the difficulties encountered in persuading some of the brothers to part with their dues.

When college re-opened in 1914, Britain had already declared war against Germany, and new students were not as numerous as in former years. Consequently "rushing" was affected, and the prospects of recruits were not particularly bright. Moreover, six ΖΔ brothers gave up their studies to enlist. Practically all the other brothers became members of the University Officers' Training Corps.

In the spring of 1915, with Europe in turmoil and the uncertainty as to how many brothers would be returning to college in the fall, it was decided to store all the charge's furniture, for the summer at any rate. This decision was also due in part to the fact that the lease on the house which the charge was then occupying at 149 Durocher Street had expired and to the unsatisfactory condition of the treasury. Under the circumstances, a much smaller house was rented at 23 Durocher Street when McGill resumed the following September. Throughout the fall and winter, with interest in fraternal matters at low ebb, it was hard for the few remaining brothers to make both ends meet. When spring came round again it was obvious that it would be foolhardy to re-open the charge until the world had regained its equilibrium. Arrangements were accordingly made to sell the furniture, which by this time, it must be confessed, might be said to have seen better days. At this juncture the charge, to all intents and purposes, ceased as an active body.

Zeta Deuteron is justly proud of the part her sons played in the Great War, and her record in this respect will compare favorably with that of any other fraternity on the continent. Seventy-one of the one hundred and twenty brothers enlisted and saw active service. Nine of these made the supreme sacrifice and joined the Omega Charge. A large percentage of the survivors were wounded and many received decorations for bravery and distinguished service.

In looking back over the war years of 1914-1919 many incidents come to mind. Of a dinner in London where some fifteen ΖΔ gathered together to relive the old days at McGill. Of another such dinner at Folkestone. Of Wilf Bovey meeting Charley Cantley with a hole in his leg. Of Tommy Cotton "attending to" Frank Parkins when wounded. Of Ormie Stitt when dying refusing the water he wanted because he, as "Water Officer" knew the water was bad. Of meetings at "The Automobile Club" under different circumstances. Of the seven members of the Highlanders having their photograph taken en masse, and so on.

After the war, in the spring of 1919, when college life was more or less normal again, ΖΔ graduates and undergraduates then resident in Montreal got together and unanimously decided that immediate steps should be taken to re-establish their charge. This was necessary due to the fact that Brother Ivan Patrick, president from 1915-1919, had, on enlisting for Overseas Service, placed the charge constitution in such safe-keeping that on his return in 1919 even he was not able to locate it. Thanks to Norm Hackett the tradition has been developed throughout the fraternity to the point where Brother Patrick is supposed to have so well remembered the initiation service that he was able, after four years, to initiate from memory the new men taken in when the charge re-opened. Ivan himself admits the intervention of a two-day trip to New York. In any event the charge was re-opened, new men were initiated and later a new constitution was granted by the Grand Lodge.

At this time there was a good deal of competition amongst the various fraternities at McGill, and it was felt, in order to elevate ΖΔ to its proper status, that a house should be purchased, not rented. A committee of five was appointed, and, after a period of negotiation, a house at 825 University Street was secured and furnished. It was mainly for the purpose of owning this house that the graduate body of ΖΔ, ΘΔΧ (McGill) Limited, was incorporated. The house, which was not new, was renovated and furnished through the generosity of the graduate brothers. The charge as a whole cannot be too grateful to these brothers who so willingly gave of their time and money, particularly to Henry Morgan who "put up" the money with which to purchase the house and who also contributed substantially towards the repairs and furnishings.

The immediate post war period saw stirring times at McGill and at ΖΔ. The "house" was made up mainly of men who had just returned from two to four years of active service, on land, sea or air, in the greatest war of history. The remainder of the house were of the normal undergraduate age, and one can imagine the rather broad education these men were fortunate to receive. Discipline was of a high standard—shades of president "Punch" Parkins, Lloyd Rochester and Don Cantley. Money was, for a while at least, not too scarce and the standing of the fraternity at McGill was indeed high. To those who passed through them, those were indeed the days. Memories come up of Slim McMeans and his gentle playfulness, of Gordie Rochester abusing his violin, of Doug Learoyd and his stories and of "Treffy" and his best girl. Sometimes it seems as though those are the things worthwhile in life.

One of the most touching aftermaths of the war was the unveiling, on a Sunday afternoon in the fall of 1921, by Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill and formerly commander of the Canadian forces in France, of a plaque over the mantelpiece of the charge's new home. On it had been inscribed the names of the brothers who had made the supreme sacrifice. Above the plaque was arranged a Canadian flag, donated by Wilfrid Bovey who, incidentally, had secured it (in some mysterious manner) from the Canadian Pacific liner Metagama, on the stern of which it had fluttered inspiringly. Surrounding the plaque are photographs of these nine brothers.

The most important development in interfraternal relations in recent years, at least in so far as Z^{Δ} is concerned, took place in 1927 when Brother Norman Hackett, graduate secretary of the Grand Lodge, inaugurated the practice of paying official visits to the various charges in the United States and Canada. Through the medium of this emissary the parent body began to make its influence felt for the first time, and locally this supervision resulted in a more business like management and a better observance of the rules and regulations.

The charge house on University Street, now changed to number 1069, is somewhat more venerable looking but the door is still always open, the same traditions and ideals exist and a sincere and hearty welcome awaits anyone who will visit there.

ZETA DEUTERON GRADUATES

THE following descriptions provide a series of pictures taken purely at random of some of the graduates of Z^{Δ}. As may be seen, no attempt at order has been made, the descriptions being set down simply as they occurred to the mind of the writer, and with no particular thought given to the prominence of any particular brother. The object of the history is mainly to provide a cross section of the type of graduate of the Z^{Δ} charge.

Dr. James William Duncan, '01. "Jimmy" Duncan, co-founder with Howard Dickson of the $\Sigma\Phi$ society from which Z^{Δ} originated is a prominent doctor of Montreal, specializing in obstetrics and gynaecology.

Jimmy is a great lover of good horses and a devotee of fox hunting, being a prominent member of the Montreal Hunt Club. He is also keenly interested in golf having been closely associated with the formation of the Marlborough Golf Club, which is close to his estate at Cartierville a few miles outside Montreal.

Peculiarly, while Jimmy was responsible for the formation of Σ Φ and the prime mover in its petitioning of Θ Δ X, he is not a charter member of ZΔ due to the fact he was not in Montreal when the charge was installed, having graduated in the spring of that year. He was accordingly initiated on his return in 1902.

Edgar Reginald Parkins, '03. Edgar or "Teddy" Parkins was one of the first members of the Σ Φ society. He is the only charter member of ZΔ residing in Montreal. In business life he is a prominent corporation lawyer whose chief recreation is golf in the summer time, although the Market appears to have at times certain attractions. "Teddy" is one of those peculiarities known as bachelor and it is probably due to this that he has felt the need of "fathering" ZΔ to the extent he has. In any event, he is always ready to give worthwhile advice to any brother who needs it, and over a long period of years has done, in his own gruff way, a tremendous lot of good for Θ Δ X as a whole. Teddy saw active service as a captain with the 87th Battalion, and was wounded at Passchendaele in '17.

The Parkins residence is directly across from the Charge house which permits of keeping an eye on the activities of the younger generation. Mrs. Parkins, friend of many Theta Delts, there looks after her sons Edgar and Frank, the third son Gerald having broken the family custom by getting married and moving to Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan where he is practicing medicine.

Wilfrid Bovey, '03. As director of intramural relations at McGill University, "Wilf" Bovey exerts a tremendous influence not only on University affairs but on those of the community as a whole.

During the war, in his job as commanding officer of the Canadian section of General Headquarters, he was closely associated with Sir Arthur Currie in directing the destinies of the Canadian army and this successful relationship has been continued in directing the affairs of McGill.

Brother Bovey appears to have obtained his education through the medium of scholarships which permitted him after leaving McGill, to study in Paris and later at Cambridge. The story has been circulated that Wilf's father, who was then dean of the Science faculty, informed his son that he should do something toward earning his way along. Apparently the father's suggestion was a word to the wise.

In 1921, Wilf gave up his law practice and became an educationist and director of affairs. Since that time he appears to have been president or director of pretty nearly every society or association in the country. Two of his several jobs at the present time are the Handicraft Guild (President) and the Committee of Protestant education (Director).

In recognition of his services overseas, Brother Bovey has been decorated with the Order of the British Empire.

A. R. Chambers, '04. "Bob" Chambers was the first Theta Delt from the Province of Nova Scotia. Hailing from that Scotch Presbyterian town of New Glasgow, he entered McGill in 1900 and obtained his B.Sc. degree in Mining Engineering in 1904.

Immediately after graduation Bob become associated with the Wabana Iron Mining property situated at Bell Island in Newfoundland which was controlled by Nova Scotia interests, and he eventually arose to the position of Manager. In this position he had the satisfaction of seeing the property develop from small beginnings until at the time he severed his connections with this company in 1916, it was a very large producer of high grade iron ore.

Bob was always on the lookout for new possibilities in the mining field and about the year 1916 he discovered that a large area of Nova Scotia was underlain by rock salt deposits which he proceeded to acquire and shortly thereafter, mining of salt at Malagash, N.S. was commenced by Bob, together with another Theta Delt hailing from the same town, namely Brother George W. McKay.

For some years the business was continued as a partnership under the name of "Chambers and McKay," but later a limited company was formed and Bob is now Vice-President and General Manager of the Malagash Salt Company Limited.

It is rather interesting to know that this is the only mine at which salt is mined in the rock form in Canada.

Bob has been actively engaged in finding new uses for salt and he has pioneered the use of salt for improving highway conditions.

Col. The Hon. Ralph F. Stockwell, K.C., M.L.A., '08. Received his preliminary education at Grand Ligne, P.Q.; took his Arts course at McGill University, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1908. He then entered the Faculty of Law, receiving the degree of B.C.L. in 1911, and was admitted to the practice of Law in 1912.

He was associated in legal practice with the late Edson G. Place, the firm being known as "Place & Stockwell"; and at the outbreak of the Great War, having always been connected with the Mounted Infantry, and particularly with the 11th Hussars, he enlisted and went overseas with the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles as Major, serving in France, and, being invalided out, serving in England until the Armistice, after having been several times mentioned in despatches.

Owing to the fact that his health had been affected through his military service, he gave up the practice of Law in the City of Montreal and engaged in the practice of Law at his home in Cowansville in partnership with the late Hon. Mr. Boivin.

He has occupied the office of Batonnier of the Bar of Bedford, Trustee of the Hospital situated at Sweetsburg and Examiner of the Bar of the Province of Quebec.

Having always had political leanings, he ran as Liberal Member for the County of Brome in 1931, was elected, and in 1932 was appointed Provincial Treasurer. Since his appointment as Provincial Treasurer he has gained the highest regard, not only of those of the same party, but of his opponents. His word is accepted without question, his advice considered of the greatest value. In matters concerning Protestant education he has had to assume considerable responsibility, and in this as in everything else, never shirks his duty. In a single year he has become a personality in the Legislature and in the Province.

Henry W. Morgan, '13. The firm of Henry Morgan, Colonial House, is now ninety years old and Henry Morgan is one of its guiding executives.

After a B.A. course he entered the family business for a short period before going overseas with the 42nd Highlanders of Canada. From the 42nd he was transferred to the 73rd Battalion, later becoming captain and adjutant. He was mentioned in despatches and was awarded the Military Cross. He still takes a considerable interest in military affairs mainly in connection with reunions of some of the old gang. In the old city of Montreal, with its Scotch background in business and educational matters, there is probably no position of a semi-public nature open to the business men of the city to compare with the Presidency of the Montreal Board of Trade. This year Brother Morgan was elected to this office for the 111th year of its existence.

Brother Henry has always taken a very active interest in ΖΔ giving freely of his time and money and it is entirely through his efforts and generosity that the charge is now occupying its own house, rather than rented premises as previously done.

John Rhind, '23. In the fall of 1931 Brother Rhind was elected vice-president of Θ Δ Χ (McGill) Limited. This organization is the owner of the charge house and is the nucleus of graduate interest at McGill. For one year Brother Rhind was the right hand man of the president, Brother B. C. Rochester, ΖΔ '23. On the departure of the latter for the North Country in November 1932, the former was unanimously chosen to fill the vacancy thus created.

Steps had already been taken to reorganize the company and arouse more widespread interest among the graduates. Monthly luncheons were started and have proved a great success. The paramount question was that of housing facilities for the charge. This has been studied from every angle and Brother Rhind has the matter well in hand.

When ΖΔ was notified that it would have the place of honor in the May 1933 issue of THE SHIELD, it was to Brother Rhind that the matter was referred, and the entire responsibility of the task was readily accepted with his usual desire and eagerness to serve the Fraternity. The amassing of material relating to the University, to the City of Montreal, and the writing of the Charge history and biographical sketches have all been brought to their successful conclusion by his able hands and diligent hard work. The thanks of ΖΔ, for this excellent contribution as a record of her achievements, go entirely and whole-heartedly to John Rhind, President of the Montreal graduates of Θ Δ X.

MONTREAL — CITY OF THE ROYAL MOUNT

IT WAS in 1535 that Jacques-Cartier, sailing up the mighty St. Lawrence River, came upon an aborigines' encampment situated between the water and the base of a mountain on an island thirty miles long. The village was called Hochelaga. Champlain, in 1611, instantly saw the strategic possibilities of the town that was slowly growing, and he established a trading post there. Thirty-one years later the "city" of Montreal had actually come into being, created by Paul Chomedy, Sieur de Maissonneuve. He had brought with him a little band of priests and soldiers, and it was not the first time that a militant missionary zeal rather than a commercial pioneering spirit had founded an outpost city destined to play a great rôle in the world trade of later centuries.

Montreal remained under French rule until 1763, when Canada became a British possession through the Treaty of Paris. Since then its development has been steady and consistent. At the time of the cession to Great Britain the city had a population of 3000; at the beginning of the last century the number of inhabitants had increased to 12,000, and now the most recent estimate puts the total population at well over the million mark.

Much has happened to Montreal in a decade. Ten years ago it was the ninth city of the Continent in population. In that short time it has passed Boston, Baltimore and St. Louis, and today is exceeded only by New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit. As a purely French city, it does not fall so very far behind Paris and Brussels.

Its rapid strides to the front rank of world cities are due to its unique position on the St. Lawrence River, at a point where the enormous cargoes transported by the ships of the Great Lakes are transferred to the Trans-Atlantic steamers. The harbor extends for sixteen miles on either side of the St. Lawrence and, although a thousand miles from the ocean seaboard, it has become the second port of North America and bids fair, with its vast connections with the Old World, to become one of the greatest internationally. For eight consecutive years Montreal has been the greatest grain port in the world. It is interesting to know that Montreal is the terminus for three systems of canals and two railways, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railway, the shops of the former containing one of the largest locomotive and car building plants in existence.

Approaches to Montreal are many and varied. As one of the best and most abiding, there is the panoramic view as revealed from the deck of a steamer, with the noble Mount Royal buttressing and shielding the great city that widens like a fan along the river front. The glimpse of the harbor during the season of navigation presents a marine picture on a gigantic canvas with all kinds of craft—from the stately ocean liners fresh from the yonder shores of the Atlantic, to the river craft and noisy ferries. Giant elevators and warehouses tell the world that here is an Emporium of Exchange, a world center of Commerce; a trading post that has vastly transcended any dream of the old fur and other traders.

Mount Royal, in the center of the city, is a hill of some 800 feet above the level of the St. Lawrence. It is rugged and is set apart as a city park, upon which no automobile is allowed. The summit of this mountain reveals a magnificent view of a forest of roofs and trees, of dominating domes and spires (there are 300 churches in the city), of arrogant sky-scrapers and of the kingly St. Lawrence River bordering the metropolis on the south. And further south may be seen the alluring hills of the Adirondack Mountains of New York and the Green Mountains of Vermont. This panorama is one of the show sights of the world.

One glance at the location gives an idea of the tremendous water power which is being developed so that manufacturers may obtain, at a small cost, the electricity so vital to their needs. The power available for use in Montreal represents approximately one-fifth of the total power generated in the United States. There is an appearance too, of quiet, solid prosperity and gathering wealth that is not lost on the visitor. True it is that industrialists with much capital at their disposal are constantly being attracted to this famous French city of the West, and are ready to assist those wishing to contribute to the expansion of Canadian industries.

There are no fewer than 1400 industries in Montreal. The more important factories are for locomotives, railway cars, structural iron and steel, electrical appliances, boots and shoes, rubber goods, machinery and tobacco. The city contains the largest flour mill in the British Empire, and it has a capacity of 6000 barrels in 24 hours. Here too, is the principal plant of the Canada Car and Foundry Company whose gross sales amount to several millions annually. Montreal has the greatest stock yards, abattoirs and packing houses east of Chicago, and here are to be found the largest cold storage plants in the British Empire. In fact, she is almost completely self-supporting, producing or handling practically all the wants of a modern city.

Montreal is a great seat of learning. There are more than 250 public schools, all of the bilingual, teaching both the French and English languages from the earliest grades (75 per cent of Montreal's inhabitants are of French-Canadian origin). The University of Montreal and dignified old McGill University are known all over the world. McGill has a standing considered equal to the older English universities, the Sorbonne or Heidelberg, while the University of Montreal is an outstanding example of a French university; the two resulting in a peculiarly desirable combination of a typical French and a typical English university.

There is an intimate connection between the romantic and the prosaic in Montreal. The most practical phases of commercial activity evolved themselves amid the historic scenery, the stage effects and other reminders of a more romantic period and a less practical system. As the years roll by, and as the octopus of commercialism asserts itself, what remains of the old and romantic diminishes, but some of the more historical landmarks in the very heart of the business district have been preserved. In the lower part of the town, amidst huge porticoed and pillared banks, the City Hall and the fine new Court House, may be seen little grey-walled cobble-stoned courtyards that might have been transplanted from some old world capital. And here may be seen also the Notre Dame Church, holding 12,000 persons and having in one of its two towers one of the largest bells in America, weighing 12 tons. On the site of this beautiful sanctuary or near it has stood a church ever since the colony was founded in 1642, although the present one has only been open for worship since 1829. The old Seminary, however, which adjoins the church was built in 1685 and is a most interesting example of seventeenth century architecture, with its outer wall loop-holed for musketry, its courtyard and silent clock over the main doorway, all imparting to it the charm and quaintness of antiquity. But what catches the fancy even more than these old walls is the fact that behind the Seminary, shut away from the public gaze, is a beautiful garden where the Sulpician Fathers breed poultry and grow all kinds of vegetables.

There are, as has been said, two cities in one—English-speaking and French-speaking. There are streets where, in crossing from one curb to another, a bit of England is left and a bit of France entered. And therein lies one of the charms of this City of Charms. If variety is the spice of life, variety in language and architecture and customs is the spice of travel. An old-world atmosphere still envelops the distinctively French streets and boulevards. The very shop fronts and shelves of goods have a Gallic individuality, while an early morning tour of the historic old Bonsecours Market is to be again in a market of Dieppe or Rouen.

Montreal: the city of good cheer, and cheerful good, the city where play as well as work has a place, where, in the good old summer time, the lover of aquatics or golf or racing has his wishes met, and where, in the real, genuine, sparkling winter of our continent, he may, as a man of the northern zone, revel in a long range of winter sports and pastimes, from a hair-lifting toboggan descent to a snowshoe tramp, or clad in coat and toque and moccasins, cover leagues on the summit or slopes of Mount Royal or cross-country, as Montrealers have done for a century or more. And a city for skiers!

Romance, tragedy, hardship, endurance, undaunted determination and great endeavors run like threads of gold and gray through the three hundred years of Montreal's history—threads that have been woven into a pattern of beauty and distinction and that is one of its priceless possessions. Since those early days of beginnings, the City-on-the-St. Lawrence,

Has grown in her strength like a northern Queen, 'neath her crown of light and her robe of snow,
And stands in her beauty, fair, between The Royal Mount and the river below.

Prof. Robert Frost, 0Δ '93, was the recipient of two honorary degrees in June, 1932, one from Columbia and one from Williams. The Williams citation was as follows: "For the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters I have the honor to present Robert Frost, son of Dartmouth and of Harvard; Professor of English at Amherst; scholar; teacher; farmer; poet of the great and simple things in nature and in the heart of man. Born at the Golden Gate, his spirit takes flight across the continent, and touches with mystery and magic the quiet passion and the secret beauty that dwell among New England hills."—Clipping.

McGILL UNIVERSITY, MONTREAL, CANADA

IN THE shadow of the lightly-wooded slopes of Mount Royal which dominates Canada's great and thriving metropolis of Montreal, lies McGill University, one of the oldest and most famous of the Dominion's institutions of higher learning. With its main buildings grouped around a central avenue, over which arch the branches of an historic line of elms, McGill is a place of beauty as well as a haven of rest in the center of the stress and toil of a busy city.

Internationally famed for its schools of medicine and engineering, McGill University prides itself on the cosmopolitan nature of its student body. Young men and women from all parts of the world assemble within her portals, and after taking the regular courses, return to far corners of the globe as emissaries and ambassadors of their Alma Mater. This has given McGill a reputation that is almost universally recognized and each autumn when the students assemble for the winter's term new faces from near and far are to be observed in the various schools and faculties.

