charges by graduates, censuring and condemning the charges for not taking that certain action desired by graduates. This comes, possibly, from a wrong viewpoint and the failure to remember that the right of decision in such matters and the right to vote affirmatively or negatively is peculiarly and fundamentally vested in them as undergraduate bodies. And the freedom of exercise of those rights is not just cause for bitter censure, condemnation or coercion (I do not refer to help or advice offered by the graduates in the right way and spirit). We do not realize it is far better to preserve inviolate the authority of the undergraduates in things that pertain peculiarly and primarily to them, even at the cost of not attaining at times some worthy object, than to accomplish the same in the wrong way, by actual graduate coercion with the resultant precedent of breaking down undergraduate rights, the sanctity of the institution and our representative form of government.

For a second thing—that more undergraduate activity at conventions should be encouraged to the end that the real work and authority at conventions be in the hands of the undergraduates, who, as delegates, represent the vested authority of the charges; that graduate delegates at the conventions are representing their respective charges as undergraduate bodies in their graduate capacity, and should consider and act from that viewpoint, rather than from their own personal opinion.

And third—that Theta Delta Chi being an undergraduate fraternity, that graduate associations should represent proper graduate activity and interests, not necessarily that all voting power should be taken away from graduate associations, but we should be very zealous in watching the balance of power between the undergraduates and graduates and that never should the graduate vote in conventions be allowed to reach that power where, although in numerical minority, that minority, through their greater experience, power of expression and activity, might easily dominate the larger but more timid body of undergraduate representatives.

Not that Brother Tobey, for one moment, is decrying graduate activity and support of charges and fraternity. He wants more, not less. We cannot have too much of it, and I desire at this time to pay my heartfelt tribute and respects to the wonderful and self sacrificing work Brother Tobey has carried on for years, in taking up the mantle laid aside by Brother Huffcut, as big brother and adviser for Beta charge. He has given unstintingly and unselfishly of his time, efforts and means in this great work.

We must have graduate activity and support, expressed in many ways (too many and too obvious to mention), if we are to keep sacred and whole, our wonderful fraternity, devoted to the character and social brotherhood of young men as an institution which will live through the ages. We must make and keep those friendships not for a few years, but which "end only with life." We must instill into our charges and young Theta Deltas that real understanding and deep love of the spirit of the fraternity which will prevent us from ever becoming a group of separate clubs, or eating and social societies, and will continue to keep us one entity, a unified harmonious and sacred whole—that Theta Delta Chi as a fraternity which is the expressions of the spirit of the Founders.

CONCERNING THE OLDEST BADGE

Editor, THE SHIELD:

On the back of the badge pictured in the frontispiece of the February SHIELD, are two letters, which, according to the accompanying note, appear to be a Sigma and an S. In fact, the second letter is undoubtedly a small delta—certainly not an S.

In the early days, every brother bore on the back of his badge a capital and a small Greek letter. A certain contingency might cause a third to be added. I doubt if the brothers ever called each other by these letters. In my time, I suppose no brother would ever remember what any other brother's letters were. Probably the majority would not even remember their own without looking to see. The letters had, however, a hidden meaning which was explained in the constitution. If there is still a copy of the old constitution in existence it might be worth while to look the matter up in connection with Brother Brown's membership unless full details are already known. C. E. FROST, Z '90.

MORE CONCERNING THE OLDEST BADGE

Editor, THE SHIELD:

Two items apropos of articles in the recent SHIELD.

I think the writer of the descriptive matter in connection with the picture of "The Oldest Badge in Existence" is mistaken in his inference as to the significance of the letters on the back of the badge. I do not believe the brothers of the fraternity ever were known to each other by a Greek name. When I joined the fraternity in '78, we picked out Greek letters from a list contained in the constitution to signify the year (freshman, sophomore, junior or senior), in which we joined the fraternity and another for the semester or term. Some of these were capital letters, some small letters. Those on the badge pictured are evidently capital Sigma and a small Delta, which signifies that T. B. Brown joined the fraternity in such a year and such a term. As I remember it, there was not a special letter for each term and each year, but a group for each out of which the candidate selected the one he wished. My own badge bears the letters Eta-Phi-Tau; the first two signifying that I joined the fraternity in the first term of sophomore year. The third letter shows that I held the office of president of the charge.

One other item. To Brother MacWhorter's list of Episcopal ministers who are Theta Delts should be added the name of Rev. Henry Wood, K '82, who has been for thirty years or more Rector of the parish at Lawrence, Mass.

Very cordially and fraternally yours,

ARTHUR W. PEIRCE, K '82.

We did not take these men into our fraternity any more than we are taking men in now because we thought they were going to be great men. We didn't know. When John Hay went to college as a freshman, I doubt if anybody had the remotest suspicion that he would ever be a great Secretary of State. When Elmer Hewitt Capen went to college as a freshman, I don't think that anybody had the slightest idea that he would ever be a great clergyman and great educator.

When I was an undergraduate one of the heroes of the fraternity was Cameron Mann. He was then a young rector just a little while out of college. We loved him because he was Cameron Mann. We hadn't the slightest suspicion that he was ever going to be a great bishop.