McGill University is an independent, non-sectarian institution, and being privately endowed is in no way under Government control. This year the university will celebrate the 112th anniversary of its foundation. Hon. James McGill, a leading merchant and public spirited citizen of Montreal, who died in 1813, was the founder of the university which bears his name. In his will be bequeathed the property on which the central Arts building now stands and a sum of money to found a college. A charter was granted in 1821, but it was not until eight years later that classes in the faculties of Arts and Medicine were commenced. After early struggles, the university finally became firmly set on its feet and has since gone ahead with tremendous and rapid strides until it now takes its place among the leading universities of the world.

Perhaps the most famous of the faculties of McGill University is the school of medicine, which has trained and graduated many outstanding physicians and surgeons and to which students come from many different countries. The faculty is well endowed and equipped and it possesses a unique feature in that all the buildings where the student's work is carried on are within a stone's throw of one another. The latest addition to the faculty is the Neurological Institute established mainly through the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation and headed by Dr. Wilder G. Penfield. The first two years of preliminary study are taken in the central Arts building, after which the student enters the five-year course leading to the degree of M.D., C.M. His home is then transferred to the Strathcona Medical Building, and near at hand he finds the Pathological Institute, the Biological Building and the Royal Victoria Hospital where a university clinic has been established and where a full-time staff co-operating with the departments of pathology and experimental medicine teaches clinical medicine. The training given at the school is thorough in both theory and practice and given by medical professors who are experts in their individual branches of work.

Not less well known than the medical school is the faculty of engineering where courses are offered in architecture, electrical engineering, mechanical, civil, mining, metallurgical and chemical engineering. Here, too, the student has considerable advantages by reason of the neighborhood, there being some of the largest hydro-electric developments and industrial plants in close proximity. The teachers in the various departments are in many cases associated with various engineering companies and keep thoroughly up to date as to methods and developments. In recent years the laboratory space and equipment has been enlarged and improved and the student is now able to work under most satisfactory conditions. The outstanding places which McGill graduates have won in the engineering fields testify to the quality of the courses offered.

Oldest of the university buildings is McGill College which houses the Arts faculty and the comparatively new School of Commerce. In recent years the students in these faculties have increased in number to such an extent that the available space has been crowded to the limit. Five years ago the building was rebuilt, though the historic old front walls were retained in the new plan. The addition of a magnificent little theater, known as Moyse Hall, has filled a long-felt want.

The courses in arts and commerce are open to women, who are instructed partly by themselves, partly with and on equal status with the men. The women are connected with the Royal Victoria College, where there are resident quarters, a gymnasium and other conveniences.

The faculty of dentistry, with courses leading to the degree of doctor of dental surgery, is one of the more recent additions to the University. Its quarters are in the medical building, and it has a fine clinic at the Montreal General Hospital.

A three-year course is offered in the faculty of law, which is a well-established school at the university. Special attention is paid to Roman Law, upon which the legal system of the Province is based and also to commercial and international law. Many of Canada's leading statesmen, past and present, have graduated from this faculty of McGill.

The faculty of music, in connection with which there is a conservatorium of music, gives junior courses as well as senior courses leading to a degree in this subject. Music plays an important part in University life, particularly among the undergraduates who have a large number of groups and societies devoted to the pursuit of this muse.

A number of higher degrees are offered by the faculty of graduate studies and research, including those by Master of Arts, Master of Science in Agriculture, Master of Science, Master of Commerce, Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Science, Doctor of Literature, Doctor of Civil Law and Doctor of Music.

Schools and departments at the University also include the School for Graduate Nurses, which gives advanced courses in hospital, community and public health training: School of Physical Education, for women, and the only one of its kind in Canada; and the Library School which is also unique in many features, and which gives training in libary administration.

McGill takes its part in the life of the community which surrounds it through its department of extra-mural relations, which gives many public lectures and keeps in touch with affairs outside the actual University circle. This department is becoming widely known on the continent.

At Macdonald College, situated about twenty miles outside Montreal, are housed the faculty of agriculture, the school of household science and the school for teachers, all of which are directly connected with and a part of McGill. The faculty of agriculture was one of the first schools of its kind to be established in Canada, and has always been noted, not only for the splendid facilities which it offers to students, but for the attention it has paid to research problems. The school has in the last few years attracted numbers of students from various parts of Great Britain who have been sent out to Canada in selected groups.

The several libraries of the University now contain over 350,000 volumes and 40,000 pamphlets, considerable collections of maps and photographs, and a number of the rarer and more costly monographs and serials, which are indispensable for purposes of research. The University Library now receives over 1200 periodicals, government publications, and transactions of various literary and scientific societies. Of particular interest is the Gest Chinese Research Library, which contains, in addition to works in English and European languages, a Chinese collection of 90,000 books on all subjects, including an unusually large number of early rare Buddhist and Imperial editions. In this connection a department of Chinese studies has been started at McGill under the chairmanship of a leading Chinese scholar.

McGill possesses several museums which contain highly valued collections. There is the McCord National Museum, largely devoted to objects of historic interest to Canada; the Peter Redpath Museum, which contains much of entomological, geological and historical interest; the Strathcona Museum, partly general and partly medical; the pathological, architectural, botanical and hygeniac museums.

The University prides itself on the outstanding ability of its leading professors and instructors in the past and equally much in the present. Many of them are graduates of the University itself, others have been brought or have been attracted to McGill from various parts of the world. But their influence has been widespread and they have all helped in their own way to further the honor and renown of Canada's great University.

McGill principals have all been outstanding men, widely esteemed. The present executive head is General Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the Great War and who is one of Canada's leading citizens. The chancellor of the University is E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of Canada's mighty transportation system, the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Student activities at McGill are manifold. Undergraduate affairs are controlled by a central council of students who have their own Union building and recreation rooms. There are debating leagues, musical and dramatic societies, an undergraduate newspaper and all manner of undergraduate activities. There are no University dormitories at McGill, but the students live in large boarding and fraternity houses in the neighborhood of the campus.

Every opportunity is given to the students to take part in sports, both in summer and winter. McGill teams compete in all branches of athletics, and the University is well equipped with playing fields and space for all manner of games. The University colors of red and white are often to be seen floating aloft to signalize victories in athletic events.

McGill is ideally located in that it stands in the center of Canada's leading city, within reach of all with which it wishes to interest itself, yet sufficiently contained within itself to remain as isolated as it may wish. Its reputation, gained in the past is being maintained and furthered in the present, and the University looks forward confidently to a future of even greater prosperity and success.

The Upper Mississippi Graduate Association luncheon is now held every Thursday, at 12:30, in the Andrews Hotel, Minneapolis.

CAMPUS LEADERS OF 1932-33

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found a miscellaneous collection of pictures of men who have achieved prominence on their respective campuses. Undoubtedly there are many more brothers whose names and photographs should appear in this honor roll of 1933 but THE SHIELD can take recognition only of those brothers whose Charge has undertaken to bring notice of them to the Fraternity at large.

Thoroughly imbued with the idea that campus leadership is the logical forerunner of leadership later in life THE SHIELD welcomes the opportunity to bring to the front those brothers who have given signal promise of future greatness for Θ Δ X.

From away up in the frozen recesses of Minneapolis where they tell me one must get a visa from the Swedish Ambassador before entering, a loyal housemate has sent us the following interesting sketches of members of the current group. The names appear to be pretty much anglicized or perhaps Americanized but we tank they bane gude Swedes yust the same.

RICHARD S. SKINNER, T^{Δ} '34

To Brother Richard Skinner, T^{Δ} '34, we can point with a great deal of pride. He is a Minneapolis man, and entered college and Θ Δ X with an excellent high school record and many good friends. In spite of the advantage that this gives him over other aspiring brothers, he has worked hard for all that he has won.

Brother Dick, a junior in the school of Business Administration, was elected treasurer of the University Y.M.C.A. last year. In this position he directed the Y's big 1932-33 financial drive with results that placed this organization in excellent shape. Going farther back, we find that during his freshman year he won his numerals in swimming. Since then, though he did not continue in this sport, he has been one of the mainstays on the T^{Δ} swimming team, which has won the championship for the past two years.

This year he has collected still further honors. Just as this article is being written he has won the election to the presidency of the Y by a safe margin. This position automatically places him on the all-U. Council, directing body of student affairs. In addition, Brother Skinner is a member of the Senior Advisory Board. These achievements are the results of hard work and valuable service, and if his senior year brings as much more as this year has, he should be up near the top.

Dick is one of those brothers to whom Θ Δ X is everything. The spirit of our fraternity is as much a part of him as an arm, and he strives hard to instill in others that same attitude. Everyone gets along with Dick. He can be serious and meditative, or he can be as merry and hell-raising as the rest of us, and he usually is. He is a leader and a planner, and the future should hold big things for him. TΔ is back of him to a man.

GORDON D. WILLIAMS, TΔ '34

(He bane fine yentleman, too)

Brother Williams came to us from Sherrill, New York, and was initiated in 1931. In spite of the fact that as an engineer he must spend much time studying, he has found time to become active in many important campus positions. A review of his freshman year reveals a long list of memberships on committees which are too numerous to name. His sophomore year started out with a "bang." He was elected sophomore president of the Engineering school by a large majority, and served as vice-president on the Sophomore Commission. His valuable service in these capacities slated him for election to the high positions he holds this year.

The first part of this, his junior year, brought election to the presidency of the academic Interfraternity Athletic Council, Alpha Phi Chi. The next honor to come "Gordie's" way was the succession to the presidency of Phoenix, Junior honorary society, of which he was vice-president. Shortly afterwards, he was appointed to the Senior Advisory Board, and finally came an invitation to join Pnyx, a new campus political society that is aiming at reform.

Brother Williams is one of those men you can't help liking. He is always cheerful, jolly, and willing to help. We do not claim him to be the perfect brother, for he has faults as well as virtues. One of these is a scholarship record that is not exactly trail-blazing in the upper registers, and another is the only-too-human trait of procrastination. But we are proud of him and expect more big things. The year that he has left in school should produce even greater honors, and we are all wishing him "more power."

HOWARD B. SMITH, TΔ '31

Although he is the only representative of TΔ on the Farm Campus of the U. of M., Howard B. Smith, TΔ '31, has carried on alone and made a name for himself there. Howard comes from St. Cloud, Minnesota, and he was slated to graduate in 1931. However, certain unfortunate circumstances forced him to discontinue school for a while, postponing his graduation to this year.

Brother Smith's honors have come to him largely in the past two years. His freshman and sophomore years saw him on numerous committees, but they were of minor importance. In his junior year he was the secretary of the junior field work class at Cloquet, Minnesota, where is located one of the few experimental forests of the colleges of the country.

This year has been a fruitful one for "Howie." He was elected treasurer of the Agriculture Student Council, and secretary of the Forestry Club. The next honor came as a result of his work in organizing the independent students on the Farm Campus into a party to oppose the monopolistic rule of the campus forestry fraternity. The latter was running things pretty much its own way, and there were many dissatisfied men among the students. Brother Smith was quick to see the situation and so organized these men to defeat the politicians. As a result, he was appointed chairman of the Honor Case Committee. This body deals with violators of the honor system, and is the campus judicial body. In addition to these achievements, he is a member of Wing and Bow, honorary society of academic fraternity men.

Always practical and never romantic, Howie has been dubbed "Grandma" Smith. The reason for this is his way of always being cool and calm and always using foresight. He is a quiet chap, and is much given to talking about good books, economic problems, and symphony music. He loves a good sociable time, however, and is not the stern, placid person that this description might lead one to think he is.

His last year has been a big year, and we hope each succeeding one will be bigger. We are very proud of his work, and wish we could recruit another like him.

FRANK BROWN, ΔΔ '34

Delta Deuteron writes in to tell us of three brothers who have made good in a big way on the University of California campus this year. Frank Brown, house president, has been a big success in theatrical work. Many of his plays have been produced and he was given the great honor of having his latest work, "The Gang's All Here," chosen for the Senior Extravaganza, the biggest production of the year. Besides writing plays, Frank has been assistant manager for the Little Theater. He expects to continue his study in the East next semester, and we all wish him much luck.

ULRICH A. FRITSCHI, ΔΔ '33

"Duke" Fritschi, '33, was freshman football captain in his first year here, and now after three years of varsity football, he has laid up his togs and joined the wrestling team. He has been the leading wrestler in the 160 pound class this year.

FRANK H. BUCK, Jr., ΔΔ '33

Frank Buck, Jr., seems to be following in his father's footsteps. You might know that Frank Buck, Sr., ΔΔ '07, was elected to Congress. Frank, Jr., hasn't attained national prominence yet, but has been a leader on the California Campus for the last four years. He was editor of the Daily Californian last semester, and is now Publicity chairman of Senior Week.

HAWLEY EGLESTON, ΓΔ '33

After making an enviable record in high school by setting the state record in both low and high hurdles Hawley came to Michigan to continue his conquests. In his sophomore year he tied the world's record for the seventy-five low hurdles and also holds the meet record in the highs at the West Virginia Relays. He has the ill fortune to have stiff competition from other hurdlers in his class. Lee Sentman and Jack Kellar, two of the best in the country have been in other Big Ten schools at the same time. However, Hawley has been a close second to both of these men in many meets. It is most probable that Brother Egleston will give Kellar his best race in the outdoor meet in May. Hawley is a senior and is well known on the campus for his congeniality. He is a member of both the junior and senior honorary organizations Sphinx and Michagamua. He is the son of M. J. Egleston, ΓΔ '01, and resides in Chicago.

LAWRENCE KELLY, ΓΔ '33

As president of the ΓΔ Charge, Brother "Bill" Kelly has proved an able and inspiring leader. Under his quiet and yet forceful leadership, Θ Δ X has easily maintained its high position on the Michigan campus and added many new honors to its name. At such critical times when through force of circumstances the Charge has found it advisable or necessary to build up a much larger unit than has been our past history, an able president of the Charge has been of greater importance than any collection of individual honors won out on the campus. Brother Kelly has filled this important commission with an abundance of tact, diplomacy, and able direction.

THOMAS CONNELLAN, ΓΔ '34

WILBUR F. BOHNSACK, ΓΔ '34

W. GRAFTON SHARP, ΓΔ '34

There are three men of the junior class who stand out on the Michigan campus at this early time of their college career. They are Brothers Connellan, Sharp, Bohnsack. All three have been elected to Sphinx, junior literary honor society. The Theta Delts have the largest representation and hold the main offices in the organization. Bill Bohnsack is president and Tom Connellan is secretary-treasurer.

They have achieved their fame in the publications field. Tom is a junior editor of the Michigan Daily. Graf Sharp is advertising manager of the same publication. Bill is publication manager of the Gargoyle magazine. Besides this, Bill is a member of the Student Council having been elected in his sophomore year. The same year he made a reserve award in varsity basketball.

All three of these men are considered at present as having the most likely chance of obtaining the high position on their staffs.

Brother Connellan is from Grosse Ile, Michigan, Sharp from Port Huron; and Bohnsack from Chicago.

RICHARD H. FLEMING, ΓΔ '34

JACK E. SALMON, ΓΔ '34

"Dick" Fleming and Jack Salmon have recently been appointed managers of the gym and wrestling teams, respectively. Jack is also vice-president of the junior engineering class. Fleming hails from Birmingham, Michigan, and Salmon from Chicago.

JAY POZZ, ΓΔ '34

Jay Pozz has risen to great heights in a short time in the dramatic world of the campus. He had one of the main leads in a recent production and is now working on another one. He is a junior and lives in Detroit.

WILLIAM SHEPARD, ΓΔ '35

"Bill" Shepard was president of last year's freshman class. He also won his numerals in boxing. Bill is now very active on the business staff of the year book, the Michigensian. He is a sophomore and from Cleveland, Ohio.

JOHN McCARTHY, ΓΔ '36

"Jack" McCarthy of Rockford, Illinois at the time of this writing is preparing to lead the grand march of the Frosh Frolic. He has already achieved campus recognition for the successful leadership in making it a financial success. He is also president of the Rendezvous Club, a freshman organization.

ARTHUR E. CHAMBERS, Ψ '33

"Art" Chambers spent his junior year studying and playing in Paris, and returned last fall very much a man of the world. He has won two letters in soccer and another three in drinking. As an intercollegiate debater of renown he always manages to be one of the men chosen for the debates against the women's colleges. He has two brothers who are Theta Delts from ΘΔ, but claims he'd rather be a classicist than an engineer.

ROBERT M. DIGGS, Ψ '33

The presidency of Psi is only one of Mac's attainments in four years at Hamilton. He is a member of D.T., Quadrangle, and Π Δ E, honorary societies; also of Φ B K and K B Φ his junior year, and of the Varsity H Club. He has gained his letter for three years in soccer, and is managing editor of Hamilton Life, assistant editor of the Freshman Handbook, member of the Upperclassman Council, and a Chapel monitor. In the scholarship line again Mac has two mathematical scholarships and one prize, and is one of the McKinney Prize debaters for this year. It is also rumored that in spite of desperate efforts to lower his grades this year he is in line for either a Valedictorian or Salutatorian post. A hard man to replace, and we will hate to lose him this year.

WILLIAM A. HANDS, Ψ '33

"Bill" Hands has sung for four years on the Hamilton College Choir, has played the drums for the College Band, and has been on the varsity soccer, fencing, and track squads from time to time. He is a member of D.T., sophomore honorary society. About the house Bill is herald, delegate to the interfraternity council, and chairman of every committee in existence. He also manages to find time to entertain the boys by tickling the keys of the piano, often playing numbers of his own composition.

D. GERALD KENNEDY, Ψ '34

The step-son of Bill Love, Jerry has spent most of his time here instilling the fraternal spirit into Psi Charge, and has done a remarkably good job. In his spare time he has managed to make D.T., sophomore honorary society, and to become one of the most promising writers on the staff of the Hamilton Literary Magazine and the editor of the feature section of the 1934 Hamiltonian, his class yearbook.

F. CARLOS FERRY, JR., Ψ '35

A member of Quadrangle and D.T., freshman and sophomore honorary societies respectively, Carl also sings in the Choir and is one of the outstanding athletes at Hamilton. Although a sophomore he has been elected captain of next year's soccer team and was one of the most consistent and brilliant performers on this year's hockey team. He was also the sensational dark horse in the interfraternity track meet last May.

THORAL WARNER, 3 LETTER MAN
THORAL WARNER, X '33,
JACK ERDLE, X '35, ROBERT VAN SLUYTERS, X '36

"Brick" Warner, the incoming president of X Charge attained the distinction in his sophomore year of winning letters in football, basketball and baseball. This outstanding athlete is a product of Webster High, where he also starred in these sports.

In his frosh year "Brick" did not go out for football, but along with Lee Henehan, X '34, was easily the star of the frosh basketball and baseball teams. When football came round the following fall, Brick quickly became a stellar backfield man on a fair grid team, playing with distinction through an arduous season.

He repeated his stellar play of the preceding winter and spring on the Varsity cage and baseball teams. Last fall "Brick" suffered a major injury which threatened to end his athletic career and hindered his play on the court during the winter but all X is sure that he will regain his form this spring and star with Coach Davies ballclub. He is a member of Pro Concordia and Yellow Key.

For the first time in Rochester's history are the fancy divers on the Varsity and Freshman swimming teams members of the same house, Jack Erdle, X '35 and Bob Van Sluyters, X '36, accomplishing the feat.

Jack Erdle came to college with no previous diving experience, but the owner of an enviable record as a tumbler and the blessing of an iron nerve. In two years he has made himself one of the stars of the Varsity team, being runner-up in the number of points scored in this year's meets. Jack finished in the money in every diving event of the year, he was, in fact, lower than first, only twice and once then by but four hundredths of a point. A good future seems assured to him. He is a member of X P and Φ Π Σ in addition to being President of his class.

Bob Van Sluyters, the all-round star of this year's frosh team had the experience of competition in several summer meets in Michigan behind him when he turned out last fall. His perfect form on the board was one of the features of the Frosh season and in the open-college meet he finished second only to Brother Erdle. Besides his diving ability he is a finished free-style swimmer and was a member of the crack Frosh 200 yard relay team.

ALFRED E. KING, Z '33

Brother King, retiring president of the Charge, was photographic editor of the college year book, Liber Brunensis. Next fall, he enters medical school, following in the professional footsteps of his father and two brothers. Brother King's home is at Woonsocket, Rhode Island. He prepared for college at Tabor Academy. His brother-in-law is Jackson Keefer, Γ^{Δ} '25.

OSCAR HAMMER, Z '33

Brother Hammer succeeds himself as captain of the Varsity basketball team. He is a member of the Junior honorary society, Brown Key, and is one of the best students on the campus, his grades being close to an "A" average since entering Brown. He is in the Engineering School and is corresponding secretary of the Charge. His home is in Weehawken, New Jersey.

ALFRED HALBERSTATDT, Z '34

"Fred" Halberstatdt is the incoming Charge president. He is the nephew of Paul Sheafer, Σ^{Δ} '89. Brother Halberstatdt's home is in Pottsville, Pennsylvania. He prepared at Westminster Academy.

NORMAN SINGLETON, Z '34

Brother Singleton is a member of Sphinx and managing editor of the Brown Daily Herald. His home is in Providence and he is the incoming recording secretary of the Charge.

JOHN B. HARRIMAN, Z '34

"Jack" Harriman is the manager-elect of next season's soccer team. He is Herald of the Charge and chairman of the rushing committee. His home is in Scarsdale, New York, and he prepared at Scarborough School.

WINSLOW ROBBINS, Z '34

Brother Robbins wrestled with the Varsity team this year and although he weighs only one hundred and twenty-five pounds, he played on the Varsity Lacrosse team in his sophomore year. Next year he he serves a second term as treasurer of the House. His home is at Abington, Massachusetts.

A SIGMA "COVER," CIRCA 1867-71

THE ZETA SEAL AND OFFICIAL ENVELOPE, 1853-61

WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK IN PHILATELY

NO, READER, that's not a typographical error for Philadelphia. Philately is a rare word for a rarer pastime, or hobby, or luxury, more commonly known to the uninitiate as stamp-collecting.

Everybody in Θ Δ X knows Brother Robert S. Emerson, Z '97. But not everybody knows of him as one of the country's leading philatelists, and scarcely a dozen know of the incident with which this contribution is concerned.

However, before we come to that, let us see what his fellow-enthusiasts in the philatelic field think of Bob, as set down in the pages of The New Southern Philatelist for August 1930, under the caption

EMINENT JURIST, INDUSTRIAL LEADER, FRATERNITY MAN, AND ONE OF THE "BIG FOUR" IN AMERICAN PHILATELY

American philately need not turn to the crowned and titled of the Old World for its raison d'etre, or point out some Croesus in an attempt to establish its "right of eminent domain." There are men in our own country—gracing temple and mart, and bench and bar—who, in their scant hours of leisure, find real joy in the collecting and study of stamps. And to these, our own champions, we should point with pride when skeptic tongues decry our favorite pursuit.

Outstanding among the paladins of philately's court is Judge Robert Stephen Emerson, of Providence, Rhode Island.

The world at large knows this man of distinction both in his official and business capacities, but the delightfully human and sympathetic side of Judge Emerson discloses itself when you sit in with him on a stamp seance. The austerity of the ermine is laid aside, while wit and anecdote chase one another in boyish glee.

Following this introduction came a biographical sketch entirely surrounding Brother Emerson's portrait in the center of the page.

Where does the second Greek come in? Well it was this way: Mr. H. P. Atherton of Springfield, Massachusetts, is a philatelist, a collector of "covers,"—and a Deke. Also, he is a friend of Bob Emerson; indeed he must be a good friend, else he would not have known of Bob's intense interest in everything pertaining to Θ Δ X nor would he have been impelled to part with the rare cover illustrated on the page opposite, which he generously presented to our Theta Delt brother.

This was probably written and mailed by Brother Raymond C. Loomis, Σ '71, of Pottstown, Pennsylvania, to a relative, one ventures to guess, some time between 1867 and 1871. The class of 1871 at Dickinson College lists also Brother Edward U. Loomis, but his residence is given in the 1928 catalogue as having been Carlisle, Pennsylvania. Both these brothers are in the Ω—dates of their deaths not known.

One is tempted to speculate upon the wanderings of this delightfully archaic cover during the sixty-five years since it was deposited in the little post-office at Carlisle by our Σ brother. And, Philatelist or no, one must rejoice in the knowledge that its wanderings have come to the best of all possible endings in the pages of Brother Bob's collection, and applaud the gracious act of the Deke who made this possible.

At this point however, Brother Bob rises to say and to prove, that at Zeta too, they did things up brown, as it were, as witness the Z cover which was the official envelope used by the Charge in its correspondence between 1853 and 1861. So far as is known it is the only survivor of that era. If anybody thinks he can prove the contrary, Judge Emerson will undoubtedly convene a special session of the court, with confiscatory powers—to examine the evidence.

HOBART FROSH ELECT PLEDGE BROTHER SIDNEY D. NICHOLS, '36 TO CLASS PRESIDENCY

SIDNEY D. NICHOLS, of Rochester, New York, was elected President of the Freshman class at the first meeting of the class of 1936 held February 9, in Coxe Hall. Nichols was chosen acting president of the class earlier in the year by the Druids, and the Druid choice was followed by his classmates. Arthur D. Stein was elected vice-president, George Keith was elected secretary, George Lambert was elected treasurer, and Robert Mulligan was elected historian.

Nichols has been outstanding in college activities since his matriculation in September, being a regular member of the Frosh Football squad and starring on what promises to be one of the fastest freshman basketball teams to represent Hobart in some time. While in High School he was an excellent soccer player and also captained his basketball team in his senior year. He is pledged to the Θ Δ X Fraternity.—Clipping, The Hobart Herald

SALMON SCALES TELL ENTIRE HISTORY OF EACH INDIVIDUAL FISH DECLARES NOTED ICTHYOLOGIST IN FREEPORT LABORATORY

By Alfred Elden

IN FREEPORT, Maine, I found Dr. William Converse Kendall, H '85, inside the four walls of what I had at first taken to be the village schoolhouse. But it wasn't. On the contrary it is a duly authorized and maintained laboratory of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, which organization this noted icthyologist joined in 1889, or 42 years ago. That, of course, was when it was the earlier United States Fish Commission.

While Dr. Kendall knows a lot about all fishes he specializes in the Family Salmonidae. In fact he is the recognized authority in the Country on trout and salmon. A most erudite gentleman is this modest biologist. Not only is he a wonderful Latin scholar, but he reads and speaks French and German fluently and has such a sound knowledge of other tongues that he is able to make notable translations of fisheries subjects in no less than eight different languages.

Outdoor Lover

Despite the rather natural inference that profound study and exhaustive research might be conducive to sedentary habits—not so this student. From boyhood he has been a lover of the great outdoors and fortunately the nature of his work has made it possible for him to—well, to at least approximate play while prosecuting his piscatorial investigations. So, at three score and ten, Dr. Kendall is rugged, erect, broad-shouldered and sinewy; physically able to tramp a day in the forests with shotgun or rifle, or to cast a fly for hours in salmon waters. He does both as opportunity presents. Through last Fall's bird shooting season he and his beautiful white and brown setter enjoyed many a roam through the Freeport forests. Partridge and woodcock were served frequently in the Kendall menage as a result.

This interesting U. S. Bureau of Fisheries laboratory is on high land. It is half a mile outside the center of Freeport just off the highway that leads to South Freeport and Casco Bay four miles distant.

Reason for Laboratory

"How did the bureau come to establish a station here in this rather remote place? Well, it was a little out of the ordinary. I resigned from the Bureau of Fisheries in 1921 and became associated with the Roosevelt Wild Life Experiment Station at Syracuse University. In 1923 I was invited to return to my old work. This I agreed to do if I might continue my residence at Freeport and have a small laboratory here.

"You see the result. Fish specimens of many kinds are sent or brought to me here and I can do the work here as well as I might in Washington. Of course I am in close touch with the bureau at all times by mail and make personal visits to Washington."

Dr. Kendall has written so many monographs on fisheries subjects that he has lost count of them although they are all in his files. They are recognized as standards. An exhaustive volume on Atlantic Sea Salmon, by the doctor with original colored illustrations is soon to be published by the Boston Society of Natural History.

It was only two and a half years ago that Dr. Kendall accompanied MacMillan, H '97, on his trip of exploration around Greenland in the auxiliary schooner Bowdoin. He made careful studies of the cod, salmon and trout indigenous to those waters, personally catching many specimens which he brought back to his laboratory preserved in alcohol for study.

Like Finger Prints

What finger prints are to the criminal investigator, so are fish scales to Dr. Kendall. Furnish him with a few typical ones from a fine Atlantic salmon for example. No use for that fish to attempt to conceal its identity! Under the doctor's microscope the diminutive obscurity of the scales is thrown up into an all revealing magnitude. The lines that to the layman look something like a thumb print are as an open book to the doctor.

"You may tell by those magnified rings," he avers, "the age of the fish, the number of times it has spawned, the number of times it has been in salt water, and the number of times it has returned to fresh water. Obviously, the scales of a landlocked salmon bear no evidence of having been in salt water."

In a tray immersed in alcohol were three or four fish that looked like trout and still not just like the trout I had caught in Maine trout brooks. Dr. Kendall had been taking measurements, observing their shape, general color, special markings and other individual characteristics. His findings he recorded on a card for his file. It is simply astounding how many ways it is possible to measure a poor fish!

Landlocked

"These fish are trout," he explained, "but they are the trout or char of the Arctic. These came from Baffin Land for me to classify which will not be difficult. It is a theory of mine that at some time before the glacial period, or before one of them for there have been several, there was a parent stock for the char. In the upheavals attending the ice sheets certain members of the family which was then united with one trait, got separated, segregated, and adapted themselves to the new field, whether it was a landlocked lake, the open sea or a river.

"Other things entered the changes, food for example, and so we find not one trout but hundreds scattered in a circle about the north temperate Zone. Some have many scales, others have few; some very large scales, others small."

Referring again to the stories the fish scales tell, Dr. Kendall related how salmon were introduced into New Zealand waters. At first little success attended the experiments. Both Atlantic sea salmon and Maine Landlocked salmon were liberated in what seemed like suitable lakes. But the fish died. Still stocking was repeated. After a while some of the specimens survived.

Nobody knew however, whether it was the landlocked or the sea salmon so an appeal was made to the Bureau of Fisheries. The matter was turned over to Dr. Kendall who had no difficulty in identifying the survivors as sea salmon.

Regarding the theories of how there came to be landlocked salmon, Dr. Kendall said, "As to the cause of them adopting a permanent fresh water abode, granting that they are derived from sea salmon, and to me all the evidence points that way, it may be said that the phenomenon is not confined to the salmon. The smelt is a well known representative of the class."

Bowdoin Graduated

Dr. Kendall is a native of Maine having been born in Freeport in 1861. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1885 with the degree of A.B. Several years afterward Bowdoin conferred upon him the degree of A.M. In the fall of 1887 he became principal of the Patten (Maine) Academy and taught there until March 1889.

Then it was that he found the life work that most interested him. He secured a position in the United States Commission of Fisheries, now the Bureau of Fisheries. He was sent to Key West for an investigation of known red snapper fishing grounds and to locate new ones. In 1890 he was assigned to Long Island Sound to investigate the oyster grounds of that region. Later he performed similar duties in South Carolina.

The summer of 1931 found Dr. Kendall studying the habits of the menhaden or pogy, and he discovered much about its season and locality of spawning, facts hitherto unknown to the scientific world. He also investigated the interesting tile fish after which he was prominent in a survey of the Chesapeake Bay grounds. Lobsters and clams have upon various occasions shared his intelligent consideration.

In 1893 he married Miss Ida Wiljelmina Aschenbach, an American German, both of her parents having been born in the Fatherland. She died two years ago. A married daughter survives at Freeport.

Studied Fish Habits

In 1892 he entered the medical college at Georgetown and graduated in 1896 thus acquiring a degree of M.D. In 1897 he went to Oregon in charge of a number of fisheries experts to study the habits of trout and salmon.

Dr. Kendall has studied practically all the fishes of New England and many of those of the Great Lakes. During 1890 and 1891 he discovered 22 kinds of fish in Maine waters not previously recorded as being indigenous to them. His researches have taken him to the sponge fishing grounds in the Gulf of Mexico, and, only two years ago, to the waters around Greenland and Baffin Land as Bureau of Fisheries representative with Commander Donald B. MacMillan in the Arctic exploration schooner Bowdoin.

Many monographs and countless brochures written by Dr. Kendall, treatises on icthyological and other natural history subjects have been published by the Bureau of Fisheries and elsewhere. One of his recent pretentious efforts was a 375-page volume on The Smelt Family which was reviewed in Fishing Gazette. Some of his scientific works sent to the Paris Exposition brought him international recognition in the shape of bronze awards.

Ranking as one of the country's foremost icthyologists Dr. Kendall is also a popular lecturer, artist, and graceful writer of magazine and newspaper articles on all natural history subjects, including wild life and conservation. He is clever at pen drawing does an acceptable painting in oils.

He is an associate member of the member of the Maine Ornithological Society, American Fisheries Society, Washington Biological Society, Washington Academy of Sciences, and Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences. He is also a member of the Far and Near Authors Club, the Free and Accepted Masons, Knights of Pythias, and the college fraternity Θ Δ X.

Writes at Home

While the actual research work is prosecuted at the laboratory Dr. Kendall does most of his writing at his residence near by. Here is the old homestead of his parents, a delightful abode crammed with rare antique furniture, with not hundreds but thousands of valuable books of a scientific nature including a complete set of Bureau of Fisheries reports from its inception as the Fish Commission up to now. There are also many rare specimens of stuffed trout and salmon adorning the walls while mounted game birds stare glassy-eyed from their perches. With most of them goes an interesting story.

A profound thinker, a prodigious worker is Dr. William Converse Kendall. Yet he is no recluse who shuts himself up with his work and his books. He is a friendly human sort of a scientist who enjoys meeting and talking of congenial subjects with his fellowmen. No one loves better than he to fish, to hunt, to tramp the forests or sail the seas.

WALTER R. OKESON, N^{A} '96, CHAIRMAN OF THE RULES COMMITTEE OF THE NATIONAL COLLEGIATE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Once Held Coaching Position at Hobart

HOW many Hobart men, on reading the sporting page headlines announcing the election of Walter R. Okeson to the chairmanship of the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, realized that the man so honored commenced his post college activities in football with a coaching position at Hobart?

Okeson, though only a lightweight in the days when brawn ruled the gridiron, more than made up in dash and fire his weight handicap and held down an end position on the Lehigh teams of '93, '94, and '95. After his graduation in '95 he turned to coaching, directing the Hobart teams in the late nineties and later those of his own alma mater, Lehigh. The next few years found him playing professional football and then again returning to Lehigh, first as alumni secretary and then as treasurer, a post he now holds.

As chairman of the rules committee he succeeds the late Edward K. Hall. On this all-powerful committee falls the ultimate responsibility for keeping football in its present premier position among college athletics. To do this, it must so design the rules that the game will be fairly free of serious player injuries, that the offense and defense will be evenly matched, and that the play is open enough for the spectator's enjoyment. Okeson has announced that he does not favor any drastic changes in rules for the coming year.—Clipping from The Hobart Herald.

JOHN H. CUNNINGHAM, Ψ '66, Ω 1932, CHARM PRESENTED TO UTICA COMMANDERY

THE late John H. Cunningham, Ψ '66, was not only a loyal member of our Fraternity, but, being a 33rd degree Mason, during his life he stood high in Masonic circles and in the Knights Templar, and was much beloved by his Masonic brethren, who appreciated fully the work he did in behalf of the order. Accordingly, when Brother Carl G. Cunningham, Ψ '98, returned to his Commandery in Utica, N.Y., a jewel he had cherished, Utica Commandery, No. 3, Knights Templar, paid him due tribute when the jewel was formally accepted at the March conclave. The following excerpts from the Utica Daily Press, of March 3 and of March 4, 1933, will be of interest, undoubtedly, to those Theta Delts who are Masons and Knights Templar:

March 3.—In Masonic Temple tonight, Utica Commandery 3, Knights Templar, will receive from the sons of the late John H. Cunningham a souvenir of his connection with the commandery which it will always treasure. Mr. Cunningham was for thirty-three years prominent in Masonic circles in Utica. He was a charter member of Faxton Lodge, past commander of the Commandery and Shrine, and in the Grand Lodge had served as steward, standard bearer, and commissioner of appeals.

October 11 and 12, 1887, the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of the state held its seventy-fourth annual conclave in Utica. There were about thirty commanderies represented and among them were the drill teams of Appollo Commandery, Troy, and Monroe Commandery, Rochester. Utica Commandery had announced an exhibition drill would be given by these two teams, on the baseball grounds at the foot of Meadow Street, the proceeds to be given to the three orphan asylums in Utica. Roderick Campbell was commander of Utica Commandery, James H. England, treasurer, and John H. Cunningham, past commander. As a result of this exhibition, Treasurer England sent $183 to each of these three institutions: the Utica Orphan Asylum, St. John's Orphan Asylum, and House of the Good Shepherd.

The children of these asylums had sold tickets to the drill and the little ones of St. John's had disposed of their quota of 500. To show their appreciation of the gift, they procured a watch charm in the form of a commander's jewel, suitably inscribed, and presented it to Past Commander Cunningham. He wore it until his death last June, a period of forty-five years. Carl G. Cunningham, eldest son of Mr. Cunningham, who is now a lawyer in Yonkers, New York, recently wrote to John H. Heiderich, recorder, asking to present the charm to the commandery as a memento of the occasion.

March 4.—John H. Heiderich, recorder, read the letter from Carl G. Cunningham, giving to the commandery the Knights Templar charm.

Friday night the charm was turned over to the trustees and it will be worn by each commander during his term of office and then be turned over to his successor. On the charm is engraved the name of Mr. Cunningham and "Little Orphans." Past Commander Henry Hartlieb paid a feeling tribute to the memory of Mr. Cunningham and his services to the commandery.

EDWIN COLLINS FROST, Z '90, EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON THE PRONUNCIATION OF THETA DELTA CHI

To the Editor of "The Shield"

DEAR BROTHER: The temporary use at the 85th convention of the pronunciation "Theeta" gives me an opportunity to say what I have long believed, to wit, that that is the correct pronunciation.

At the time when this fraternity was established, it was customary in England and America to pronounce Greek and Latin as if they were English. And thus it came about that the fraternity was christened Theeta Delta Chi. But about half a century ago it became the fashion in America to use a pronunciation which was believed by many scholars (not including those of Greece and Italy) to be that actually used by the ancient Greeks and Romans themselves. Nevertheless, when we are speaking English, if we introduce a Greek or Latin word or proper name, we still pronounce it in the English manner. Thus we say, "et setera" not "et ketera," "Sisero" not "Kikero," "eureéka" not "heu'rayka." Though we might chance to say, "Quod ayrat daymonstrahondoom," we should certainly not try to pronounce the initials Q.E.D. in the ancient Roman manner. Why then should we say "Thayta" rather than "Theeta"?

If, however, it be granted, for the sake of argument, that the ancient pronunciation is preferable to the English, then that preference must surely extend to all the letters and not merely to the first. Chi must then be made to rhyme not with high (as in "May its impulse high") but with he. It is clear, therefore, that we ought to say either, "Theeta Delta Chi" or "Thayta Delta Chee." For my part, I vote for the former.

Fraternally yours

KAPS AND THETES IN CONTRACT CONTEST

A new form of Intra-mural contest seems to have started on the campus. This Thursday the champion contract bridge team of the Thete house engages the Kap team in a match. The winners must take two out of three rubbers. After this match, which is being held at the Kap house, a return one is scheduled to be played at the Thete house. The Thete team is composed of Bennett and Hynes. Burleson and Barrows represent the Kaps. Both teams are willing to accept challenges from any other house on the campus with the provision that all signals be called off.—The Hobart Herald

CUSPI-CUP AID TO GOOD MARKS

Unique Series of Cups for Scholarship Causes Much Fraternity Rivalry at Hobart

RECENT award of the three scholarship cups at Hobart College to the winning groups here has focused attention on the unique system in vogue at Hobart to encourage scholastic competition among fraternal organizations on the campus.

The McDaniels Scholarship Cup, awarded to the group with the highest standing, and the Scalp and Blade Improvement Cup, awarded to the group which shows the greatest improvement, are cups which are duplicated on many college campuses, but the Cuspi-Cup, a highly polished brass cuspidor, awarded every term to the group with the lowest standing, holds a unique position in the college world.

This cup is probably the best known, and by the same token, the most hated, cup on Hobart campus. Awarded each semester to the group with the lowest scholastic standing it must be kept highly polished by the freshmen of this group, must be kept in a prominent place where everyone can see it—and questions about it, which are always forthcoming when guests see it for the first time, must be truthfully answered. It has been one of the greatest single factors causing scholastic improvement on the Hobart Campus because of the determination of each group not to win the cup if it is humanly possible to avoid it, and because of the supreme efforts organizations will make to raise their marks and get rid of it.

The cup was originally donated in 1929 by Merle Gulick, president of the senior class, and George McMichael, president of the junior class. The two collaborated in producing a very popular column in The Hobart Herald, and originally planned the cup more as a joke than anything else. Soon, however, they realized that punishment of the group in last place scholastically, was an effective, if not the most effective, means of stimulating scholastic competition and improvement.

The scholastic average of the lowest group in each announcement of standings has been higher, since the first award of the Cuspi-Cup, than before, and the general average of all groups has been higher as a result.

The other two cups were also given to the college. The Professor McDaniels Scholarship Cup was given by Professor H. Newton Hubbs and Professor Windsor Arnold Hosmer as a tribute to Professor Emeritus of Greek Joseph H. McDaniels, one of the greatest professors ever to teach at Hobart. The Improvement Cup was the

The Scholarship Cup is now in the possession of the Neutral Body and the Improvement Cup went to Theta Delta Chi. The Cuspi-Cup, much to their regret, now decorates the mantel of Λ Π Fraternity, and they have assured the other groups that the motto engraved on the famous cup, "Verbum Sat Sapienti," "A Word to the Wise is Sufficient," is not really all that is needed. They do not know who will win this cup next year, but they are sure they will not.

GERARD M. DAHL Σ^{Δ} '96

WHEN Mr. Dahl aided his friend Tom Johnson in the latter's campaign for the mayor's chair in Cleveland, he found his career changing from that of a lawyer to a politician and traffic expert. Mr. Johnson, who was then running on a platform for three cent carfare, called upon Mr. Dahl for assistance. Upon Johnson's election Mr. Dahl was made street railway commissioner of Cleveland and held that position for two years.

Rises to Financier

During the next score of years Mr. Dahl's career is marked with steady activity in the field of higher finance. He went to New York City and became vice-president of the Electric Bond and Share Company, and five years later became vice-president of the Chase National Bank. At the present time he is chairman of the board of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Corporation, although he holds numerous other interests including Lehigh Power Securities Corporation, Chase Arrow Motor Car Company, Williamsburg Power Plan Corporation, and Nassau Electric Railroad Company.