I remember the story they tell about a man who came to Tufts quite a good many years ago and the Thetes were looking him over and one of them was engaged in a rather personal conversation with the freshman, and the freshman proceeded to impress him with the importance of his family. He had had a grandfather who had been a foreign minister, an ambassador; he had an uncle who was this, and a grandfather who was that, and after he had gone on for a while the man who was looking him over said, "Well, that is all right, what I want to know is what in h— are you?"

And that is the question which we ask and because we have asked that question, "What are you", and because we have taken into our brotherhood only those who could answer it satisfactorily, we have that splendid organization, graduates and undergraduates, that we know as the great Theta Delta Chi of today in the charges here and in the great Omega above.

These men became great or at least eminent. They became eminent by the development of the things which the discerning saw in them when they were in their callow freshman days. What a man is counts. That is the moral of the history of our fraternity and it points the way to the glorious future to which we all look forward.

Brother Gibbs then called on Brother Lewis Appleton Barker, Z '99, who read the convention poem. Brother Barker prefaced the poem with the following remarks:

I thank you for your hearty reception, which touches me deeply. In return, I will promise to be brief. Indeed, I have no choice otherwise. I am proclaimed here, not as an orator, but as a Poet.

In days gone by, it was considered necessary, or at least desirable, to have a Poet and a Poem (so-called) at every fraternity banquet. With many other obsolete things of the dark ages, this custom has—wisely, to my mind—been relegated to obscurity. At anniversaries, however, it is dug up, if for no better purpose than to help to portray to you younger men an additional view of the habits and traditions of "the old days."

At its twenty-fifth anniversary, Theta Delta Chi was fortunate in having for its poet, a gifted young man of the Xi charge, who, again at the fiftieth, in the maturity of his manhood and the robes of an Episcopal Bishop, performed this office—the Right Reverend Cameron Mann. It had been our hope, as it would have been your pleasure and privilege, to have had him round out his poetic services to the fraternity, by officiating likewise on this occasion, but unfortunately he is unable to be present. Hence, availability and the fact that I have sometimes dabbled in Theta Delta Chi verse, must be my excuse for stepping into—not filling—his shoes.

We gather here today, not to take a prophetic glance into the great and unknown future, but rather to take a retrospective view into the silent past, and when I realize that I had art and part in the Fiftieth Convention, it brings home to me very forcibly the fact that, although there are present many older brothers than I, there are far more younger ones, so that in point of age, at least, perhaps I am not altogether unfitted for my task.

And although, alas, no founder is here to witness this wonderful gathering of virile young men, representing charges extending from one end to the other of this vast country, yet there are amongst you, two at least, who joined this body when it was but a weak, puny infant, an experiment, with a few scattered, struggling branches, having enjoyed less than a dozen years of existence.

Now Therefore, Be It Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon our records and copies be sent to the Grand Lodge, to the members of his sorrowing family and to THE SHIELD of Theta Delta Chi for publication.

For the Association,

E. W. BARTLETT, H '80,
C. W. PERRY, Z '08,
H. T. WAYNE, ΔΔ '04.

Edward E. Law, Θ '62; Ω November 13, 1922, at Evansville, Ind. Brother Law died at the age of 85 years, after a long illness due to the infirmities of age. Brother Law was one of the oldest Theta Deltas and the oldest but one of the members of Theta charge. He was born in Vincennes, O., in 1837 and came from a long line of distinguished pioneer stock. His great grandfather was a member of the Continental Congress, his grandfather served in Congress from 1811 to 1817, and his own father served in Congress from 1860 to 1862.

In 1851, his father moved to Evansville, where with others he laid out Lamasco now part of Evansville. Law attended the Episcopal school in Evansville. He was graduated from Kenyon College in 1862 with George Shanklin, also Θ '62, later secretary of the State of Indiana. Brother Law studied law with his father and was admitted to the bar in Evansville the same year. When he died he was the oldest member of the Evansville bar. For many years before his death, he had retired from the practice, but he never lost his fondness for professional life and his associations with lawyers. His offices in the court house were a gathering place for the lawyers and leaders of public opinion who came to consult with him upon technical questions of law and of affairs of the day. Law was a member of the first Police Commission of Evansville.

His firm and lasting friendship with Brother Shanklin was one of the high lights of his career. He was socially a favorite in the state of Indiana and his commanding figure and his stately courtesy made him a notable figure at any gathering.

He married Jean Crawford Bell, in the early 60's. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Maurice J. Ellis and Mrs. Sarah Roosa, and a grandson, Howard Roosa, Jr.

Herman Nelson Dunham, H '85, Omega, January 14, 1923, at his home in Hennecker, N. H. Dunham was born at Freeport, Maine, December 14, 1860.

During his college term he was active in campus activities. After graduation, he devoted the rest of his life to teaching. Dunham taught at Greely Institute, New Salem Academy and was Principal of Wethersford, Conn. High School.

Resolved, That the members of Eta Charge deeply mourn the loss of this, their Brother, who has now passed into the halls of Omega, that their heartfelt sympathy be extended to his relatives in their bereavement, and that they be assured of the inexpressible sorrow of the Eta Charge at the loss of one who was bound to us by the closest ties of friendship, and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of Eta Charge, that a copy be sent to his bereaved family, to the Grand Lodge, to each Sister Charge, and to THE SHIELD for publication, and that our badges be draped for a period of nine days.

For Eta Charge,

HARRISON W. ELLIOTT,
CHARLES F. CUMMINGS.