While at the University of Wisconsin Mr. Dahl advocated a number of socialistic ideas. Radicalism, he believes, is simply the breaking away from the conventional. Today Mr. Dahl looks back at his college ideas and points to their acceptance by the most conventional persons of the present. He graduated from the law school in 1897 at twenty years of age. He was a member of Θ Δ X.

Among his club memberships and awards are: Decorated Order of Rising Sun by the Emperor of Japan, the Metropolitan, Union League, Turf and Yacht, and the Palm Beach Anglers.—Newspaper clipping.

ALPHA CELEBRATES TENTH BIRTHDAY

ON FEBRUARY 25, brothers from the fish bounded coast of Connecticut to the small town peninsula of New Jersey braved a major blizzard to attend the tenth anniversary of the re-installation of A. Initiation of the freshmen also being celebrated, and the second degree was given to Brothers Phillippi, Selmser, Travis, Wheeler, and Weiler.

Dinner began at 7:30, after which, John K. Lynch '33 took the floor as president and toastmaster. He called upon Squire V. Travis, '11, the father of a new initiate. Brother Travis outlined to the visiting brothers the recent doings of the board of governors, and unfolded the plans for next season.

The father of another active member was the next speaker. Malcolm G. Thomas, '98 principal of the Woodbury High School, emphasized the possibilities in a fraternity for training men; for keeping a studious man from becoming a grind; for keeping a man with social inclinations from becoming a dude; and above all for teaching a man to live in harmony with others of his type intellectually.

Morton C. Stewart, Z '94, a professor in our honorable institution, spoke of the importance of keeping the scholastic standard up. He suggested that it be wise to at least open a book long enough to ascertain the kind of type used, and thus get something out of the course.

Professor Crowell, M^{Δ} '89, K. R. Coachman, Θ^{Δ} '22, John Anderson, N^{Δ} '17, and G. F. Mosher, A '18, also spoke, As a result, when the speaker of the evening, William Schauer, A '17, was called upon, there was nothing left to say. A LETTER FROM INDIA

THE following letter was received by the Editor from Brother Wilbur S. Deming, Z '12, who is Secretary of the American Marathi Mission at Ahmednagar, India.

"Time flies in India, despite the popular picture of the slow-moving Hindu, a picture, by the way that was popularized before the arrival of the dilapidated motor bus. First of all you will be glad to hear that each member of the Deming family is flourishing. Mary, Billy and Donny are back at school in Kodaikanal, after their long winter vacation at Ahmednagar, and are enthusiastic about their many school activities. The Kody School is a wonderful boon to the American missionaries in India. The longer we stay at Ahmednagar, the more deeply we get into the community life. Mrs. Deming is busy helping with the work of the Child Welfare Center, which is developing steadily and meeting a long-felt need in this city. She is also superintendent of one of the departments in our religious education program. 'Yours Truly' finds life strenuous, with weekly Marathi preaching, daily teaching, interviews, committees and general pastoral work. In short, we are enjoying life hugely, and don't have time to become depressed by the depression.

"India today is witnessing an appealing drama. The prison gates have closed on Mahatma Gandhi, but the Indian Government has permitted him to engage in the colossal task of freeing India's social slaves. Sixty million so-called Untouchables look wistfully to him today, in the hope that he can give them their charter of liberty. Gandhi has pledged his life to this undertaking, and for several months he has been seeking to win the orthodox groups by conciliation and reasoning. A cruel system, that has survived for 2000 years, is being rapidly undermined by this frail Indian prophet. It will fight on for many years, but always on the defensive. Certain it is that in the near future these lowly servants of the Indian towns and villages will be given their birthright, and allowed the use of roads, schools, wells, and other civic privileges. More and more will they be admitted to Hindu temples. Says Mahatma Gandhi, in this morning's Times of India: 'My belief is that the vast mass of Hindu opinion is against untouchability. It is that faith which sustains me. No further ordinary propaganda will convict the Hindu mind of a sense of the wrong of untouchability. It requires the extraordinary propaganda of penance. It may be it needs the stimulus of a fast on the part of one who has made his life one with the Untouchables. If so, they shall have it. They must either remove untouchability or remove me from their midst.' There are many who are severe critics of the method of fasting in order that social or religious progress may be made. Yet those of us who can still thrill at the thought of Lincoln's stroke of the pen, by which he freed the American slaves, also can thrill at this sublime determination of Mahatma Gandhi to remove this blot from India, or die in the attempt.

"At our annual Mission Meeting, held last October, a new principle was adopted. We agreed that from now on we should turn over evangelistic responsibilities to our churches and Church Councils as rapidly as feasible, but without any financial help. This reveals the spirit of independence that is now emerging in our churches, Indian Christian leaders being instrumental in adopting this new policy. The trend toward church union continues quietly but steadily, committees being actively at work both in the North and the South. We are hoping that Church Union in South India will be the first reunion 'bridge' between the Episcopal and the Non-Episcopal Churches. If so, it will give guidance to reunion movements in other lands. The United Church of North India is busy with plans to send a missionary to South Africa. The mood of nationalism sweeping over this land has found a ready and eager response in the Christian community, and at the All-India Christian Conference, held at Nagpur last month, it was resolved that the Christian community should merge its interests in the welfare of the national as a whole. Our Indian churches are stressing the need for making Christian services and church buildings more INDIAN in their plan and outlook. All such developments are thoroughly commendable and entirely in line with the recommendations of the Laymen's Appraisal Commission. Ahmednagar is not lagging behind, all four of our churches being financially independent, and three of them carrying on evangelistic work.

"Have we something to offer India? We believe we have. We can share our best with India, and is anything better than the abundant life which we have found in Christ? Yet India has much to share with us, and we are eager to know more of the cultural and religious pilgrimage of this colorful land. A group of us here at Ahmednagar meet once a month for tea and discussion, various members acting as leaders, and taking up a different topic at each meeting. One subject was 'Physical as compared with soul force.' Another was, 'Can morality be taught without religion?'. In this rather intimate group are three American missionaries, an English missionary, an Indian Christian, four Brahmans, an Indian Jew, a Parsee, and a non-Brahman. The members are well educated and highly cultured. They include Government officials, high school principals, teachers, and those in private business. All take part in the discussions, and thoroughly enjoy the give-and-take process. We believe that by means of such a group we are able to share our best with others, who in turn share their best with us. It is more than an adventure in understanding. It is an expression of friendship.

"Unemployment has become a chronic evil in Ahmednagar. Our Neighborhood House has thus become a first line of defence, not merely to provide wholesome recreation, but also to prevent moral deterioration. Both the main building, with its young men's hostel, and the Men's Club near by, are well filled every afternoon and evening. Our activities are varied, and include the following: baby welfare clinic daily, outdoor games, indoor games, lectures, classes in English and typing, library, tea-room, clubs for singing, dramatics and debating, women's sewing club, Scout troop, tournaments and religious services. In this way we aim to help the people of this area to an all-round development. Since much of the work is on a voluntary basis, our annual budget is only about $300. "When will the new constitution begin to function, and does it depend on the Indian Princes for its success? Will the reservations strangle the hopes for a genuine Dominion status? Such questions are now being hotly discussed in the Indian press, and illustrate the tension in the country. A new constitution is shortly to be hammered out by the British Parliament, and India will have passed an important milestone in its political history. We are assured that, both in the Provinces and in the Central Government, there is to be genuine responsibility, extensive authority being vested in the elected legislatures. This is truly a new day for India, and if the chief political parties unite to work the new constitution it is probable that India will proceed rapidly along the path of Dominion status. The attitude of the National Congress remains a mystery, their leaders being in prison, but their co-operation is very doubtful.

"Tatyaba is a Christian in the Satara district, and comes from the Ramushis, a caste of hereditary thieves. After the Poona Pact, a meeting, held in his village, invited the outcasts to take water from the village well, and Tatyaba, with trust in his heart, took their advice and drew water from the well. Next morning he awoke to find his field of peppers entirely destroyed. He refused, however, to allow any court action to be taken, and was determined to make his annual contribution to the Satara church. From his poverty he has sent three rupees (one dollar) to the American Board at Boston, and twenty rupees, or a tenth of his annual income, to the local church.

"With cordial greetings,

"Very sincerely yours,

SUPREME COURT JUSTICES PRAISE LABORS OF LESLIE P. SNOW, 0^{A} '86

Prominent Jurist Obliged to Retire from New Hampshire's Highest Judicial Tribunal Because of Age Limit—But One of His Fellow Judges Missing at Party Given Him by Kiwanis Club

JUDGE LESLIE P. SNOW recently observed his seventieth birthday, and that means that he has, in compliance with New Hampshire law, automatically ceased to be a member of the supreme court, the state's highest judicial tribunal.

The principal speaker of the evening was Chief Justice Peaslee, who began his remarks by saying that the occasion was one of deepest regret both for himself and his fellow judges. He declared Judge Snow to be a lawyer of unusual capacity. During his term on the bench he had been associated with sixteen judges, and Mr. Snow's opinions always showed exhaustive research and most careful reasoning. As to the personal side of the retiring judge, who had served eleven and one-half years on the bench, Justice Peaslee said their associations had always been uniformly pleasant and ideal. The average term of such a judge in New Hampshire, he said, is ten years. From 1693 to the present time the state supreme court has had 150 judges. In the old days, however, when party politics were strong and bitter, and it was generally conceded in politics that the spoils belonged to the victors, the judges went, along with the rest. The idea seemed to be to "turn the rascals out"; but if the court was abolished a new court was quickly formed. The last overturn of this sort happened in 1876.

Chief Justice Peaslee spoke in the highest terms of praise concerning the important and far reaching opinions written by Judge Snow. "Within six months of his appointment," he said, "in which he dealt with the principles underlying industrial compensation legislation, to his last two important decisions which have attracted wide attention, handed down at our October session—the one defining the powers of our public service commission in its control of public utilities, the other interpreting our statutory policy of motor vehicle indemnity insurance—from the beginning to the end, his work has been of an extremely high order."

"On such an occasion as this," continued Justice Peaslee, "it is customary to wish a man health, wealth, and happiness. But Judge Snow has 'em all," he declared. "He is the finest specimen of a 'reconditioned' lawyer to return to the bar at seventy that I have ever known or heard of. Of wealth he has plenty, and as to happiness, he has a successful outlook on life, which is firmly implanted in his nature. I wish, sir," concluded Justice Peaslee, "that you were to return to us."

The last speaker was Judge Snow. He said that he had greatly enjoyed listening to the remarks of the evening, some of which were true, and some of which, he feared, were not quite true. Continuing, some of his remarks were substantially as follows:

One accepting a judicial position, to a large extent, must subordinate his individual to his official personality. The office belongs to the public. The public has a right to expect conformity to the traditional decorum of the office. In the motherland the standards are exacting. English barristers have expressed to me surprise that I was permitted to retain my position as director of a bank or of any business corporation, and a visiting Scottish barrister was astonished to see me take the witness stand in the federal court. In some of the larger cities of our own country the seclusion of judges, as in the motherland, necessarily amounts to a practical hermitage. But in our small state, thanks to the racial character of our people and their liberal and democratic tendencies, there may exist a greater freedom of action and conduct of our judiciary without impairing the public confidence and respect. Remaining as I have in the same community, and continuing my outside and nonprofessional activities, my chief social loss has been in the want of the contacts with my fellowmen which went with an active practice.

In its place, however, I have hard some worth-while recompenses. I have had the opportunity to listen to my fellow members of the bar, to see them in action at their best, and to better recognize and appreciate their real merits. But my principal great return for the loss of contacts with the outer world has been the splendid comradeship which I have enjoyed with the group of men who, during the whole or part of the past eleven years, have sat about the table in the judges' chamber at Concord.

New Hampshire has been fortunate, thanks primarily to the appointive system, in maintaining a high standard of excellence in the character and qualifications of the men who have adorned our higher courts. And I may say that, in the nearly thirty years of my practice preceding my appointment to the bench, I remember no instance when I ever even suspected any want of integrity or of impartiality on the part of any incumbent of either of our two higher courts; though I have to confess, of course, that their decisions and rulings, when adverse to my clients, were often wrong.

Again, New Hampshire has been supremely fortunate during the last half century in having a succession of chief justices of its supreme court, who severally have been nationally recognized as jurists of outstanding ability. To this fact, and to these men, I attribute to no small degree the high standing of the New Hampshire decisions in other jurisdictions. In proportion to their number the decisions of our court are probably more frequently cited as authority than are the decisions of any other state in the Union.

Judge Snow has had a rather unusual and enviable record as a lawyer. He is the only member of the present supreme court of the state who went there directly from the practice of law. It is customary for a supreme court judge to serve years of apprenticeship on the superior bench. Judge Snow practiced law for thirty years before becoming judge, and in this work he was most successful. Always an indefatigable worker, his court cases were prepared with a detail that to many lawyers was a source of astonishment, and since serving on the supreme court bench he has written decisions which have placed him as a jurist of national ability.

Honored by Bar Association

Judge Leslie P. Snow, who was recently retired, because of the age limitation, from the supreme court, has been chosen vice-president for the first judicial district of the American Bar Association.

THE INTERFRATERNITY CLUB AND THE WORLD'S FAIR

THE Interfraternity Club, located at 106 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, has provided a special membership for fraternity men coming to the World's Fair this summer. This "Century of Progress" membership is good from June 1 to November 1, 1933, at a cost of five dollars and a half.

The club is located alongside the Palmer House on Wabash Avenue, which is about as near the heart of the city as you could get without being the heart itself. There are many attractive features including comfortable lounges, card rooms, squash courts, volleyball, ping-pong, showers, steam bath, and sun room.

The club will act as your agent in securing any grade of hotel or other lodging accommodations in the city and, being familiar with the city, will in this way undoubtedly save you more than the price of the membership on just a few days' expenses. You will probably find registered at the club old college friends that you would otherwise have no knowledge of their presence in the city. Or if you are traveling alone you will probably meet another Thete or some other congenial person to do the Fair with you.

The club will make a good clearing house for your mail.

CENTRAL GRADUATE ASSOCIATION HONORS "NORM"

THE Central Graduate Association of Chicago staged a double header on the night of March 24 when the annual meeting of the Association was held in conjunction with the official visitation of the Graduate Secretary, "Norm" Hackett. The event was pulled off at the Auditorium Hotel and about 70 enthusiastic alumni assembled. It was a remarkable demonstration and record attendance in these times, proving the real strength of the Central Graduate Association as an expression of interest in wanting to hear from our universal ambassador all the latest news concerning the fraternity and of his swing around the circle.

After the usual songs, cheers and manifestations of enthusiasm, the meeting was called to order by President "Bill" Lalor, who proceeded at once to name a nominating committee for the purpose of presenting a slate for new officers. Retiring briefly, the committee returned and presented the following names: President, Carl M. Wynne, X^{Δ} '16, Vice-President, Harry Yost, Σ^{Δ} '23, Henry Thurnau, Γ^{Δ} '28, Secretary, and Edward Wilner, K^{Δ} '21, Treasurer. Needless to say they were all elected unanimously. With appropriate remarks, Brother Lalor installed the new president amid much applause. Brother Wynne then took the chair and modestly accepted the honor bestowed upon him, and left no doubt in the minds of all that he would carry on in the same efficient manner his predecessor and others have done in the past.

The meeting was then turned over to Brother Hackett who was given a truly landslide ovation. "Norm" was in fine form, and having just returned from his trip to the coast, held his listeners for over an hour with interesting accounts of conditions in our charges on the western slope, together with side lights on all the charges, graduate associations and conditions generally as he has observed them during the year. From his reports, while Θ Δ X like all fraternities is feeling the pangs of the depression, it is weathering the storm remarkably well. "Norm's" talk was very much appreciated by all who heard him, and left the impression that our loyal graduates are standing by their various charges with watchful care, and that the sound, wise policies of Brother Tim are awakening a new consciousness in the minds of the alumni in their responsibilities to their charges and the general welfare of our beloved Fraternity. He concluded his part of the evening by showing many interesting projector pictures which were greatly enjoyed, enabling all to better visualize the charge houses, and campuses, as well as the fine type of boys who make up the active personnel of Θ Δ X.

With the World's Century of Progress Fair being held in Chicago this summer, the Central Graduate Association wishes it known they gladly look forward to being host to many visiting brothers who will make Chicago their Mecca during the Fair. They cordially invite any Theta Delts who may be in the city to join with them at their weekly luncheons which are held on the eighth floor of Mandels, every Friday, and that if any service can be rendered it will be cheerfully done by getting in touch with Brother Carl Wynne, president of the Central Graduate Association, who may be located at 431 S. Dearborn St.

C. P. HOUSTON, K '14, ELECTED HEAD OF UNIVERSITY CLUB

Has Been Graduate Manager of Athletics at Tufts Since 1919

CLARENCE P. HOUSTON, well known throughout New England as graduate manager of athletics at Tufts, was elected president of the University Club of Boston at the annual meeting of the members.

Brother Houston has been largely responsible for the present development of the Tufts athletic program. He was a member of the varsity football team for three years at Tufts, where he was graduated in 1914. He was granted a bachelor of laws degree by Northeastern Law School in 1923 and is a member of the law firm of Russell, Houston, and Russell.

Following his graduation from Tufts, Brother Houston was a school teacher until the United States entered the World War. He was assigned overseas as a first lieutenant with the Eighteenth Infantry, first division, and was promoted to captain of infantry. He was wounded three times in the Meuse-Argonne sector.

Soon after his discharge from the Army in May, 1919, Brother Houston was appointed graduate manager of athletics at Tufts and later was made Braker professor of commercial law. He has been a member of the University Clubhouse committee for two years and last year was chairman of the track committee for the first annual University Club track meet for New England colleges.—Reprint from The Boston Transcript.

When the recent holiday went into effect the average student fortune at Lehigh University was $1.15. The freshmen boasted of having the most money, while the seniors were last with an average of 60 cents apiece.—The Purple and Gray.

FRANK H. BUCK, ΔΔ '07, TWENTY-SEVENTH P.G.L. ELECTED TO UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

BROTHER BUCK goes to Washington from the Third District, California, which consists of five counties: Sacramento, San Joaquin, Napa, Yolo, and Solano, exactly in the heart of the state, including the capital city of Sacramento, the Mare Island Navy Yard on San Pablo Bay, and the city of Stockton, to which place a governmental deep water channel has recently been constructed, making it an inland port, much as Houston was made one. The activities of the district are largely specialized in fruits and grapes, particularly the latter. Pratically all of the Tokay grapes grown in California are raised in this district and a very large proportion of the wine grapes. Napa County was famous for its excellent wines before prohibition, and undoubtedly will be again after the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. There are literally scores of wineries in this district.

Brother Buck was elected by a vote of 61,694 and his Republican opponent received 46,887 votes. Frank has never held any public office before but has been active in the work of the Democratic party. He was a delegate to the 1928 convention at Houston, Texas, and managed the agricultural division of the Smith campaign that year in California. He has been a member of the Democratic State Central Committee for many years and in 1932 was chairman of the Democratic convention.

Frank Buck was president of the Grand Lodge from 1919 to 1923, inclusive, when he was confronted with the extremely arduous and difficult task of rebuilding the Fraternity after the destructive ravages of the World War. Frank is a brother of Dr. Leonard W. Buck, ΔΔ '13, and the father of Frank, Jr., ΔΔ '33. He is a cousin of Henry A. Heilbron, Jr., ΔΔ '13, and J. W. Stitt, ΔΔ '14. His home is at Vacaville, located on one of the ranches which he owns and operates. Frank and Leonard together own and operate approximately 3000 acres of orchard, vineyard, and grain lands.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PETER W. DAWSON, Editor, New York City

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

The final issue of another volume, the forty-ninth, has been edited and published and another editorial year has come to a close. There remains only indexing and proofing for the bound volumes and, with approval of the final bills from the publisher, the work of the editor and his staff is completed. A worth-while publication cannot be the work of a single hand and the editor takes this opportunity to thank the wide number of loyal brothers who have taken an interest in the publication equal to the editor's own and without the glory of public acknowledgment of their work have nevertheless labored sincerely and wholeheartedly to produce a magazine with which all Thetes might be pleased. Some progress has been made this year in awakening greater undergraduate interest than has been evidenced for quite some years and it is hoped that progress along this line will continue forward next year. Auf Wiedersehen and thanks.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE CATALOGUE

In the final issue of the year, conveniently located near the back cover, will be found a supplement to the 1928 catalogue. A catalogue of the entire Fraternity is a convenient and valuable thing but it is an expensive volume to publish. The latest edition is 1928 and it is unlikely that a new edition will be accomplished for some years to come. This issue of THE SHIELD, May, carries the names and home addresses of the class of 1933 arranged as they would be in the catalogue. In the November issue of each year, henceforth, or until a new catalogue is published, will appear the complete senior delegation. The Novemer issue of 1933 will carry the class of 1934, November issue of 1934, the class of 1935, and so on. The present catalogue ends with the class of 1930, which leaves the years 1931 and 1932 to be published. These two years will appear in the January and March issues of 1934. From that point forward complete catalogue information will be available to all members of the Fraternity through the present catalogue and the supplementary pages of THE SHIELD. For the information of anyone not possessing a catalogue, it is a compact little volume, carefully edited and printed and well bound in blue cloth. It is a regular atlas of Θ Δ X data and should be in the possession of every member of the Fraternity. It is on sale at the club (30 West 52nd Street) for two dollars, postage prepaid.

BOOKS BY AND ABOUT THETA DELTS

SO MANY interesting books are in circulation which have been written or edited by Theta Delts or which have been written about illustrious members of our Fraternity that we believe it worth while to collect information concerning this literature and publish it in the pages of THE SHIELD for the current information of our readers and as a permanent and valuable Fraternity record. The editor will appreciate it if brothers who have had the good fortune to have their work published will liberate themselves from any false notions of modesty and perform the fraternal act of giving the editor full and complete details of their publications.

Old publications will be written up in future issues until all known data have been published. Each book recorded in these pages will be serially numbered for future reference and information.

In this issue we have the good fortune to present you with two recently published books which show every symptom of adding new luster to Θ Δ X's literary crown.

BOOK No. 1 Lord Jeffery Amherst By J. C. Long, MΔ '14

OLD CHESTS YIELD AMHERST'S STORY

Biographer Uses Data Hidden 140 Years in Cellar of an English Country Home

"A SOLDIER OF THE KING"

Book by American Explains Why Peer Opposed British War with the Colonies

From 85,000 items of correspondence hidden for 140 years in seventeen chests in the cellar of a country house in Kent, England, J. C. Long (MΔ '14), an American biographer, has pieced out the story of the career of Lord Jeffery Amherst. The title of the biography, published today by Macmillan, is, perhaps in reminiscence of the Amherst College song, "Lord Jeffery Amherst, a Soldier of the King."

The mass of letters and journals that Lord Amherst left behind him was made available to Mr. Long by the present Earl Amherst, who, as Jeffery Holmsdale, spent two years here as a reporter and theater critic for the New York World.

There is an old American tradition, which Benjamin Franklin and the gossipy Horace Walpole helped start, that Lord Amherst declined command of the British armies during the Revolution because he was pro-American.

Mr. Long regards this as unlikely, for the direct record shows no basis for it. General Amherst gained his peerage, earned as the commander-in-chief in America when Canada was conquered, as a necessary support to Lord North's imperiled majority in the House of Peers. The letters of an intimate, long preserved in one of the seventeen chests, are strongly anti-American, and assumed that Amherst's sympathies were wholly with the British cause. And all of Amherst's background, Mr. Long says, would have inclined him against rebellion.

In interviews with the King he did refuse the command in America in 1778, but as Mr. Long points out, there was the soundly practical reason that it was very unlikely that the British could win. Amherst believed that the least force necessary to carry on successful war in America would in that year be 40,000 men.

"The prospect of raising such an army, exclusively for American service, was clearly out of the question," Mr. Long writes. "The condition of the budget was precarious, and the financial and political problem of training, transporting, and supplying such men was a task beyond the Crown's abilities."

But Amherst, whether he wanted to or not, did a real service to the Colonists, Mr. Long believes. Through his own campaigns here before the Revolution, when he fought the French and Indians, he taught by example how to raise troops without money, how to combine artillery with frontier warfare, and how to co-operate in a common cause.—Reprinted from the New York Times of February 28, 1933.

Book No. 2, History of the Americas, by Herbert Eugene Bolton, ΣΔ '95.

THE KEY TO REMARKABLE SUCCESS

Professor Bolton's course in American history at the University of California has attained a nation-wide fame and is the envy of all teachers in the same field. The outline of the course together with the maps and bibliographical aids as published in Bolton's History of the Americas will furnish the key to Professor Bolton's remarkable success and will therefore be eagerly used by teachers in American and Latin-American history. I shall take delight in using the book at Wellesley.—Edward E. Curtis, Professor of American History, Wellesley College.

COMPLETE IN ONE CONVENIENT MANUAL

Professor H. E. Bolton's History of the Americas is a very valuable syllabus for a college course in the history of the Western Hemisphere, an idea put into effect by the author in 1919 which has since then commended itself to many other teachers. But the usefulness of the volume extends much beyond this comprehensive course. Its outlines and summaries, its extended topical bibliographies, its ninety-two convenient sketch maps, and its breadth of view and of synthesis in one convenient manual, recommend it strongly for use in connection with school and college courses in the history of the United States.—J. Montgomery Gambrill, Professor of History, Teachers College, Columbia University.

This unique syllabus with maps has met with great success since its recent publication. It covers the history of the entire Western Hemisphere. The course deals with colonial America as a whole; the political separation of America from Europe; and the development of American societies and nations—their social, economic, cultural, and political characteristics, their interrelations, and their place in the modern world. It correlates the history of Canada, the United States, and Latin America. The course provides for the mastery of a moderate amount of textbook data and map work, for individual research, and for carefully adapted supplementary reading of a stimulating character. A remarkable group of ninety-two maps conveniently supply material otherwise to be had only in expensive atlases. The author, Herbert Eugene Bolton, is professor of American History and director of the Bancroft Library at the University of California. He is well known internationally for his scholarly research and his writings on Spanish-American history. The syllabus is the outgrowth of Professor Bolton's introductory, synthetic course in American history. As a basis for his course Professor Bolton prepared a syllabus and issued it in mimeographed form for his own classes. The demand for the syllabus became so insistent and widespread that he has permitted its publication by Ginn and Company. Catalogue price, $2.40.

This is a textbook based on the rather new but altogether just conception that American history cannot be adequately taught if confined to the United States or Brazil or Canada or Mexico. In other words, what is needed is a general synthetic course embracing the entire Western Hemisphere; only in this manner will United States history receive its proper interpretation, for it is only one unit of many closely related and mutually reacting units which together represents the story of development, political, cultural, and otherwise, in the New World. The present syllabus presents accordingly a survey of Western Hemisphere history in the form of sixty lectures accompanied by readings, references, and an unusually helpful series of specially prepared maps. European backgrounds are not neglected, and the whole plan of the book is admirably calculated to impress on the student's mind what a complex thing American origins really are, and how the United States are the outgrowth of a long series of political, social, and cultural influences operating from the time of Columbus in the New World.—Mid-America, October, 1929.

THETA DELTA CHI UNIT OF G.W.U. CELEBRATES

Thirty-seventh Anniversary of Oldest National Fraternity at the University Is Observed

The thirty-seventh anniversary of the George Washington University Chapter of Θ Δ X Fraternity was celebrated at a banquet on March 25, at the Racquet Club. The Fraternity was founded at Union College in 1847 and is the oldest national fraternity at George Washington University. Representatives from most of the 28 active chapters of the Fraternity in the United States and Canada attended the affair.

Representative Frank H. Buck of California, who was national president of the Fraternity for four years, was principal speaker, while Charles E. Pledger, Jr., past national treasurer, was toastmaster. The Committee on Arrangements was composed of James E. Bacon and Dr. Herbert H. Schoenfeld.—Washington, D.C., Star, March 26, 1933.

CAROUSEL

To run like you,
To conquer space for many miles
And think them few—
I cannot. I have not the pace
To run like you.

For once I joined your care-free crew,
But soon I wearied in the chase
And wondered where you all got to.
"A strong man loves to run a race"?
I must be weak—or this untrue—
To me the Gods denied the grace
To run like you.

CHARGE LETTERS

Proof of A's new-found strength was evinced in a very successful initiation banquet, held February 25, at the house. The day was, incidentally the 10th anniversary of the re-installation of the Charge. Tho' the weather was decidedly nasty and quite in accord with the times, we had among our guests six brothers from New York drop their business worries for a very happy week-end. From all over the Capitol district brothers flocked to assist the "youngsters" with their initiation and to reminisce on bygone "hell weeks," now, happily gone permanently.

The new brothers are: Calbert Selmser, '36, a lanky six-footer and his running mate, Robert Weiler, the short owl-eyed wonder; then we have Earl Travis mighty runner and son of Squire Travis, A '11, and Morris Wheeler, mighty student and dispeller of illusions. Last to be mentioned and first to be initiated is William Phillippi who believes in gathering rosebuds while he may. Among our guests were Bobby Crowell and Bag Stewart— who in more formal society are known respectively as Professor Robert Warner Crowell, A.M. ΜΔ and Professor Morton C. Stewart, A.M., Ph.D. Z '94, both popular professors in the Modern Language Department of the school. Squire Travis was there with the feeling that only a Theta Delta who has had a son inducted into the mysteries of our fraternity can know or appreciate the fact. There is probably a more complete account of the affair elsewhere in The Shield.

A week after the banquet the guest room was done over in what is called in the trade a soft shade of brown. It must have been due to the nightmares of some loyal alumnus who slept there after the initiation.

The first social gathering of the second semester came on March 17. Open dances were the order of the day for it was interfraternity night. I say "first social gathering" advisedly, because overshadowing and permeating the apparent conviviality of the banquet was the spirit of high resolve and consecration to the ideals of Θ Δ X. The party was obviously a success—the chaperons were all that could be desired—the draperies that transformed the walls were the envy of the less fortunate houses on the hill, and there were no classes the next day.

These balmy spring nights are deadly to exact study and yet they bear a definite threat. In a few short weeks we shall be "on the ball" for examinations and commencement, when we expect to lose Jack Lynch and Shelley Blood, together with Tommy Dietz, our own M.S. in physics. It is with real regret that we bid goodbye to these men who have labored so long and actively for the Charge and for the Fraternity.

The brothers have entered into the final leg of the semester with great hopes for success in all fields. Bill Huntley and Mort Stewart are awaiting the vote for the senior board of The Concordiensis, while Crabbe Thomas is brushing up for a position on the junior board, and Morris Wheeler is working for the sophomore board. Jack Lynch wound up his affairs as manager of debate. Jimmy Horan is slated for manager of the glee club. Charley Buchwald was elected to Η Κ Ν, honorary electrical engineering society, and when last seen was practicing on Library Field with the lacrosse team. Earl Travis and Bill Phillippi are fighting for berths on the frosh baseball team. Earl has already made his numerals in track, and incidentally brought home another silver cup to grace our mantel.

In closing, we wish all sister Charges the best of luck in their final examinations. So, until Convention,

Fraternally bonded,

CORNELL UNIVERSITY

We of B, with the completion of our initiation, have added eleven very promising men who are as follows: Frank S. Dickerson, Jr., Poughkeepsie, New York; Richard Hibbard, Akron, Ohio; Edward J. Doyle, Winnetka, Illinois; Robert Greene, South Orange, New Jersey; Courtland Jones, Buffalo, New York; Charles P. Magoffin, Buffalo, New York; William Morrison, Ithaca, New York; Frank Read, Ithaca, New York; Alfred Scott, New York City; Theodore Crocker, '35, New York City; William Knudson, '35, Cleveland, Ohio. Following the initiation we had our customary banquet, the success of which was greatly added to by the fine speeches by "Uncle Pete" Smith, "Ag" Tobey, Dr. Merriam, and Joe Morrison.

Beta has had quite a successful winter in activities, with "Bud" Persons doing excellent work as assistant manager of basketball. Jack Little, our manager of soccer, was chairman of the junior smoker, which he managed with no little degree of success despite the scarcity of money. Jack has also been elected to Mummy Club. Shell Reilley was confronted with considerable work on the junior prom committee; Bob Cook has been continuing his work on the Sun competition. "Sy" Symonds has been elected managing editor of the Sibley Journal of Engineering.

Our junior week house party was one of the best in spite of the fact that our Friday night dinner was interrupted by a fire which, although it caused considerable trouble and inconvenience, was fortunately stopped before any great amount of damage was done. The repair work is now well on the way to completion.

With regard to spring activities, Dick Oviatt, Courty Jones, and "Ed" Doyle are out for baseball; Ted Crocker and Frank Dickerson are working with the crew; Bill Knudson is going out for spring football; and Bud Persons will continue to play on the golf team.

When you are near Ithaca do not forget that B will always welcome you.

IOWA STATE COLLEGE

These are busy days at BΔ. The main subjects for conversation are the banking situation, visitation, final examinations, and basketball.

Visitation and "exams" are discussed in the same breath, for Brother Hackett plans to stop with us during the examination week. Probably either one of these could easily occupy all of our time during that week, but we are going to try to make room for both.

As to basketball, BΔ has a pledge team which any Charge would be proud to claim. They marched irresistibly to the freshman intramural championship of the college. They easily won their league championship by four decisive victories, then trounced the Phi Delt outfit in the semifinals, and then downed the Δ X pledges 28-24 in an overtime thriller. All of which brings two nice trophies into the house.

One of the stars of this team is Lowell Peterson of Sioux City, Iowa, who was pledged just recently as was Charles Erickson of the same city. Both will be real assets to our organization.

We are proud to announce that our Charge president, Ervin Osterhus, has been elected to the scholastic honorary, Φ K Φ. Also, Roy Huntoon and Pledges Bob Fries and Leslie Hansen have been admitted to the animal husbandry honorary, Block and Bridle. The scholastic rating for the fall quarter showed that we stood sixth from the top among the thirty-four national fraternities here at Iowa State.

Brother Merle Riemenschneider had to drop his studies in February and go to Colorado for his health.

On February 26 we initiated Jay Armstrong of Humeston, Iowa. Jay is a junior in the landscape architecture department, and is holding down the office of intramural manager in his spare moments.

The ideal time to see Iowa State College on display is during the annual Veishea celebration the second week in May. However, if you can't see us then, come when you can for there is a warm welcome for any Theta Delt at BA.

LOREN FORMAN, Charge Editor

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

The trying period of final examinations is a thing of history. The house party was a tremendous success. Even though the mercury was hovering below zero the lads and lassies (à la Bernie) managed to keep warm in the spacious house. Those that were not able to enjoy the "ole maestro" at the J-Hop had an equally good time at the house dance.

Immediately after the grand and glorious week-end the state of Michigan decided to start something new and different in the banking world. The house had to eat and live on credit for a week or ten days longer than our sister Charges. However, due to the excellent leadership of our house manager, Babe Ewing, we weathered the storm successfully and are again eating normally and happily.

But with all that passed the Charge finds itself almost upon midsemester examinations again. Navigation seems to be the popular course this term and indications are that "some of the boys" will take advantage of the Great Lakes this summer.

The active Charge has been enlarged by the initiation of thirteen new men. One junior, Harold Garrison of Kalamazoo, brother of "Bill," '31. Three sophomores: Donald Decker, Flint; William Shepard, Cleveland; and Robert Beal, Hudson, Michigan, brother of Jack, '34. Nine freshmen: Thad Leland, Jr., Albert Gregory, Thomas Groehn, William Weeks are all from Detroit; John McCarthy, Rockford, Illinois; Bradford Carpenter, Evanston, Illinois; Wemmer Gooding, son of Fred, '10, Lima, Ohio; Frank Battistini, River Forest, Illinois; and John Strayer, Buchanan, Michigan. Though no formal banquet was held due to the moratorium, several of the alumni visited the house soon after the ceremony. They were Frank Van Tuyl, '95; Hackly Butler, '91; Ned Warner, '91; Forest Keenan, '28; and Charles Marcotte, '30.

Because of adverse circumstances the Charge was sorry to see Brother "Dick" Peckham and Pledge Roy Miller leave at the end of the first semester. However, Brothers Jud Peckham and Brian Jones returned to continue their studies.

The spring appointments are anxiously being waited for by many of the brothers. By the time this letter is read they will be relieved of the suspense and worry. There are three juniors in line for the big jobs next year. Five sophomores are almost sure of junior staff appointments. The freshman class is just working into the swing of extracurricular activities but we expect the usual good things from them.

Jack Salmon and Dick Fleming have been appointed wrestling and gym team managers, respectively.

Our star athlete, Hawley Egleston, again proved his mettle in the recent Big Ten track meet. He placed a close second to Jack Kellar in the hurdles. We expect him to do even better in the outdoor meet in May.

Jack McCarthy led the grand march of the frosh frolic this year and thus got himself off to a great start on the campus.

The house basketball team has entered the semifinals and if time would permit we would be able to tell you of another championship garnered on next Wednesday night. The team is composed of Brothers Decker, Bristol, Bohnsack, Groehn, Garrison, Strayer, and Donovan. The relay team has placed second in the preliminaries. The four man team, composed of Brothers Garrels, Bohnsack, Bishop, and Leland, ran the half mile in the slow time of 1:43. However, they expect to equal or better their winning time of last year of 1:40.

Now we only have to wait for the coming of Norm and we'll feel the year has been a success and really completed. We'll see you at the Convention or before if you chance to drop in on us.

W. F. Bohnsack, Charge Editor

Things have been a little quiet around the house the last few weeks as they usually are after "Norm" has paid his visit. "Norm" spent a most enjoyable week with us, and we were all sorry to see him go. We would have liked to have had him here for the big party put on by the alumni just a week after his departure. Our grads put on some party. The house was transformed into a miniature Agua Caliente or Monte Carlo. Every game known, from roulette to bridge, was played and the crowd of from a hundred and seventy-five to two hundred people had an exceptionally good time. Even though California's banks were closed at the time, the evening was very profitable.

We did have some excitement a short time ago, though. Our freshmen had built an exceptionally large fire in the fireplace, and sparks started to fly out of the chimney. An alarm was turned in, and seven of Berkeley's largest engines came to our rescue. No damage was done, excepting to a pair of pants that were "dunked" in some water and carried to the roof by "Papa" Stark who has always wanted to play fireman.

No May Charge letter would be complete without mentioning final examinations. Our finals are over by May 10, so we are all looking forward to an enjoyable summer. Because of the lack of jobs this summer, quite a few of the fellows expect to go to summer school, but we still have some anticipating a trip to Briarcliff so that we can bring the travel trophy to Berkeley again. Maybe we can get "Tug" Shaw to go to Convention by way of South America this year. You will remember that last year "Tug" worked his way East on a ship sailing through the Panama Canal, and thereby winning the trophy for us.

We were all very glad to meet Brother James Steel of E this semester. He dropped in at the house for a day when his boat stopped in San Francisco. We hope that any brother in the neighborhood will drop in and see us.

COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

The big event down in E has been the pledging of eleven men as a result of what we consider a very successful rushing season. Their names and home towns are as follows: John Rogers Mapp, Machipongo, Virginia, Samuel Elliott, Fort Wayne, Indiana; Gerald O'Neill, Boston, Massachusetts; James J. MacPherson, Norfolk, Virginia; Creed Wilson, South Orange, New Jersey; John Bishop, Nyack, New York; Marion Bozarth, Williamsburg, Virginia; Alex Dempster, Brooklyn, New York; Carl Magdalin, New York City; Conroy Wilson, Norfolk, Virginia; and James B. Hope, Richmond, Virginia. All of these men now have the pledge pin on, and we expect to initiate them in a month or so. Meanwhile, they are hard at work in the various tasks that generally fall to the lot of pledges.

We have lost one of our members since the last letter. The one and only "Dinnie" Hargrave has retired to his ancestral castle in the midst of Dinwiddie County, Virginia, where he probably spends a large portion of his time regaling the natives with his experiences of college life. We have had one visit from "Dinnie" since he left us. He returned to get his wardrobe which he had forgotten on his departure.

A recent reckoning disclosed that the general scholastic average of the Charge has been considerably improved during the last year. The only flaw in that situation is that the general average of the whole group of fraternities has improved likewise, so that our relative position is not improved, but remains stationery in the middle position. The next reckoning will show that we have moved up a little, we believe, for the general run of grades in the Charge has been rather good recently.

The tradition of this Charge in regard to activities on the campus is being well maintained by the active brothers, and now the pledges are being urged to get out for some type of extracurricular activity. So far, their record in this field is not at all bad, and they should be well in line for some fairly good positions in later years.

We are acquiring quite a group of airmen down here. There are five members of the Charge who now hold private licenses, and Brother "Lit" Upshur and Pledges Bozarth and Bishop were initiated into the Flight Club only the other evening. The initiation was an affair of note. Miss Amelia Earhart was the guest of honor.

Spring has definitely reached this state at the time of writing. By the time that this reaches print, it should be at its zenith. You are really missing something if you don't drop down to Williamsburg in the spring. That, of course, means that you are always sure of a hearty welcome by the Charge.

DONALD GORDON, Charge Editor

BROWN UNIVERSITY

Zeta began the second semester without losing anybody by examinations. Brother Sam Marshall, Z '34, left shortly after classes began, and he is now working at home. Although just before he left, Sam gave a party which everyone enjoyed, we all feel greatly his absence and wish heartily that he could still be with us. Besides losing a very true brother and friend, we also lost a very capable leader, for Sam was manager of intramural sports—and set us a good example by participating actively in all our contests—and also chairman of the dance committee. Everyone agreed that Sam with the aid of Brothers Jack Harriman and Neil Hughes made the pledge dance one of the best.

The number of active brothers was evened up, however, by Brother Cap Downs', Z '34, return this February, and we expect great things of him this spring on the baseball team. Before the Brown-Tufts wrestling matches a few weeks ago, the Bruin regular in the 118-pound class sprained his ankle, so the coach called for Brother Win Robbins, who good-naturedly agreed to train for three days before the match and take off about six pounds. Unfortunately, Win drew the N.E. champion and in spite of his lack of recent experience held off his opponent for seven of the ten minutes.

Introducing the new brothers, there are Whitney Earl Easton, Joseph Olney, Jr., Christopher Dyer Pease, James Guthrie Krause, son of Maxwell Krause, Z '10, and Robert Buffinton Hull, son of Charles Hull, Z '99. We hope soon to initiate the rest of the pledges. Among these we find we have material for one half of the freshman baseball team since Brothers Olney and Easton, and Pledges Morrison, Guenzel, and Boyd are all potential big leaguers.

The brothers are all certainly welcome at 50 Waterman Street.

C. S. SAWYER, Charge Editor

McGILL UNIVERSITY

Since the last letter, ZΔ has kept very much alive both in her own affairs and in those of the university. Two of our main social events have been our Christmas dance and the initiation banquet.

We have had very enjoyable visits from some of our graduate brothers, brothers of other Charges, and, best of all, Brother Hackett's annual visit. Norm's stay was a great help and inspiration to all and more particularly to the freshman brothers. His pictures of the sister Charges were found extremely interesting by all.

Since we were last heard from, another new brother has been added to our numbers, George T. Novinger, Montreal.

All brothers are taking an active part in college activities, scholastic and otherwise, but particularly scholastic at present as the finals are only six weeks away, indeed will be over for most of us by the time this appears in print.

Election of Charge officers was held on the evening of March 18, and with three exceptions all positions were filled by new holders. The following is a roster of the new officers: president, Austen B. Dettmers, '35; treasurer, George S. Murray, '35; recording secretary, William J. Hulbig, '35; corresponding secretary, Robert J. Nixon, '36; herald, Albert C. Krukowski, '35; librarian, George T. Novinger, '36.

The hockey team failed to gain the laurels significant of the interfraternity hockey championship, although they were a team much feared by their opponents. Zeta Psi once again won the trophy, thus becoming its permanent custodian.

Teams representing McGill enjoyed a very successful year, thus following in the footsteps of their predecessors. Eleven different championships were brought to McGill this year, this being the highest of all the competing colleges.

While the past winter was not a typical Canadian one, and many brothers were heard to bemoan the lack of usual good skating and skiing, yet we hope that even if we cannot show visiting brothers the right kind of Canadian winter sports, they will give us the opportunity of showing them a real ZΔ welcome.

ROBERT A. BROWN, Charge Editor

As this is writen, the annual Charge elections have just taken place. As a result of these, Brother Bob Fletcher of Portland, Maine, was selected as president for the coming year, and under his leadership and guidance Η has reason to expect a large measure of success. The other officers chosen are as follows: treasurer, John Arnold; secretary, James Freeman; corresponding secretary, John Hickox; alumni secretary, Robert Porter; herald, Carl Ackermann; librarian, Frank Swan.

This year seems to be one of achievement for the Charge as a whole. The scholastic record of Η has been steadily going forward, and at present we stand third among the fraternities on campus. In addition to this we have maintained an unusually widespread interest in extracurricular activities. As assistant editor of The Orient, Brother Freeman has made great headway in contributing to the success of our college news sheet. The Bugle, Bowdoin's yearbook, is rapidly nearing completion under the direction of Bob Fletcher. While these are outstanding we have several other brothers who are connected with literary publications.

At the close of the hockey season Captain "Hank" Richardson, speedy center, and Russ Dakin, veteran defenceman, were awarded their letters for the second consecutive year. Charlie Gould received his manager's letter in this sport also (if the editor may be permitted to toot his own horn). Perhaps our most outstanding achievement was the winning of the interfraternity swimming meet for the fifth successive year. Bob Foster, high scorer of the meet and valuable member of the varsity, was the major factor in the team's success.

With the beginning of the baseball season, the usual interest has been manifest, and while we lack varsity material in the house, the annual bush league holds forth each afternoon on the back lot, and we can at least boast of a better than ordinary fraternity team.

And now with summer vacation not far away, everyone is looking forward to a pleasant time, and an opportunity to get in touch with prospective pledges.

CHARLES E. GOULD, Charge Editor

Having weathered another hard California winter the boys at ΗΔ are prepared to revel in a long-awaited spring —as soon as winter finals are over.

Spring finds us still carrying on in grand style. Franklin Thomas has been promoted to art editor of the Stanford Chaparral, the campus humor publication. He belongs to Hammer and Coffin, an honorary journalistic society. Bill Myers is managing editor of the Daily. Lefty Campbell is one of Coach Wolter's first string catchers in baseball this spring. We expect great things of him on the southern tour. The team has a trip to Japan in prospect for the summer. Roy McShea is on the gym team. He and his partner won the tumbling event in the meet with California. Fred Bold, varsity debate man, is on the Joffre debate team. Jack Pope plays first string baseball with the frosh and Millard Walline is on the varsity baseball team. Myers is on the "A" polo squad. McShea is a member of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society. Petersen and McShea belong to the American Society of Civil Engineers. Al Moffatt is out for boxing. Fred Hadley is a sophomore track manager. Several men belong to professional chemical, engineering, journalistic, and medical fraternities.

We were glad to welcome Norm Hackett to Stanford again this year. He gave us several pointers that we are sure will be of positive benefit during the ensuing year. Myers got half a column of publicity in the Daily for Norm, opening him to an accusation by the dean of men that he had a special agent on the campus. It took us three entire days to satisfy Norm that we really were not in last place scholastically.

Thomas is decorating the interior of another one of the upstairs rooms.

Our next initiation is in the first week of April. We have two more pledges to introduce to you—George Murry, Porterville, California, and Bob Smith of San Francisco.

The $H\Delta$ tradition of having dates up for Sunday noon dinner has been revived this winter and has been highly successful. With a full lake, canoeing offers a pleasant diversion on sunny afternoons and spring evenings.

W. KELLY WOODS, Charge Editor

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

Following the initiation on February 12, $\Theta\Delta$ held its second formal dance of the season, on February 24. The affair was exceptionally successful and well attended.

The brothers were indeed surprised to learn upon their return after midyear vacation, that Brother Duane Davis had been married for some time. "Link" Paige is the new president of the charge; we look to him for continued leadership to the fore among M.I.T. houses. In the recent Tech Show, the first since 1931, Bob Moody was stage manager, assisted by Brothers Prichard, Sheehan, and Thompson. Brother Phillips took part in the cast. "Link" Paige and "Rad" Edmonds wound up the season with the Varsity swimming team. We are planning another Graduate Smoker sometime early in the spring.

On May 6, the Institute will hold Open House Day. This is a real opportunity for those not connected with Tech to inspect the buildings, with their many laboratories and museums. Interesting exhibitions and displays will be arranged, and it is well worth one's while to spend the afternoon here. Theta Deuteron will hold "open house" also, and we hope to have many visiting brothers drop in on us.

E. BENNETT BEEDE, Charge Editor

WILLIAMS COLLEGE

With the return of the sun and a little warm weather, $I\Delta$ is beginning to emerge from her winter hibernation and look forward eagerly to Easter vacation now but two weeks away. Semester examinations were weathered very successfully, and a comparison of averages shows the house standing to be even higher than of the same time last year, a fact which permits me to prophesy the winning of the Scholarship Cup for the fifth consecutive year.

The weekend after the opening of the present semester found the house entertaining the alumni at the now annual Alumni Homecoming and Initiation Weekend. At that time we initiated ten fine freshmen who, we feel certain will do their share in maintaining the high standards of the fraternity. Two brothers from $X\Delta$ were with us that same weekend, one of them to be present at the initiation of his own brother.

For fear that I may have given a false impression of how $I\Delta$ has spent the winter months by speaking of her hibernation, a brief mention of some of her activities might not be amiss. Perhaps the highlight, athletically, of the winter season was Brother Urner's new record for the high jump at the New England Intercollegiates some weeks ago. Brother Kaufmann is keeping Urner company on the winter track by running on the relay team. Brothers Boyle and Gilfillan have been swimming for the varsity, the latter for his third season. Brother Gibbs has been kept active managing the basketball team, and Brother Woodrow has been capably filling the center's position. Recently Brother Woodrow was awarded the medal for the most valuable member of the football team. Brothers Johnson and Bacon have been playing hockey at intervals during the past few months, and Brother Sherman has proved to be the mainstay of the Freshman team. Early as it is for spring sports, Brothers Mears and Richmond are preparing for another year on the lacrosse team.

Turning from athletics to other fields of activities, we find a good representation from the charge. Brothers Sargent, Gilfillan, and Johnson were recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa; and Brother Johnson further distinguished himself by being awarded a fellowship at Athens for two years of study. Brother Babcock is kept busy as the manager of the Debating Union. Representing the charge on the Glee Club are Brothers Holding, Millar, and Smith; and on the Executive Board of the Glee Club are Brothers Sargent and Gibbs. Brother Ogden has been playing leading rôles in the Cap and Bells and Little Theater productions. Brother Sargent still continues to guide the policies of the Record, and along with him on the editorial board are Brothers Erskine, Ogden, and Smith.

With such a general summary of the activities of the members of the charge I must bring this letter to a close. We are planning to hold parties here the weekend of May 12 and 13. May I offer this as an added inducement to IΔ's always cordial invitation to drop in and pay us a visit?

RICHARD BACON, Charge Editor

TUFTS COLLEGE

The most important event of the present quarter was the initiation of the following brothers, Kaup, Franks, Coolidge, Berry, Sweth, Maynard, Glennie, Wuehrmann, Davis, March, and Johnson, on Sunday, February 19. After the initiation of the following brothers, Kaup, Franks, brothers was held at the charge house. A large gathering of grads were present to greet the newly initiated brothers. Brothers Arthur Coolidge and Phil Johnson welcomed their sons, Robert and Richard, as brothers to the bonds. Likewise Brother George Kaup greeted Brother James Kaup. We enjoyed a memorable evening as you may well imagine with Brothers A. W. Pierce, Arthur Coolidge, Phil Johnson, Dick Coolidge, Billy Wise, E. Johnson, Howie Lincoln, Clarence P. Houston, and Bob Verge unlimbering a forensic display which has seldom if ever been equalled beneath the timbers of this slightly mortgaged roof. At a pleasing late hour when the larder had been reduced to zero we dispersed, each with aching muscles as mementoes of an evening's hearty laughter. Each of us in turn carried away deep and significant thoughts of the depth and reality of fraternity.

On March 2, the final matches of the interfraternity wrestling meets were decided. Brothers Powers, Giblin, McLane, Grandison, Bachelder and Clark formed a powerful and enthusiastic squad. Each one did his level best to bring honor to K. The finals showed that McLane, Grandison and Clark had scored championships in their respective classes. After the meet, a group marched to the Jumbo Spa to celebrate the success of the evening. Jock Maloney rose and declared that inasmuch as 21 were gathered about the festive board and the fact that it happened to be his twenty-first birthday, he would insist upon being the host. Did the walls ring?

At this time there is an unusual amount of activity going on here on the hill. It's a rare occasion when one finds an activity that doesn't include at least one Θ. As a sample we'll cite a few. Brothers George Kaup and Art Powers are on the lacrosse squad. Baseball claims the attention of Brothers Batchelder, and Clark. The track team has as shining lights Brothers Oliver, Morse and McLean. Rogwie and Reed have been going great guns for Tufts in a series of meets held in Boston during the indoor season.

As we warned you in our last letter Brothers Sinses and Moloney made the debating team and represented Tufts in a most successful season. At the present time Brothers Gates, Coolidge and Morse are in the rush of the last days of rehearsal for a play which will be produced immediately after our spring vacation. We were represented in basketball by Brother Frank Davis. Brothers Herb March and Larry March made their freshman numerals in that sport.

Brother C. Willis Thompson and "Chick" Moors are senior and junior managers of baseball. Brother Roland Groat has just been elected manager of freshman basketball for next season.

We heard, not from the young himself you can bet, that Brother Doug Hornig had been elected to T B II. Needless to say we were proud and happy to learn the good news.

We've reached the end of a résumé of the doings at K. It's customary at this point to concoct some novel invitation to the brothers to drop in on us. For a change let's come to the point without further to do. If you come to Boston, drop out to Medford to see us. We'll do our best to make your stay pleasant.

RAY BELLEW, Charge Editor

VNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Kappa Deuteron proudly presents to her sister charges Brothers Warren Lowry and Lee Burkey of the class of 1936 who were initiated on March 5.

Elections were held on March 13 and the following officers installed on March 20: President, J. Harold Glascock; treasurer, Ed Schaefer; corresponding secretary, E. H. Stonehouse; recording secretary, C. H. Coffin; herald, G. H. Oldsen; librarian, C. H. Kavanagh; keeper of the Archives, L. M. Burkey; keeper of the album, W. C. Lowry; rushing chairman, J. Wheeler Davis.

Semester exams left us unscathed and saw our fraternity scholarship standing jump forward 19 places. Brother Lowry received his numerals in basketball. Brother Burkey has a freshman job on the Illio and Pledge Brother Rodi is a member of the freshman baseball team. Intramural athletics are being competently handled by Brothers Walt Borman, junior manager, and Jim Davis, sophomore manager. Dramatics has been claiming the time of brother Chuck Coffin who appeared in "Good News," annual Women's League production. Brother Byrne is busy pounding nails and shifting scenery on the current play, "The Great God Brown." Brother Carson is ready to step out after the Big Ten javelin championship as soon as spring track begins. If last year's performances are any indication he'll get it, too.

Socially, KΔ has been quite active. Under the guidance of social chairman Oldsen we held a "Depression Dance" on March 3 which was a great success. Music was furnished by our own radio and every-one had a most enjoyable evening. Plans are now under way for an April 1 picnic and barn dance on Brother Baldy Edward's farm, about six miles from Champaign. For some time in May we have in mind a type of party which has never been attempted on this campus. We intend to collaborate with another fraternity and hold a week-end house party. The girls will take possession of one of the houses for the week-end and the men from that house will move over to the other

The rapidly approaching final examinations have cast their ominous shadow before us, and of necessity most of the social and campus activities are over for the year leaving all ΑΔ in that restless state of procrastination that precedes entering the intellectual coma in preparation for the May hostilities.

The annual Fraternity formal held in the Roof Garden of the Royal York on January 20, was an outstanding success and we were delighted to have with us this year Brother and Mrs. Joe Higgins, whose presence added immeasurably to the enjoyment of the occasion. The enthusiasm of the brothers ran so high after the wonderful success of the evening that a "Hard Times" party was held in the Charge House late in February, and from the colorful costumes, boyish exuberance and brotherly hilarity exhibited during the evening there is no doubt but that the event will become a yearly one.

The now famous Charge Orchestra, "The Lammy Deuts" staged a highly interesting floor show during supper at varied times with selections by the "No-Harmony Boys" and tap dancing by the charge hoofer, Bill Fleischman.

Our initiation banquet was held on March 10. The graduate attendance was very gratifying and the banquet was, as always, one of the highlights of the year. Brother Art Kelly officiated in the capacity of toastmaster while Brothers Charlie Morris, '10, Hugh Inksater, '30, and Charles Bertram Pitt, '26, gave exceedingly inspiring addresses.

The oratory of the freshman brothers is yearly improving. Brother Reid Downey won the cup with his singularly brilliant speech.

At the final meeting of the year on March 13, the following brothers were elected to labor for ΑΔ in the below-mentioned capacities: President, Arch Wilson; Herald, Jack Upper; Record Secretary, Hal Arnup; Corresponding Secretary, Jack Austin; House Manager, Bill Fleischman.

The meeting was followed by a get-together around the living room fire and Brothers Bob Kerr, "Domp" Stringer, Ralph Connor, Bob Cranston, Ned Stewart and Jack Rutherford were heard in their valedictory orations, intermingled with suggestions and destructive criticisms from the brothers that even the most hardened political speaker could only face with fear and trembling.

In the recent Hart House elections Brother Davis was elected to the Sketch committee, while Brother Stewart had the honor, single in kind or excellence, of being chosen as speaker of the house for the Hart House debates.

Brother Bob Kerr gave proof of his histrionic genius on Daffydill Night with his inspired impersonations while "Bomp" Stringer with his two hundred and fifty (more or less) genial pounds of avoirdupois brought down the house time after time with his droll interpretations of Saint Peter.

Brother Hal Arnup has been starring on the Victoria College senior hockey squad while "Cam" Clarke has been doing likewise for the Dentals. We are living in hopes of seeing a brotherly bumping contest between the two in the Jenning's Cup Finals.

Ralph Connor's goal keeping has been a big factor in the Varsity Second's high league standing this year, while Bob McKiggan's brilliant shooting with the University College basketball team helped them into the finals. Brother Ross "Hangman" Agnew won the 155-pound S.P.S. wrestling title with an unparalleled display of clever wrestling, speed and strength.

Brother "Cam" Clarke seems to be running things at the Dental College and has just today been elected to the presidency of his year. His parting words last night were, "I think I'll run for mayor next. Will you back me?"

The charge basketball team after a brilliant win from Pickering College, "came a cropper" in their game with the D.U.'s despite the outstanding play of Al Medlock and Bob McKiggan and the frantic coaching of the supporting brothers. They lost out by the proverbial eye lash.

In conclusion we would extend to all the sister charges our sincere wishes for their success in the coming examinations and our invitation to accept our hospitality when in the vicinity of Toronto.

AMHERST COLLEGE

DEAR BROTHERS:

Brother Nichols will soon know how Hoover feels at least as far as being an ex-president is concerned; having passed through an eminently successful term of office, he is soon to be succeeded by Bob Wilhelm. Bob is on the Student editorial board, has been on soccer, indoor track and swimming teams, and is also on the Christian Association Board. Bob is prominent on the campus socially, too, having served on the Soph Hop committee. We confidently expect another year of success under Bob's leadership.

At a recent meeting the Charge chose Brother Wastcoat, '34, as Rushing Chairman, a position which is becoming increasingly important in view of the keen competition here at Amherst; but with Johnny's direction we have no doubts about being able to pick a delegation of good Theta Delts next year.

In the field of interfraternity athletics our basketball team was quite successful, making its way into the semi-finals for the second time in the last three years. Mu Deuteron also took places in the interfraternity swim, with Brother Wilhelm and Pledge Collard swimming the backstroke and breaststroke respectively; these two plus Brothers Clark and Roehrig also composed the relay.

Mu Deut has been quite well represented on the college teams too. "Count" Lane ended his year of wrestling as Captain with the enviable record of never having been thrown in a college meet. Brother Tylee, '36, has shown exceptional speed in swimming the hundred and the relay and will get his numerals. Brothers F. Lane and Leech are out for freshman track, while Brother W. Lewis is out for the varsity. Brother S. Keedy, '34, is expected to be first catcher through the coming baseball season, while Ford Cramer, '34, will be one of the moundsmen.

We have been active in other fields of endeavor too. The sweet voice of "G.C." Clark, '34, can be heard on the Amherst, New England, Championship Glee Club. Brothers Leech and Meyer had parts in the last Masquers production. Brothers Bennett, '33, and W. Lewis, '34, were recently initiated into Phi Bete, the latter being elected president for next year.

Several successes have crowned Mu Deut's work in competitions. Brother Meyer, '35, has won a place on the Student editorial board, and with Brother Hernandez, '35, is ready to start the race for the chair of editor-in-chief. "Kim" Davis, '36, has made the business board of the same publication. Brother Zink, '35, has become circulation manager of the Lord Jeff, of which Brother Browning, '33, has been business manager. Brother Lindberg, '35, is doing well on the baseball competition, as are Brothers V. Lewis and Meyer on the track. Brother King, '36, is also going out for the baseball competition, while Bill Hitchcock, '36, is starting work for a place on the Student board.

We have long ago become used to Joe Crosby's, '34, rushing in to pound out the latest sports news for us to read the next morning in the city papers; Joe is on the Amherst Press. This same gentleman is also representing MΔ on the Junior Prom Committee, and will apply his social skill to conducting our annual house dance, which is set for April 22.

It wouldn't be fair to Brother Wastcoat to end this letter without a reminder to all the brothers who know men coming to Amherst next year to be sure to give us the "dope." We'll all appreciate it.

VNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

The present time finds N Charge deep in the throes of examinations. So far, the casualties have been pleasingly few, but we still have next week ahead of us.

The winter months found several of the Brothers taking prominent parts in various athletic activities. Bob MacKenzie made his letter in swimming and took fourth place in the fancy diving in the Southern Conference Swimming Meet, which, incidentally Virginia won. Billy McClung distinguished himself by fighting in every set of bouts in which the Freshman boxing team engaged. Homer Bast was the star 440 man for the Freshmen in their indoor track season.

Hal Cooper is doing some of the drawings for the university annual, Corks and Curls. Hal is quite the young artist, and is redecorating our basement for us. The work has been interrupted temporarily by examinations, but enough has been done to convince us that Hal is going to have something really unusual for us when the job is completed. We are planning on having an opening party on the night of April 22.

We have all been quite worried about Brother Klie for the past several days. It seems that he received a letter from Cleveland not long ago saying that a certain young lady might move to Arizona in the near future. Ever since then, Wally has been trying to figure out the cheapest way of getting to the wide open spaces.

We have had several surprises during the past months. Item No. 1: George Gardner hasn't been confined to the hospital with a nervous breakdown for quite some time. Item No. 2: Jack McMahon worked for only two hours and a half one day the latter part of January. Item No. 3: Joe Towle recently disclosed the fact that he really is over sixteen and has succeeded in convincing a few of the more gullible of us that he is telling the truth.

We were all very much distressed to have Al Fehsenfeld leave the fold about six weeks ago. He expects to return next fall to study law, so we are looking forward to having him back with us then.

Come see us when you can, Brothers, and enjoy our new ping-pong table. The spring is ideal in Virginia. A hot afternoon, the swimming hole, a mint julep—enough said.

LEHIGH VNIVERSITY

At present, the halls of NΔ are quieter than usual. This happy condition originated with the appearance of mid-term quizzes which, with the inevitability of death and taxes, rear their ugly heads twice each year. The brothers are making an attempt to restore our scholarship record which slumped considerably during the fall term. We hope to be able to report that this condition is only temporary and that the Charge has again taken its place among the leaders in scholarship.

The interfraternity basketball tournament has reached the finals and we find that Θ Δ Χ will play Σ Ν for the university championship. Although we lost some good players at the end of the first semester, the team has been well organized and we have every reason to expect to find ourselves on the top of the heap.

Allow us to present two new brothers who were initiated on March 8. They are Charles B. Potter of Washington, D.C., and Jay T. Rodgers of South Orange, New Jersey. The initiation service and the banquet were attended by a sizeable group of alumni as well as a delegation from the ΦΔ Charge. At the banquet, the speeches tended mainly toward the subject of how the Charge could be improved.

A few weeks before this we were glad to help the brothers from Penn in their rushing. They solved the problem of cut-throat rushing by removing some of the prospective pledges to the wilds of Bethlehem where they were shown the city's chief point of interest, which is of course the free public library.

Signs of the coming of spring are already everywhere in evidence. The first and truest indication is, naturally, the rabid and very heated discussions concerning house party, which always begin at least a month before the great event takes place. Why the more ordinary people in the house must be subjected for so long a period of time to these very technical debates is still a problem for research, but it would seem that the social strategists and the barons of the soup and fish need this time to formulate their sinister plans. Another sign of the times is the preparation for the eastern intercollegiate wrestling matches held at Columbia and also the nationals which take place at Lehigh the following week. Wrestling is a major sport here and the championship team is followed closely. A more painful sign is the sight of two rather portly brothers working off excess beef during spring football practice.

HOBART COLLEGE

On February 27 we initiated eight new brothers, fitting men to receive into our Charge at our seventy-fifth initiation. They are Donald D. Bently, Arcade, New York; J. Morgan Deeringer, Lockport, New York; Adolph G. Dittmar, Richmond Hill, New York; Bardwell B. Hubbard, Syracuse, New York; Robert B. Nellis, Rochester, New York; Sidney D. Nichols, Rochester, New York; Emerson G. Speis, Kenmore, New York; and G. Donald Whedon, Rochester, New York. All are of the class of 1936. They have all gone in for the various activities around the campus in a big way. Brother Nichols was the outstanding floor man on the frosh basketball team, playing a whale of a game at guard. He was also elected president of the freshman class. Brother Speis was elected captain of the frosh team and managed to ring up for himself 144 points in eight games played for an average of 18 points a game.

Someone jokingly said a short time ago that the college ought to move the administration building up to the Thete house. That joke had a very good basis of reality for we are probably the leaders at the present time of more activities than any other house on the Hobart campus. Not content with having the manager of the varsity basketball team for the past season we snared it again for next year. Ray Ferris will be taking over the post held this last year by Rip Palmer. Bob Hynes was elected captain of the basketball team for 1933-34. Next week I relinquish the managing editorship and the job of editor-in-chief of the Hobart Herald, which positions have made me old before my time during the past year. Spence Avery was recently chosen president of the Orange Key Society, the campus welcoming society. The lacrosse butchers have already begun to warm up in the gym and on the campus. Hynes, Faulkner, and Bowden are certain to win their letters at this sport. Incidentally, the coach rates Bill Bowden the best stick handler in college. I manage the equipment for the varsity, and there are several aspirants out from the house striving to win recognition by chasing the balls and saddle soaping helmets. Emmy Speis and Tommy Atkinson have been unlimbering the tennis rackets in preparation for a successful season. The house is simply reeking with assistant managerships, editorships, minor offices, songsters, and even students. By hard work and through bright freshmen we received the "Improvement in Scholarship Cup." We were just a few hundredths of a point behind the neutrals and ahead of all the fraternities. We do not believe in doing things by halves. One semester we are at the bottom of the list, and the next, at the top.

If any of the brothers had dropped in on us at the end of March, he might well have wondered whether or not he had stumbled on to a prison. Fifteen of the brothers, not being able to think of anything else to do during the bank holiday, decided to get these crew haircuts. Now, at the time of writing the Charge letter, a large percentage of the men in college have acquired them, and, judging from the looks of some of them, I would say that there will be many a heart broken when they go home for the spring recess. Incidentally, there are many much worse and less picturesque places to visit than Geneva in the time of love and no studying. There's always an extra bed.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON

Believe me, spring is here in all its glory, and along with this great weather we are having our final examinations for the quarter. The weather is not very conducive to study, but I don't think the letdown will be perceptible. I may be overly optimistic, but I know all the fellows have been making an honest attempt to bring the scholarship plaque to ΞΔ this year.

With the thoughts of a new quarter near at hand, the boys are planning big things both socially and in activities. Brother Jim Wilson, our social chairman, is planning our spring informal for the second week of next quarter. We have all been promised one of the best.

We are proud to announce the initiation of seven new brothers, who are: Bruce Helberg, '35; Lo Saukko, '36; David Herald, '36; Fred Weingarten, '36; Donald Hamilton, '36; James Larwood, '36; Richard Davis, '36.

The Northwest Graduate Association gave a banquet for the newly initiated men at the Hotel Edmond Meany during Norm's interesting visit. It seemed to the brothers that Norm was more inspirational than ever.

In activities most of the brothers are doing something. This coming Saturday four of the brothers—May, Oros, Saukko, and Weingarten—will be in the freshman and 150-pound crews for the only home regatta of the year. Brother Wilson, who has been very active in politics this year, is diligently preparing his campaign for president of the student body. Brother Davis is a member of the frosh track squad, while Brother Larwood is getting in shape for spring football. Pledge Trembley is turning out for frosh baseball and Brother Boyce for golf.

The brothers ask me to extend to the sister Charges our greetings and best wishes for the coming year.

RICHARD BOYCE, Charge Editor

Despite the calendar's promise of spring in a very few days, Hanover finds itself still with the typical background of snow and ice at this writing. It has been a long and lonesome stretch since Winter Carnival and its merrymaking, but we take no little pleasure in looking ahead to the expected visit of "Norm" Hackett, who, with his recent wanderings about the country, should have a lot of new experiences to relate to Omi Deuts, eager for news from the sister Charges.

The reign of the senior class in house organization, under the leadership of "Jimmie" Woods, terminated last week with the installation of next year's officers. The presidency of the Charge was awarded to Walter Bryant of Boston, Massachusetts, who is also next year's varsity soccer manager. "Phil" Eckels was elected treasurer and "Dick" Compton is the new corresponding secretary. To serve as recording secretary, "Tommy" Wilson has been chosen and Gardner Cushman is to act as house manager. We feel confident that the new officers will continue in the policy of co-operation and determined effort so largely established by the outgoing president.

Dartmouth Theta Delts have another cause for rejoicing in the marked improvement of the Charge's scholastic rating. Furthermore, we feel proud not merely for the accomplishment itself, but also because of the justification of faith in Omi Deuts so long held by our alumni.

The Charge wishes to announce the election of two brothers to positions of honor in the field of activities. "Phil" Eckels of the class of 1934 was bid to Casque and Gauntlet, a senior honorary society, and "Dick" Compton was chosen advertising manager of the Jack-O-Lantern, Dartmouth humor magazine.

With the interfraternity winter sports schedules played out, swimming, squash rackets, and bowling filled in the gap before baseball and tennis again held the spotlight. With Fran Chase, No. 2 man on the varsity team, leading our squash outfit, Θ Δ X stands well up in line for an addition to the trophy case. In the varsity ranks "Jack" Manchester and "Bob" Doscher both annexed their third consecutive "D" in hockey and swimming respectively.

As the nearer sister Charges know, Hanover is a delightful spot in the springtime and should the urge for a week-end change of scenery get the better of you we would appreciate a visit.

THOMAS J. HALL, Charge Editor

Half of the semester has rolled away and the ice from Lake Mendota has rolled with it leaving waters of sparkling blue to be seen from our huge back window. By the time this reaches you, "Norm" will have come and gone, and the story of ΣΔ, 1933, will have been almost ended.

Let me write for you a portion of what we hope will be in "Norm's" report:

"I visited ΣΔ and found the Charge in the best shape in years. The entire house has been re-decorated, the boys had pledged twenty-three men up to the time I had visited them, and the caliber of the men is considerably above the rest of the fraternity men at Wisconsin.

"All but two of the twenty-one active members are in activities, and many of them are slated to rise considerably higher in the campus organizations of which they are members. While quite a few of the actives will be graduated in June, there are eight pledges that can be initiated next fall besides the seven men initiated this year.

"The financial condition of the Charge is very good, and more than $700 in back debts was paid off by the active members without alumni assistance. The spirit of co-operation among the men is very high. In an effort to have more men ready for initiation, a tutor has been employed who lived in the house and helped the pledges in their studies."

Brother Rico Judson won two firsts and two seconds at the recent fencing meet with the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

We have not as yet heard how he came out at the Conference meet. His brother, Phil, is coaching the team now. Brother Arthur Sanborn has been appointed director of ticket sales for the R.O.T.C.'s big event of the year, the Military Ball. Ten active members have received invitations to the Gridiron Banquet, to which only 150 men in the entire university are invited. Bob Allen, of "Washington Merry-go-Round fame" is to be the speaker in the year's big panning event. Brother Curtis Fuller led off the Sigma Delta Chi's mailing stunt for the Gridiron Banquet, and had personal charge of a beifer named "Semona."

Perhaps we should have mentioned this sooner, but we wish to announce the initiation of:

Gerhardt Getzin, '36, Milwaukee.
Richard Hougen, '35, Wisconsin Rapids.
Frederick Schwanberg, '35, Wausau.
Edward Elam, '36, Chicago.
Charles Boeck, '35, Milwaukee.
Herbert Wake, '35, Wisconsin Rapids.

Our alumni have given us able assistance in the last year, and we believe that their support has been rewarded by the co-operation which we, the active members, have given to the fraternity. The remarkable strides that Sigma Deut has made in the last year are but steps to a great work in the future.

CURTIS G. FULLER, Charge Editor

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

Tau Deuteron brothers are more or less between the devil and the deep blue sea at this time. The causes of such a dilemma are Norm's visit and final exams. It's a tossup between studying fraternity history and those six chapters of Psychology or Economics that we didn't read. Seems as though finals will begin where "Norm" leaves off. He arrived Thursday, March 16, and started right in gathering scalps that night at the formal meeting. The Graduate Smoker was held at the house Friday, the seventeenth, and banking troubles and pinched pocketbooks were forgotten as the Theta Delt spirit grew warmer.

Tau Deut has acquired some more raw material for a future Theta Delt with the pledging of "Ned" McDevitt of Sommers, Montana. This brings our pledge total to eight, one of these, "Jim" Murchie, being ready for initiation at any time now.

Our famous annual dance, The Africander Brawl, was held February 24 with a pre-depression attendance. The jungle effect was produced by hanging sea-moss from the ceiling and covering the walls with scenery like that which might be found on the Dark Continent. The lighting arrangement was well worked out, suggesting the gloomy interior of the jungle. The barroom functioned to perfection with Pledge Baker skidding the brew across the bar. Something like a bushel of pretzels and 16 gallons of beer were done away with. (Less than one-half of one per cent proof.)

News from Brother Brasset, who fractured his kneecap and tore ligaments while skiing during Christmas vacation, informs us that he is waiting to see whether or not he must have another operation. If not, he will return to school for the spring session.

The charge's list of men in activities has remained practically the same, with the exception of a few promotions and the entering of Pledge "Joe" Almars into work on the Gopher, Minnesota's yearbook. Gordon Williams has succeeded to the presidency of Phoenix, junior honorary society, Fred Halbkat has been cast in more plays, and just as this is being written Dick Skinner won the election to the presidency of the University Y.M.C.A. John Bergan is active in track and Pledge Jack Cowan is a veteran on the crack drill squad. Pledge "Bill" Banister is plugging on the freshman baseball squad.

Although no badges were draped, the brothers were in a state of worry for a while when our puppy mascot, "Chi," mysteriously disappeared. She has not yet been found, and it looks as if the house will have to go de-mascoted for quite some time.

Brother Max Ramsland dropped out of school this quarter as a result of a bad stomach ulcer. He was confined to the University hospital for about two weeks, but is now up and around, feeling as well as can be expected under such circumstances. His illness was responsible for ΤΔ's dropping out of the interfraternity hockey race, in which we were well situated. So few brothers play hockey that there were just enough to make a team with Max.

An inexperienced relay team, composed of Williams, Holgate, and Halbkat, and Pledge Cowan, qualified for the finals. The date for the race rolled around, and this quartet, trained to the minute on pie, candy, and cigarettes, managed to squeeze in fourth.

Well, spring ought to bring a few more brothers from our sister charges out on the road, so here's hoping they drop in.

FREDERICK W. HALBKAT, Charge Editor

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE

In spite of the general depression and the banking crisis, Phi Charge has continued to move onward as another college year draws to a close. Scholastically, we hope to improve our standing gained in the first term, and this term we are aiming for first place. Last term we finished sixth, only a few points from the leader.

In athletics, Φ has maintained her position of the last few years. By the time this appears in print "the big blue team" should be well advanced in the intramural baseball campaign. Last year we won the cup, and hope to repeat our success this season. Beside the house baseball team, Brother Dumont is on the varsity squad as a pitcher. Brother Wadsworth is on the track team, and Brother Williams supervises the spring football practice of the varsity. In the past winter, Brother Finney won the 145-pound boxing championship, and Brother Harris annexed the 155-pound wrestling championship.

In the social and literary fields the brothers are also active. Brother Bell was elected editor-in-chief of The Touchstone, Brother Mayer criticizes contemporary drama for the Lyre, and Brother Schick is on the editorial staff of The Lafayette. Brothers Smith and Williams are on the Maroon Key Club and Junior Prom committee respectively. Although it hasn't taken place yet, Φ will almost surely have another dance before the term is over. For the past several years we have made it a custom to hold a house dance in the spring term in conjunction with one of the college dances, but as yet we haven't determined on the date.

Among other major achievements, the house has apparently adopted a rather

First of all ΦΔ wishes to introduce to the fraternity the six new pledges which we secured during rushing season: Francis A. Barriault, Fall River, Massachusetts; William Lonsdale, Jr., Roselle Park, New Jersey; John D. Mifflin, Ridley Park, Pennsylvania; Allan Walsh, Elizabeth, New Jersey; John B. Hoffman, Utica, New York; Jack Frazier, Wynnewood, Pennsylvania.

They are all fine men and we are positive that they will carry on the traditions of Θ Δ X. Pledge Walsh is out on the river every afternoon with the freshman crew and Pledge Barriault ended up the fall term by winning his numerals on the freshman soccer team. Pledge Lonsdale is out for the current Mask and Wig Club production and pledge Hoffman is a member of the band as well as being out for the editorial board of the Wharton News.

The upperclassmen in the house have not been letting the freshmen carry the reputation of the house in activities alone. Brother Shirrefs was a member of the committee for the Senior Ball held before Easter and Brother Frankenfeld was elected to the Debate Council. Brother Claus has been rowing with the 150-pound varsity crew and Brother Berthold has been playing on the junior varsity baseball team. Brother Ermatinger was elected associate editor of the Wharton News and Brother Brown was elected as manager of the University Travel Bureau for the coming year.

The social life of the charge as a group and as individuals has been very gay since spring and the resulting spring fever invaded Philadelphia. The senior ball began the festivities before we left for the Easter vacation and they ended with the Interfraternity Ball on May 19, followed by a very successful spring formal at the house the next evening to celebrate the Ivy Week-end.

At present all the brothers are starting in to study for exams which start the first of June so as I really should join them in the pursuit of knowledge I'll close by wishing all our brothers the best of luck in the finals.

FRANCIS S. BROWN, Charge Editor

UNIVERSITY OF ROCHESTER

The roll of X remained intact after the results of the mid-year examinations were announced. In spite of the large number of underclassmen in the house, the scholarship average of the house has been raised about two points. We hope that this is significant of the fact that X's scholarship is on an upward trend from the depths in which we recently found ourselves.

We have just elected our charge officers for the coming term and it is with a great deal of pride and satisfaction that I announce them to you: president, Thoral Warner; secretary, Donald B. Fischer; corresponding secretary, Arthur G. Mountain; steward, Harold J. King; herald, Arthur C. Austin; treasurer, Harlan H. Ross; SHIELD editor, W. Carroll Johnston.

College activities this year have found X very much in the limelight. Brothers Warner and Erdle have won their letters in basketball and swimming respectively, while Brothers Van Sleuters and Countryman have received freshman awards for swimming prowess. Brother King has recently been elected football manager for next year, the fifth Theta Delt to receive this distinction in the last six years. Brothers Lagler, Mountain, Austin, and Hogan represent X in the glee club, with Brother Lagler acting in the capacity of assistant manager. Brothers Holbrook, Warner, and Fischer are candidates for the baseball team, while Brothers Austin, Klix, Norton, and Countryman are expected to wear the Yellow during the coming track season. Brothers De Camp and Hart will represent us in the approaching dramatic production.

In intramural athletics we have not fared as well as was expected. We had to be content with beating the Dekes for third place in the basketball league, while we hope to win the baseball cup this spring for the fourth consecutive year.

We have been honored with several visitors this year. Among those present at our recent initiation banquet, when we initiated twelve fine freshmen, were Brothers Diggs and Kennedy from Ψ. Since then we have had the pleasure of entertaining Brothers Chappel, ΓΔ, and Capouch, KΔ.

Such ramblings as these must sometimes cease, so I close with a cordial invitation to all Theta Delts who should happen to wander near our fair city.

W. CARROLL JOHNSTON, Charge Editor

P.S. News flash: Brother Edwin Vanderlinde was elected to Φ B K on Friday, March 17, 1933.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Chi Deut and the Washington grads are all hepped up over the forthcoming annual Chi Deut anniversary banquet on March 25. Recent advices from Brother Bacon, charge d'affaires, were to the effect that it would be a ——— good banquet, and when Brother Bacon makes a statement like that, we all send in our shekels (no checks) for a plate.

Initiations are over with more than one kind of relief. And may the Fairy God Mother who protects us from getting too much sand in our salt and spinach always guide us to the selection in the future of the same high type of men as the four we just took in. Unfortunately, one man was lost a few days after he was initiated. Brother Jimmie Monroe has gone back to Texas, probably for good, after receiving word of his father's serious illness.

New Brothers Molyneaux and Knapp have been made reporters on the Hatchet, giving us two more in that line besides Editor Madigan.

Our pledges snatched the Interfraternity Pledge Council Scholarship Cup right out of the hands of eleven other fraternities, and I.P.C. Scholarship Chairman Harry (our brother) Knapp put the pledge dance over sufficiently well to buy us a seven layer cup.

Brother Selby Davis was elected to Φ H Σ, the freshman scholarship fraternity, bringing our active membership to three.

Chi Deut elections resulted in the following new officers: president, Parker Jones; corresponding secretary, Stearns MacNeil; recording secretary, Bill Wolfrey; treasurer, John Madigan; trouvè, turnkey, and keeper of the inner gate, Frank Backus; custodian of the archives and public reading rooms, Selby Davis; and the future man of arts and letters and correspondent to the press, Bill Claudy.

Interfraternity bowling left us somewhere in the middle. The boys just couldn't miss those gutters. Baseball will soon be started, however, with another chance to redeem ourselves.

Don't wait until summer, brothers, to drop in on Chi Deut. Come when we're all here.

F. STEARNS MACNEIL, Charge Editor

HAMILTON COLLEGE

After a rather inactive winter the new track season has brought the brothers out of hiding. Among the juniors Folley, Dubé and Constantinides, and the sophomores, Rathbun, Nesbit, Chambliss, and Bailey are all out. An even better year than last is expected when we won the interfraternity track meet. Nesbitt, Folley, and Rathbun will be regulars on the varsity this year.

Brothers Hands, Folley, and Constantinides were on the successful choir trip that visited New Canaan, Connecticut; New York, Albany, and Glens Falls, New York. The choir sang at the Barbazon Plaza in New York. Jerry Kennedy has been appointed choir master for the coming year.

The Charlatans presented "Liliom" in the college Commons on March 6 and 8. Howie Lambrect, '34, played the part of a heavenly policeman. This annual play presented by the "Charlatans" is one of the highlights of the season.

A delegation journeyed to Rochester for the initiation on the twenty-second, and some more were present at Hobart for the initiation ceremony and banquet on the twenty-fifth. It is reported that Brother Diggs gave a speech on both occasions.

Spring vacation starts the twenty-fourth and more brothers than ever before are either remaining on the hill or in the vicinity of college. Plans are already being made for graduation and committees have been appointed. Brother Diggs has been named for the Ivy Committee, and Brother Hands on the Senior Ball Committee.

Plans for spring houseparty have not yet been made. It has been suggested that the house omit the party entirely because of financial reasons, but this has met with only limited approval. A less elaborate party than is usual will be given at any rate.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT LOS ANGELES

Well, "Norm" has come and gone again, and we are all more pepped-up than ever here at Psi Deut. Last year we had the famous one-and-only Los Angeles snowstorm to greet Norm, so this year there was nothing to do but arrange the bank holiday so that he would be caught in town without funds and have to stay over for the earthquake. "Norm" was too wily for us, however, and contrived to get out of town almost twenty-four hours before the quake. Now we are engaged in monster secret preparations for some sort of violent excitement next year at visitation time. You in the East may picture the house as a mass of ruins, after the quake, but such is not the case. It is true that a lamp fell over, and latest reports, probably exaggerated, indicate that a pipe belonging to one of the brothers was broken in a fall from the mantel.

Sunday, March 5, the Mothers' Club sponsored a tea at the house for "Norm." It was attended by more than 125 persons, members of the Southern California Graduate Association and their families. Many of the brothers were also present at the dinner the association tendered "Norm" on Friday evening, March 3.

Brother Roger Swartwood, Psi Deut's speed king, has continued to garner outboard motor records, while we find many brothers in school activities. Brother John Boyce-Smith is now treasurer of the University Dramatic Society, and is being groomed for the campaign for chairman of the Welfare Board, one of the most important senior positions in school.

Brother Walt Wortham is continuing his dramatic successes with a part in the spring play of the Dramatic Society, while Brother Wilton Adams, our president, is sitting on the judicial board of the Interfraternity Council, and is also holding down the job of secretary-treasurer of the Rally Committee. Pledge Stuart Leeman was recently initiated to K K Ψ, the band fraternity, while Brother Ross Russell is one of the editors of the Literary Review, in addition to being on the golf squad, of which Brother "Bert" McKay is a prominent member.

Brother Ray Edwards has developed into a first-rate two-miler, although he is only a sophomore, and will probably represent the school in the forthcoming meet at Berkeley. The rest of the brothers in the house are busy training for the interfraternity track meet next week, where we hope to cop a record or two.

Still working on the Claw, the local wit-and-humor sheet, we find Brother Scott Crosby, who recently made College Humor with one of his cartoons. Assisting him are Brothers "Bert" McKay and "Bert" Heath, and Pledge "Ted" Ferrer."

Brother "Herb" Fox promises us a good dance this week, on St. Patrick's Day [ED. NOTE: It sure was] and we are looking forward to his making a record as social chairman with the staging of the Spring Formal on May 5.

This year we are fortunate in having two new members of the faculty who are Theta Delts. They are Brothers William H. Nicholas, Δ^{Δ} '25, who teaches political science, and Ralph Tracy, Π^{Δ} '29, who is in the bacteriology department. Besides them, there is Brother "Irv" Watcher, Ξ^{Δ} '29, who drops around quite often to regale the boys with his tall tales from the Washington woods. Come around and wait for "Irv," if you get the chance. If "Irv" isn't here, we may be able to think up something else diverting.

GRADUATE PERSONALS

A — Union

The Board of Governors of Alpha Charge of Theta Delta Chi meet regularly each second Thursday after the undergraduate meeting.

Since September, 1932, the Board has met 13 times in 18 school weeks.

An average of 6 members, the entire Board, and 2 visitors have attended these meetings since the opening of college.

The Board has inaugurated and managed the following progressive, yet essential, points:

1. A strict supervision of the undergraduate scholarship.

2. A complete reorganization of the alumni group.

3. A systematized attempt to draw to Union College, and hence to the Charge, the most desirable type of student.

4. The re-decoration of the interior of the house.

5. Entertainment of all nearby Thetes, graduates and undergraduates alike, at two banquets. The first is the Birthday banquet on October 31 and the second Initiation banquet on February 25.

GEORGE F. MOSHER, '18, assistant treasurer of the General Electric Company, has been named president of the newly organized General Electric Contracts Corporation.

RICHARD W. LOTTRIDGE, '24, is engaged in the Air Conditioning work of the General Electric Company. He is residing at Stillwater, N.Y.

P. C. TOMLINSON, '15, is at Iowa City, Iowa, recovering from serious injuries sustained when he was struck by a motorcycle.

R. A. RATH, '15, is Secretary and Sales Manager of the Rath Packing Company at Waterloo. Only four of the large packing companies show any profits for last year, but the Rath Company had the largest profits of the four.

"HERB" JAMES, '19, is with the Henningson Engineering Company in Omaha, Nebraska.

Z — Brown

When the material about Zeta alumni was being prepared last fall we received Brother LUCIEN E. TAYLOR'S, Z '95, letter too late and so we publish it herewith.

ZΔ McGill

"BUD" CHAMBERS, Sc. '04, left his salt mine down in Nova Scotia long enough to visit Montreal last winter and attended the Initiation banquet in January. This is becoming somewhat of a habit with "Bud."

JOHN KERRY, Law '11, has recently returned from a visit to Egypt and the Mediterranean. John claims he is overworked but can't get paid for it.

The Montreal Board of Trade is this year being most efficiently administered by the two Henrys—HENRY MORGAN, '13, and HENRY BIRKS, '15. WILF BOVEY and BILL MACKLAIER are also associated with the Board through the Council of Protestant Education.

JAMES ARTHUR MATHEWSON, Law '12, spent part of the past winter in England where he appeared before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

DR. "ERNIE" FALCONER, '06, of San Francisco was recently in Montreal for the Medical Convention.

JONATHAN ROBINSON, Law '23, recently returned with his wife and family from Jamaica, B.W.I., after a six weeks' stay. Some of these governmental enquiries John figures in must be worth money even in these hard times.

JOHN PEMBERTON, '27, is busily occupied investing the surplus monies of the Sun Life Assurance Company, and appears to like it.

WALTER A. MERRILL, Law '12, is back in town from his annual trip to Texas, where we understand he has a laundry which requires his annual attention.

CHARLES E. RICHARDSON, '08, is member for St. Mary's in the Provincial Parliament of Ontario.

LLOYD B. ROCHESTER, Sc. '21, was in town sometime ago from Ottawa. Lloyd, who is engaged in raising a family, will soon be taking off again for the North Country with his Prospectors Airways Company, in search of that much discussed mineral of which few of us seem to have enough.

BROTHER BERT ROCHESTER, Sc. '23, moved himself from Montreal to the wilds of Kirkland Lake, Ontario, where we hope he is busily engaged in selling machinery to the mining companies.

KEN WILSON, Law '21, was recently appointed a King's Councillor. Ken is practising law with Arthur Mathewson.

JOHN V. CASGRAIN, '27, recently returned from his honeymoon.

A. R. (BLONDIE) LAWRENCE, Sc. '22, has been located for sometime past in Montreal. At one time Blondie's address was Inspiration, Texas.

"BOB" BAIRD, '29, is also in Toronto as an auditor with the Canada Life Assurance.

HARRY O. YOUNG, '13, is running one of the most profitable of Canada's transportation systems. As Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Colonial Airways he operates the air service between Montreal and New York.

WILFRID BOVEY, '03, as Director of Extra Mural Relations at McGill is frequently heard on the air.

DR. "PUNCH" PARKINS, '21, was in town recently from Moose Jaw, Sask., for the Dominion Badminton Tourney. Sad to say he returned to the great open spaces with a better opinion of the game as it is played in the East.

RAY BOYER, '30, is working overtime these days. His goal is a Ph.D. in Chemistry.

CHARLIE CANTLEY, '07, is now located in Montreal with the Nichols Engineering Company.

Π Bowdoin

JOHN E. DUNPHY, '13, received the degree of M.B.A. from the University of Colorado last June, and is this year teaching at Regis College, in Denver.

URBAN H. MERRILL, '16, M.D., is now practicing in Lawrence, Mass., where his address is the Bay State Building.

ARTHUR C. BARTLETT, '22, author of a number of animal stories, has just had "Pals" published by the W. A. Wilde Company, the seventh in this series.

ΗΔ Stanford

HOWARD W. CHADWICK, '06, has been elected vice-president of the Monroe, Wis. Chamber of Commerce.

W. T. YOUNG, '07, reports that his bank in Etna, Calif., is still running. He was here visiting his son, TOM YOUNG, '34.

$A\Delta$ Boston

Bill Leake, '32, has been bulging the twine with his usual regularity this season while playing for the Toronto Telegram.

Dr. Hugh Inksater, '30, is at present doing research work at the Banting Institute.

The brothers were very pleased to have Arch and Mrs. Pidgeon, '25, with them at the Hard Times party. Arch certainly gave away those cigarette butts with anything but depression spirit.

Charlie Morris, '10, one of Lambda Deut's founders dropped in recently to meet the new initiates and to renew acquaintances in the charge.

Dr. Tom Flommerfelt, '26, and Bert Pitt, '26, spoke very ably at the initiation banquet though their remarks were confined mostly to casting slurs upon each other and upon Hewitt Littlejohn, '24. We wonder when the battle of a century billiard tournament between these three exponents of the ivories will take place. It will probably set an all-time attendance record in the billiard room.

Brother E. W. Benjamin, '32, R.M.C., spent the week-end of the seventeenth at the Charge House. For the past three months he has been attending the training school of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at Kingston.

The award was made to Brother Boyce-Smith "for influencing to greater prestige Columbia's renown in Southern California as president of the Alumni Club of Los Angeles." He was the only Columbia man in California to receive a medal, and the only Theta Delt.

Atta boy, HARRY! We may need you to throw a barbed wire facis around the club.

CAPTAIN CAYGILL is now an advanced student at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia.

ΣΔ Wisconsin

DONALD S. FARLEY, '18, connected with the Kroger stores, has made Madison his home for the last few weeks and has visited the charge house frequently of late.

DORSEY A. BUCKLEY, '25, of Philadelphia, visited the charge house early in March, prior to going to Northern Wisconsin on a hunting trip.

Initiation banquet was held in the charge house on March 20. NORM attended and more than a dozen alumni turned out to toast the new brothers.

Allow us to reprint an article on Brother Gerhard M. Dahl, '96, which appeared in the Daily Cardinal of March 16 under the heading of "Famous Wisconsin Alumni:"

"Socialistically inclined as a student at the University of Wisconsin, GERHARD MELVIN DAHL, '97, who for the last 35 years has been high in the financial world in this country, has now come out strongly for municipal ownership of the Rapid Transit lines in New York City. Although Mr. Dahl's ideas have always been considered radical and socialistic, he has been closely connected with big business.

ARTHUR V. HITCHCOCK, '28, employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Chicago, finds himself increasingly busy in spite of depressed conditions. As co-workers have been dropped from the payroll, Art's responsibilities have increased.

JOHN O. WOODSOME, '28, who was formerly active in the Detroit Graduate Association, is now leading the life of a country gentleman at East Lebanon, Maine. With his wife and husky youngster, John Osborne III, he spent the Christmas holidays in Oak Park, Illinois, and also found time to visit in Milwaukee.

MARVIN A. LEMKUHL has been advanced to the advertising managership of the First Wisconsin National Bank and affiliated units of the Wisconsin Bankshares Group. This was effective February 1. ΦΔ Pennsylvania

The report has come from Philadelphia of the death of Mrs. Edwin B. Twitmyer, a remarkable woman, who, all her life, had sacrificed herself for others.

She was the foster-mother of the ΦΔ Charge from the time of its installation until her death. Up to this last period of sickness, which was extended over two or three years, she was most active in the work of the Charge. Her big home in Secane, Pa., was the social headquarters of the charge for years. She kept open house for all Theta Delts, aided, of course, by the sympathetic, conscientious cooperation of her husband, Pop Twitmyer, Φ '96.

The three Twitmyers in her immediate family were Theta Delts, and a nephew, Albert G. Marvin, was ΦΔ '29.

Here is a short obituary notice from the Marcus Hook Press:

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Mary Marvin Twitmyer, who aided in establishing at the University of Pennsylvania one of the first psychological clinics in the world.

Mrs. Twitmyer, who died Saturday at her home in Secane, Delaware county, was the wife of Dr. Edward B. Twitmyer, professor of psychology at the University.

She came to Philadelphia from Milwaukee in 1896 to open the clinic, associated with the late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell. Dr. Lightner Witmer and Dr. Charles K. Mills. In 1907, she and Dr. Twitmyer, who was also associated with the clinic, were married.

Mrs. Twitmyer taught oral speech to deaf children and experimented in the instruction of feeble-minded children. For years she had been retired from active teaching. She was president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Delaware County Hospital.

Two children survive, Edward Marshall Twitmyer, assistant personnel officer and instructor in psychology at the University, and Georgiana June Twitmyer.

Brother Robert J. Goodbody, ΦΔ '33, who graduated in February is now living at 1915 Andrews Avenue, New York City.

ΨΔ California at Los Angeles

It was, of course, inevitable that ΨΔ, being so near Hollywood, should go in for the movies to some extent, and it is thus that we find brother CHARLES ("T") BLACKTON, '35, taking a hand in the motion picture, "The Movie Parade," recently produced by his father, Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, a pioneer Hollywood producer. In the picture, a history of the movies which is soon to be released, we find "T" taking various parts. First he appears as a trumpeter, then as Leonardo da Vinci discovering the principle of the camera obscura, next as an athletic young man, sans all but the most necessary clothing, in a sequence depicting early attempts at the reproduction of motion on the screen. His versatility is further evident when we see him next in the picture as a comedian of the later curly-hair-and-mustache era. Finally, he appears in working clothes as an assistant in the monster production of early days, "The Battle of Manila Bay," which was produced in an early studio at the stupendous cost of $3.85. Watch for the picture and brother BLACKTON.

From brother BLACKTON'S successes on the silver screen we pass to the achievement of brother JOHN BOYCE-SMITH, JR., PΔ '01, who succeeded in bringing to the house the history-making first showing in a fraternity house of sound movies. On March 8, Brother BOYCE-SMITH, whose son, JOHN BOYCE-SMITH, III, is a member of the active Charge, was able through his connections in the movie field to bring to the house a newly invented portable sound camera and reproduction device, with its inventors, M. and H. Sebastian. The film shown was one produced by Brother BOYCE-SMITH'S studio, a "featurette" entitled "The Americans Come." The evening was further enlivened by the presence of brother CHARLES DOW CLARK, K '95, the well-known stage and screen comedian, who gave several recitations.

HAROLD SCHILLING, '36, is traveling in Europe at present, and has sent the house several letters and mementoes of his voyages. He expects to attend university in Germany.

OZRO CHILDS, '30, is now employed in the settlement of a large estate.

MAURO HERRERA, '29, is manager for Madge Elver, radio singer, in addition to his managership of the Nourishine Company.

CALIFORNIA HAS NEED OF FRATERNITIES

There are only a few universities in the United States which have depended upon sororities, fraternities, and student clubs for the solution of housing problems to the extent which has been true at the University of California. Because of its proximity to a metropolitan area and its dependence upon the state for support, the regents have never considered the expenditure of state funds for dormitories a justifiable policy on the Berkeley campus. For sixty years of its history, student clubs and Greek letter societies of national or local standing, offered the only housing facilities of an organized type which maintained affiliations with the university. As a result of this open field, there are now some forty organizations for women and some sixty-five for men, maintaining houses on the campus. . . .

When to the benefits which accrue from such experience are added the ideals of organization ritual, fraternity life, when properly administered, should always be a good influence upon young men and young women, and sometimes it is. The University of California, which is perhaps in a better position to judge the worth of Greek-letter societies than most universities and colleges because it has two chapters of many national groups, one at Berkeley and one at Los Angeles, has profited much by their presence. They have our good will and we wish them success in measuring up to their own ideals of life.—ROBERT GORDON SPROUL, President, University of California, Lamp of Delta Zeta.

HARRY W. KIDDER, ΜΔ '97

Harry Wilton Kidder, ΜΔ '97, died on March 7, 1933, at his home, 10 Orchard Street, Amherst, Massachusetts, following a long illness. He was the son of Luke and Mary (Humphreys) Kidder and was born in Northampton, August 15, 1871. He was educated at Northampton High School and was graduated from Amherst College in 1897. He studied at Yale Divinity School, but left in his first year to become a teller at the Northampton National Bank.

In 1900 he was made assistant treasurer at Amherst College and from 1905 to 1931 he was treasurer. In the latter year he was named comptroller.

He married Miss Mary Holbrook of Woodstock, Connecticut, and she survives. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Merrick (Mrs. Charles L. Merrick, ΜΔ '24), and Mary and Dorothea Kidder, and one grandson, all of Amherst.

Private funeral services were held at his home in Orchard Street, conducted by Rev. J. A. Hawley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, and Rev. Charles A. Cadigan, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. The burial was at Wildwood Cemetery in charge of Pacific Lodge of Masons, of which Brother Kidder was a member.

Brother Kidder was well known as a musician. He played the violin, viola, cello, bass viol, and during his college days was a mandolin player. He was a pupil of Edmund Severn of Springfield and Prof. Max Grau of Smith College and for several years was music critic for newspapers.

Amherst president, Stanley King, issued the following statement: "In the death of Harry Kidder Amherst College lost a beloved alumnus who, as assistant treasurer, treasurer, and comptroller of the college, has devoted substantially all of his mature life to this institution. I mourn him as a friend as well as a colleague."

VOLNEY J. ESTABROOK, Ξ '04

Found mortally injured in his badly wrecked automobile on the Wellsville-Andover road, midway between Proctor district and Midway inn, about 2 o'clock on the afternoon of March 22, 1933, Volney J. Estabrook, Ξ '04, of 105 Stevens Street, proprietor of the Estabrook Insurance Agency and one of Wellsville's (New York) most prominent residents, passed away about 3:30 o'clock in Jones Memorial Hospital.

Brother Estabrook was alone in the car and was on his way to Alfred to deliver two insurance checks when the car left the highway. So far as is known, no one witnessed the accident and troopers, who were on their way toward Andover, were the first on the scene, it is believed.

Trooper McCabe, who made measurements at the scene of the crash, said that the car left the road gradually and traveled 26 paces along the shoulder of the highway before striking the first concrete post. It continued nine feet farther, striking and breaking off the second post, and then continued on an angle for 20 paces farther before ramming against the tree where it came to a stop, the front of the machine crushed in. The road is straight for some distance at the point where the accident occurred.

Troopers said there were no marks on the sides of the car to indicate that another car had been involved. They said their investigation prompted them to believe that Mr. Estabrook had suddenly been taken ill or had perhaps suffered a slight stroke.

News of the accident and the subsequent death of Brother Estabrook was a terrific shock to residents of Wellsville, as well as relatives. Brother Estabrook had long been one of Wellsville's leading citizens. He was a member of the village board of trustees, president of the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce, a prominent Mason, a member of the Wellsville Rotary Club and senior warden of St. John's Episcopal Church. He had long been prominently connected with village affairs since coming here as an official and valued employee of the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad Company. He purchased the Sadler Insurance Agency when the B. & S. offices were moved from Wellsville and had since operated the business under his own name.

He is survived by his widow, Dorothy, who has been an invalid for many years, and a sister, Mrs. Minnie E. Moore, of Wellsville.

EDWARD S. MACOMBER, Z '04

Senator Edward Sumner Macomber, Z '04, died at his home, 134 Blackstone Boulevard, Providence, on January 27, 1933.

Brother Macomber had been a member of the Rhode Island General Assembly for four years and had served in both branches as a representative from Providence.

A cotton broker and merchant in Providence for nearly a score of years, he had been identified in that business since he left Brown University in 1903. He came to this city from New Bedford.

Brother Macomber was born in North Dartmouth, Massachusetts, April 26, 1880, a son of William P. and Nellie A. (Tucker) Macomber. He prepared for Brown at Friends Academy, New Bedford, and entered Brown in 1900.

After pursuing his studies at Brown he entered the cotton brokerage business in New Bedford and established his own business here in 1912.

A Republican in politics, Brother Macomber was elected to the Rhode Island House of Representatives from the Third Providence District, in 1929, serving in the lower branch of the General Assembly until his election as Senator in the First Providence Senatorial District in 1931. He declined to seek a second term in the Senate.

A son, Brainard Tucker Macomber, and a daughter, Miss Virginia D. Macomber, survive by a first marriage. His second wife, Mrs. Ruth (Furguson) Macomber, whom he married in 1925, and a son, Edward S. Macomber, Jr., also survive.

Brother Macomber was an active and loyal Z alumnus, attending all Z functions and was one of the largest contributors to the house funds. Many Z graduates and actives were present at the burial.

WILLIAM HENRY KUHR, ΓΔ '13

At Chinook, Montana, following an operation from which he had failed to improve as hoped, William Henry Kuhr, ΓΔ '13, died on January 20, 1933. Brother Kuhr, following his graduation from the Law School at the University of Michigan, had begun the practice of law in his home town at Chinook, Montana, but deserted it to enter the Army at the beginning of the war. When he was discharged, he was in ill health and entered business with his brothers in the Kuhr Land and Live Stock Company in order to enjoy the benefits of an outdoor life.

He was born in Iowa, but moved with his parents to Montana more than forty years ago, His brother, Max Paul Kuhr, ΓΔ '13, practices law in Havre, Montana.

LOOKING AT SOME EARLY FRATERNITY MAGAZINES

A cutline in the April issue stating that "the Beta Theta Pi magazine is today the oldest fraternity magazine still published," brought a veritable flood of protests from Θ Δ Xs, who pointed out that while the Beta magazine was founded in 1872 the Theta Delta Chi SHIELD was founded in July, 1869.

While there can be no denying that the SHIELD is older in point of founding than the Beta Theta Pi, our cutline was correct when it stated, "Oldest magazine still published," for the SHIELD lapsed soon after its founding while the Beta Theta Pi has had a continuous life since its founding.

The earlier SHIELD, however, set a pace which the later fraternity journals copied. The SHIELD, in turn, was like the average newspaper of its day, beginning with a poem and continuing in unbroken columns with news vital to the fraternity.

Another early fraternity journal, not pictured in the last issue, was the Phi Gamma Delta which was founded in 1879 and had for its first editor W. F. McDowell of Delaware, Ohio. It gave its entire first page to poetry, dividing the page into two columns. This edition is particularly notable because the leading poems are by none other than the famous historian, John Clark Ridpath.

The approaching fiftieth birthday of the Delta of Σ N, founded in 1883, will be celebrated in October, according to Editor Charles Edward Thomas, who writes that his fraternity's publication has been published consistently since that date. John Alexander Howard, editor of the first issue of the Delta, has another claim to fame because he published a chapter paper for his chapter, Kappa, which is probably one of the first chapter publications issued. This chapter publication, founded in 1889 and published continuously for seven years, was as attractive as many a fraternity journal of the time.
